Biofeedback Research And Therapy:

Biofeedback, 1976 Biofeedback and the Modification of Behavior Aubrey J. Yates, 2012-12-06 In this book I have attempted to evaluate critically the very large literature which has accumulated in the area of biofeedback over the past 10 15 years As might be expected in any area of psychology with clinical possibilities the literature divides itself into two main categories fundamental research studies and therapeutic studies It is now apparent that the clinical applications of biofeedback have far outstripped their fundamental research bases with the inevitable result that the initial wave of enthusiasm may be replaced with an unnecessarily severe skepticism Either extreme position is unjustified Biofeedback does represent an important new approach to the elucidation of the role played by internal systems in the adjustment of the organism to its environment But its potential will only be revealed if its use in practice is soundly based on fundamental research There are promising signs that this is being realized so that there is cause for optimism Aubrey J Yates Perth Australia A Note on the References With the exception of no more than two or three papers all the references in this book have been obtained and read However many of them were published in journals which will not be readily accessible to the reader who may be interested in consulting more directly particular articles which attract his attention Biofeedback, Fourth Edition Mark S. Biofeedback J.G. Fisher,J.P. Hatch,J.D. Rugh,2013-06-29 The chapters of this book were prepared as task force reports under the aegis of the Biofeedback Society of America BSA The impetus for the present generation of task force reports can be dated back to 1982 when John D Rugh as President Elect of the Society announced that the updating of the task force reports would be given high priority during his term as President An ad hoc Task Force Committee was appointed in 1983 and the committee set the following objectives 1 solicit a widely based stream of input from all segments of the Biofeedback Society of America 2 establish a peer review system to assure the highest degree of scholarship and an unbiased approach 3 select for area authors only individuals who have profound knowledge of the area and who have demonstrated the ability to extend understanding by reviewing and criticizing the literature 4 prepare all reports according to a standardized format and 5 publish all the reports simultaneously Input came from several sources Many people responded with ideas and suggestions to an announcement in the BSA Newsletter that the task force reports were being revised In 1984 a symposium was conducted at the BSA annual meeting which included round table discussions and dialogues between task force report authors and the BSA membership Journal of Rehabilitation Research & Development ,1988
