Biography Of An Idea Beeby On Education:

The Biography of an Idea Clarence Edward Beeby,1992 To the Fullest Extent of His Powers Noeline Alcorn,1999

The Progressive Education Fallacy in Developing Countries Gerard Guthrie,2011-06-23 This book provides a provocative but carefully argued addition to the theory and practice of education in developing countries The book provides an ethical and empirical justification for support of formalistic teaching in primary and secondary schools in developing countries It also refutes the application of progressive education principles to curriculum and pre and in service teacher education in such contexts The central focus of this book is the formalistic teaching prevalent in the classrooms of many developing countries Formalistic teacher centred traditional didactic pedagogic teaching is appropriate in the many countries with revelatory epistemologies unpopular and old fashioned though these methods may seem in some western especially Anglophone ones Formalism has been the object of many failed progressive curriculum and teacher education reforms in developing countries for some 50 years

Early Childhood Education in Aotearoa New Zealand: History, Pedagogy, and Liberation J. Ritchie,M. Skerrett,2013-12-09 Taking as a starting point the work of Aotearoa New Zealand to provide an education system that includes curriculum pedagogy and language from indigenous Maori culture this book investigates the ensuing practices policies and dilemmas that have arisen and provides a wealth of data on how truly culturally inclusive education might look

A Life of J.C. Beaglehole T. H. Beaglehole,2006 But this scholarly achievement was in many ways matched by the part he played in the intellectual and cultural life of New Zealand in his time A prolific writer and critic he became committed to making New Zealand a more lively and civilised place to live and through his work at Victoria University his teaching his involvement with the New Zealand Council for Civil Liberties and the New Zealand Historic Places Trust among many such organisations his influence was far reaching Drawing on J C Beaglehole s own writing especially his sparkling unpublished letters the author has woven together all the aspects of his father s life into an immensely readable narrative The two chapters on Beaglehole s work on James Cook create a picture of the historical scholar at work and give the book an international significance BOOK JACKET

Teacher Education in the English-Speaking World Tom O'Donoghue,Clive Whitehead,2008-05-01 This edited book is a comparative study on teacher education across ten major Englishspeaking regions of the world USA English Canada England and Wales Scotland Ireland Singapore Hong Kong South Africa Australia New Zealand The focus on individual regions is reflective of a comparative approach with a long tradition going back to the turn of the twentieth century This approach is still valid at the present time as it provides one of the best ways of initially structuring our understanding of teacher education at the macro level in order to facilitate communication of the situation crossnationally and prepare the way for higher levels of analyses To this end the book has twelve chapters An introductory chapter details the focus of the book This is followed by a chapter on each of the ten regions Each of these chapters written by an expert in the field focuses on general trends in teacher education rather than on any specific aspect of it focuses primarily on pre service teacher education at the primary and post primary levels although some reference is also made to continuing professional development strikes a balance between past present and future trends deals broadly with access to the processes involved in and the structure of teacher education has a unique structure rather than one based upon a formulaic approach In the final chapter major themes are distilled from the case studies It also outlines how the book furthers understanding of teacher education internationally considers other groupings of regions ripe for consideration along similar lines and indicates initiatives arising out of the case studies worthy of consideration for the improvement of teacher education cross nationally

International Perspectives On Educational Reform And Policy Implementation David S. Cater, Marnie O'Neill, 2021-09-21 The change process is described in this text which examines the historical social and economic influences on education policy reform Chapters look at cross cultural experiences of educational change and policy implementation as the authors lead us to an understanding of processes and forces involved The three themes covered in this volume are politics and reform politics into policy and policy implementation and educational reform phenomena The authors argue that change takes a predictable format and once understood can be directed and managed This text is intended to be of interest to those involved in the planning and implementation of change and along with Volume 2 Case Studies in Educational Change point the way to effective management of such change processes

Understanding Teaching and Learning Baljit Kaur, 2012-12-17 How do children individually and collectively make meanings of their learning experiences How can teachers become aware of children's meaning making on an ongoing basis Is it possible and useful to create an integrated theory of student learning How can classroom research enhance critical understandings of the situated nature of learning and teaching while taking into account the systemic and educational policy contexts How do differences such as class race culture gender and sexualities interact with student learning How can teachers respond effectively to the realities of today's diverse classrooms What are the current and emerging issues in classroom research These are just some of the questions this book grapples with It pays tribute to Professor Graham Nuthall's 1935-2004 research contributions a pioneering and internationally renowned classroom researcher of teaching and learning from New Zealand It has been written by emerging and experienced classroom researchers from several countries as part of a project aimed at building on and extending Nuthall's research and promoting the conducting teaching and supervision of classroom research The authors engage critically with theoretical methodological and pedagogical possibilities of their research using Nuthall's work as a springboard As a result all authors make links between theory and practice Further several leading international researchers contribute comments on future directions for classroom research and its relevance for teaching and learning Understanding teaching and Learning Classroom Research Revisited would be of interest to practicing or prospective teachers and teacher educators as well as scholars and students of teaching and learning

Observation: Origins And Approaches In Early Childhood Podmore, Valerie, Luff, Paulette, 2012-03-01 This New Zealand adaptation looks both at historical roots of child observation as well as various approaches to observing young children in early years settings A Book in the Hand

Penelope Griffith, Penny Griffith, Peter Hughes, Alan Loney, 2000 As we find ourselves in a technological revolution and the computer screen takes over the printed page the history of the book has become a subject of study throughout the world This collection of 15 essays looks at a wide variety of topics from the history of the printed word in New Zealand

Educational Regimes and Anglo-American Democracy Ronald A. Manzer, 2003-01-01 Manzer's comparative political study of schools in Australia Canada New Zealand the United Kingdom and the United States focuses on five fundamental problems in the historical development of Anglo American educational regimes the original creation of systems of elementary education in the nineteenth century as publicly provided and publicly governed the transformation of secondary schools in the early twentieth century to match the emerging structure of occupational classes in capitalist industrial economies the planning for secondary schools in the development of the welfare state after the Second World War the accommodation of social diversity in public schools from the 1960s to the 1990s in response to increasingly strong assertions of ethnicity language race and religion not only as criteria for equal treatment but also as foundations of communal identity and more

Reshaping Vocational Education and Training in Aotearoa New Zealand Selena Chan, Nicholas
Huntington, 2022-10-25 This book contributes extensively to a better understanding of how vocational education and training VET and practice based learning and teaching is developed and designed It presents examples of vocational education as an ongoing dialogue continually refreshed through engagement between educators and learners M ori employers industry and others It demonstrates how the needs of learners can be met through relevant models of delivery and how organisations and individuals work towards equity of access and parity of outcomes for all It details the origins purposes and evolution of vocational organisations initiatives supporting M ori and Pasifika success and women in traditionally male dominated occupations the roles provisioning and impact of foundation VET across different contexts innovations through Certificate Diploma and Degree programmes of learning the contribution of new technologies to learning approaches and the efficacy of education and professional development for VET teachers This collection of chapters illustrates how Aotearoa New Zealand's VET system is responding to challenging and changing environments through new frameworks of practice approaches and models of delivery As an overview of a system in change it is of interest to VET educators system managers and policy makers Political Philosophy, Educational Administration and Educative Leadership Reynold

Macpherson, 2013-10-01 In this book Reynold Macpherson initiates a politically critical theory of educative leadership as a fresh line of inquiry in the practice research and theory of educational administration and educational leadership Divided into four parts the book introduces the sub discipline of political philosophy to the field of educational administration management and leadership It does this by clarifying the knowledge domain of each and identifying how four political ideologies specifically pragmatism communitarianism communicative rationalism and egalitarian liberalism have primarily informed and surreptitiously provided contestable justifications for power in the development of practice research and theory in the field of study The book goes on to offer three case studies illustrating how political philosophy can be used to interpret how people become leaders and administrators of educational institutions and systems Additional case studies then demonstrate how crises in governance in educational institutions and systems can be analyzed and improvements made using the tools of political philosophy The final part uses the sub discipline to critique the author's decades of research into educative leadership and concludes the book by both establishing the relativity of politically critical critique and the ideology it favours neo pragmatism Political Philosophy Educational Administration and Educative Leadership will provide practitioners researchers and theorists in educational administration management and leadership with a deeper appreciation of power by formally introducing them to the assumptions limits and tools of political philosophy

Henri Lefebvre and Education Sue Middleton, 2013-11-07 During his lifetime Henri Lefebvre 1901 1991 was renowned in France as a philosopher sociologist and activist Although he published more than 70 books few were available in English until The Production of Space was translated in 1991 While this work often associated with geography has influenced educational theory's spatial turn educationalists have yet to consider Lefebvre's work more broadly This book engages in an educational reading of the selection of Lefebvre's work that is available in English translation After introducing Lefebvre's life and works the book experiments with his concepts and methods in a series of five spatial histories of educational theories In addition to The Production of Space these studies develop themes from Lefebvre's other translated works Rhythmanalysis The Explosion the three volumes of Critique of Everyday Life and a range of his writings on cities Marxism technology and the bureaucratic state In the course of these inquiries Lefebvre's own passionate interest in education is uncovered his critiques of bureaucratized schooling and universities the analytic concepts he devised to study educational phenomena and his educational methods Throughout the book Middleton demonstrates how Lefebvre's conceptual and methodological tools can enhance the understanding of the spatiotemporal location of educational philosophy and theory Bridging disciplinary divides it will be key reading for researchers and academics studying the philosophy sociology and history of education as well as those working in fields beyond education including geography history cultural studies and sociology

The Kiss and the Ghost, 2019-02-11 Sylvia Ashton Warner novelist and educationist was extraordinarily famous in the 1960s She maintained that young children best learn to read and write when they produce their own vocabulary especially sex words like kiss and fear words like ghost Educators lauded her Her autobiographical novels about teaching in remote schools and being culturally abandoned in a remote country New Zealand attained enormous international popularity in both literary and educational circles But she had an intensely ambivalent relationship with the land of her birth Despite receiving many accolades in New Zealand she claimed to have been rejected and persecuted by her homeland In her darkest moments she railed against New Zealand and New Zealanders even stating in one television interview I'm not a New Zealander This is the first book to make Sylvia Ashton Warner's passionately difficult relationship with New Zealand its central focus. Its contributors argue that rather than stultifying her the country she decried produced Sylvia and her work. In addition, infant schooling in New Zealand in the post-war years was relatively radical and progressive and education officials seemed to welcome Sylvia's ideas about literacy. The edited collection includes chapters by Maori teachers and others who worked with Sylvia as well as recollections of her son Elliot Henderson. It reprints her Teaching Scheme that was originally published in New Zealand in the 1950s. And it celebrates her novels as brilliant and angry evocations of life in the wildness of New Zealand.

Reforming New Zealand Secondary Education R. Openshaw, 2009-08-31 This timely book argues that the New Zealand educational reforms were the product of longstanding unresolved educational issues that came to a head during the profound economic and cultural crisis of the 1970s and early 1980s.
