BIOGRAPHIA EPISTOLARIS CHAPTER XI MALTA AND ITALY COLERIDGE set sail from Portsmouth in the Speed's well on 4th or 10th April 1804. He wrote to J Tobin on the 10th Anima Poetae p 68 LETTER 130 To J TOBIN April 10 1804. Men who habitually enjoy robust health have too generally the trick and a very cruel one it is of imagining that they discover the secret of all their ill acquaintances' health in some malpractice or other and sometimes by gravely asserting this here there and everywhere as who likes his penetration hid under a bushel they not only do all they can without intending it to deprive the poor sufferer of that sympathy which is always a comfort and in some degree a support to human nature but likewise too often implant serious alarm and uneasiness in the minds of the persons relatives and his nearest and dearest connections

Indeed but that I have known its inutility that I should be ridiculously sinning against my own law which I was propounding and that those who are most fond of advising are the least able to hear advice from others as the passion II B 2 BIOGRAPHIA EPISTOLARIS to command makes men disobedient I should often have been on the point of advising you against the two fold rage of advising and of discussing character both the one and the other of which infallibly generates presumption and blindness to our own faults Nay more particularly where from whatever cause there exists a slowness to understand or an aptitude to mishear and consequently misunderstand what has been said it too often renders an otherwise truly man a mischief maker to an extent of which he is but good little aware Our friends reputation should be a religion to us and when it is lightly sacrificed to what self adulation calls a love of telling the truth in reality a lust of talking something seasoned with the cayenne and capsicum of personality depend upon it something in the heart is warped or warping more or less according to the greater or lesser power of the counteracting causes I confess to you that being exceedingly low and heart fallen I should have almost sunk under the operation of reproof and admonition the whole too in my conviction grounded on utter mistake at the moment I was quitting perhaps for ever my dear country and all that makes it so dear but the high esteem which I cherish towards you and my sense of your integrity and the reality of your attachment and concern blows upon me refreshingly as the sea breeze on the tropic islander

Excerpt from Biographia Epistolaris Vol 1 Being the Biographical Supplement of Coleridge s Biographia Literaria With Additional Letters Etc The work known as the Biographical Supplement of the Biographia Literaria of S T Coleridge and published with the latter in 1847 was begun by Henry Nelson Coleridge and finished after his death by his widow Sara Coleridge The first part concluding with a letter dated 5th November 1796 is the more valuable portion of the Biographical Supplement What follows written by Sara Coleridge is more controversial than biographical and does not continue like the first part to make Coleridge tell his own life by inserting letters in the narrative Of 33 letters quoted in the whole work 30 are contained in the section written by Henry Nelson Coleridge Of these 11 were drawn from Cottle s Early Recollections seven being letters to Josiah Wade four to Joseph Cottle and the remainder are sixteen letters to Poole one to Benjamin Flower one to Charles Heath and one to Henry Martin From this I think it is evident that Henry Nelson Coleridge intended what was published as a Supplement to the Biographia Literaria to be a Life of Coleridge either supplementary to the Biographia Literaria or as an independent narrative in which most of the letters published by Cottle in 1837 and unpublished letters to Poole and other correspondents were to form the chief material Sara Coleridge in finishing the fragment did not attempt to carry out the original intention of her husband About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing
