Stokhof,Joske F. G. Bunders,1992 Potential Impacts of Crop Biotechnology in Developing Countries Matin Qaim,2000 Crop biotechnology could boost global food production in a sustainable way However the economic repercussions of biotechnology for developing countries are largely unknown and have been the subject of acute controversy over the last few years This study deals with the topic and provides some preliminary empirical results An analytical framework for the ex ante evaluation of biotechnology in smallholder agriculture is developed which is then used within three different case studies in Kenya and Mexico It is shown that biotechnology holds great potentials for poor agricultural producers and consumers Yet appropriate institutional adjustments are required to capitalize on these potentials Implications for national and international biotechnology policies are discussed Measuring the Economic Impacts of Transgenic Crops in Developing Agriculture During the First Decade Smale, Melinda, Zambrano, Patricia, Gruère, Guillaume, Falck-Zepeda, José, Matuschke, Ira, Horna, Daniela, Nagarajan, Latha, Yerramareddy, Indira, Jones, Hannah, 2009 As progressively more farmers in developing countries begin using biotech crops careful evaluation of such crops benefits becomes ever more important This food policy review examines the applied economics literature regarding the impact of biotech crops on non industrialized agriculture and investigates the research methods used in assessing how these crops affect farmers consumers the agricultural sector as a whole and international trade This analysis offers a tool for researchers who seek to produce objective relevant analysis of emerging crop biotechnologies that can in turn be used by national policymakers in developing countries Biotechnology and Development United Nations. Department of Economic and Social Development, 1992 Biotechnology and Small-scale Farmers: Implications for Agricultural Research and Development in the Developing World Katrina Mary Allen, Supervisor Woodhouse, University of Manchester.
