nutrient rich larval biomass The book explores the biology and behavior of Hermetia illucens providing a foundational understanding of the insect It then discusses farming and production methods followed by various applications including its nutritional and health benefits as food and feed and its potential in bio packaging and energy production This comprehensive guide offers valuable insights into the transformative potential of this unique bio converter Introduces the basic biology anatomy and physiology of Hermetia illucens Outlines optimal practices for sustainable insect farming systems in a circular economy Describes the various existing and potential applications of Hermetia illucens Covers the nutritional aspects of this alternative protein source particularly on food animals

Insect life-cycle polymorphism H.V. Danks, 2013-04-17 Recent studies have shown that genetic polymorphisms play an important role in structuring the seasonal life cycles of insects complementing an earlier emphasis on the effects of environmental factors This book presents current ideas and recent research on insect life cycle polymorphism in a series of carefully prepared chapters by international experts covering the full breadth of the subject in order to give an up to date view of how life cycles are controlled and how they evolve By consolidating our view of insect life cycle polymorphism in this way the book provides a staging point for further enquiries The volume will be of interest to a wide variety of entomologists and other biologists interested in the control and evolution of life cycles and in understanding the extraordinarily complex ecological strategies of insects and other organisms

Proceedings of the 11th International Symposium on Insect-Plant Relationships Jens Kvist Nielsen, Christian Kjær, Louis M. Schoonhoven, 2013-06-29 The 11th International Symposium on Insect Plant Relationships SIP11 held on August 4 10 2001 in Helsingør Denmark followed the tradition of previous SIP meetings and covered topics of different levels from chemistry physiology and ethology to ecology genetics and evolution of insect plant relationships The present volume includes a representative selection of fully refereed papers as well as a complete list of all the contributions which were presented at the meeting Reviews of selected topics as well as original experimental data are included The book provides valuable information for students and research workers interested in chemical and biological aspects of interactions between individuals and populations of different organisms

Proceedings of the 10th International Symposium on Insect-Plant Relationships Stephen J. Simpson, A. Jennifer Mordue, Jim Hardie, 2013-04-17 Over the past 40 years the SIP meetings have played a central role in the development of the field of insect plant relationships providing both a show case for current research as well as a forum for the airing and development of influential new ideas The 10th symposium held 4 10 July 1998 in Oxford followed that tradition The present volume includes a representative selection of fully refereed papers from the meeting plus a listing of the titles of all presentations The volume includes reviews of major areas within the subject along with detailed experimental studies Topics covered include central neural and chemosensory bases of host plant recognition integrative studies of insect behaviour tritrophic interactions plant defences insect life histories plant growth responses microbial partners in insect plant associations and genetic bases of host plant associations The book provides a key source for students and research workers in the field of insect plant relationships      Proceedings of the 9th International Symposium on Insect-Plant Relationships Erich Städler, Martine Rowell-Rahier, Robert Baur, 2012-12-06

The 9th International Symposium on Insect Plant Relationships SIP 9 was once more following the tradition established in 1958 a forum for investigators in both basic and applied entomology interested in the important and fascinating field of interactions between plants and insects We were pleased and honoured to organise this symposium which took place June 24-30 1995 in Gwatt on the shores of the Lake of Thun in Switzerland 168 participants from 26 countries from all over the world actively took part in the symposium by contributing 12 key note lectures and a total of 141 oral presentations and posters The favourable response and the lively interaction of the participants in all symposium activities is the clearest indication of the success of SIP 9 The organisers appreciated the enthusiasm and the willingness to collaborate shown by all participants The following volume contains written contributions 72 of only half of all presentations This is due to the fact that we decided to produce not only an account of the proceedings but also to publish all contributions as a special volume of the journal Entomologia Experimentalis et Applicata This procedure was last adopted in 1978 for SIP 4 organised by Reginald F Chapman and Elizabeth A Bernays and ensures a wide distribution of the papers within the scientific community and easy access through libraries Inevitably we had to employ the same review procedure as applicable for the manuscripts regularly submitted to Entomologia

Carabid Beetles: Ecology and Evolution K. Desender, M. Dufrêne, M. Loreau, M.L. Luff, J-P. Maelfait, 2013-04-17 The Carabidae form one of the largest and best studied families of insects occurring in nearly every terrestrial habitat The contributions included in this book cover a broad spectrum of recent research into this beetle family with an emphasis on various aspects of ecology and evolution They deal both with individual carabid species for example in studies on population and reproductive biology or life history in general and with ground beetle communities as exemplified in papers treating assemblages in natural habitats on agricultural land and in forests Disciplines range from biogeography and faunistics over morphology taxonomy and phylogenetics ecophysiology and functional ecology to population community conservation and landscape ecology This volume is the result of the 8th European Carabidologists Meeting 2nd International Symposium of Carabidology September 1-4 1992 Belgium

Proceedings of 12th World Congress on Genetics Applied to Livestock Production (WCGALP) R.F. Veerkamp, Y. Haas, 2022-12-31 The proceedings of the 12th World Congress on Genetics Applied to Livestock Production provide you with 816 papers representing the leading research in livestock genetics around the globe This book covers all aspects of genetics applied to livestock production in 44 sections Next to the exciting plenary speakers and the recurrent technical and species orientated sections there are sections focusing on specific challenges for animal breeding For instance large scale phenotyping of individual animals use of whole genome sequence data and improving genomic prediction and sessions on the contribution that genetics can make to societal challenges like animal welfare climate change biodiversity or control of infectious diseases      The European Families of the Diptera Pjotr

Oosterbroek,2015-01-27 The European families of the Diptera presents an identification key and family descriptions of all 132 families of Diptera midges mosquitoes gnats true flies occurring in Europe It is written by a well known Dutch specialist in collaboration with over 30 European dipterists For the extensive identification key a new combination of important characters is employed enabling relatively easy identification of families which are aberrant or traditionally considered difficult to identify Over 600 line drawings are included to illustrate characters and families Apart from the key the book includes an extensive chapter on terminology Information on systematics and the number of genera and species in Europe a survey of the main characters a summary of the biology and of the pertaining identification literature is included for all families Due to its design and content the book will be of interest to the lay public and the serious amateur alike Food

Webs and Container Habitats R. L. Kitching,2000-08-03 The animal communities in plant held water bodies such as tree holes and pitcher plants have become models for food web studies In this book Professor Kitching introduces us to these fascinating miniature worlds and demonstrates how they can be used to tackle some of the major questions in community ecology Based on thirty years research in many parts of the world this work presents much previously unpublished information in addition to summarising over a hundred years of natural history observations by others The book covers many aspects of the theory of food web formation and maintenance presented with field collected information on tree holes bromeliads pitcher plants bamboo containers and the axils of fleshy plants It is a unique introduction for the field naturalist and a stimulating source treatment for graduate students and professionals working in the fields of tropical and other forest ecology as well as entomology Heat Shock Proteins and Whole Body Adaptation to Extreme Environments

Michael B. Evgen'ev,David G. Garbuz,Olga G. Zatsepina,2014-10-24 For many years the authors have investigated the adaptive role of heat shock proteins HSPs in different animals including the representatives of homothermic and poikilothermic organisms that inhabit regions with contrasting thermal conditions This book will summarize the data accumulated in the course of these studies and describe the general molecular mechanisms underlying the adaptation of various organisms to aggressive environments We also concentrate on different evolutionary trends characteristic for HSP systems in the course of adaptation to fluctuating environmental conditions In addition we describe the peculiarities in the regulatory regions of heat shock genes necessary for fine tuning of these systems providing the adaptation to adverse conditions Special emphasis is given to the role of mobile elements in the evolution and functioning of various groups of HSP genes The book combines the results of field studies and laboratory analysis of stress genes systems
