Biological Recording Of Changes In British Wildlife:

Biological Recording of Changes in British Wildlife. ITE Symposium Institute of Terrestrial Ecology, Harding, 1992 Biological Recording of Changes in British Wildlife Institute of Terrestrial Ecology, 1992 Every year an army of volunteer naturalists and biologists observe and record changes in wildlife sending on information for a time series database being compiled by the Biological Records Centre BRC During the last 25 years the unprecedented and rapid changes in land use and environmental management that have occurred have ensured an increasing importance for the BRC These papers trace the origins and history of the Biological Research Centre and review the effects of environmental changes on wildlife through case studies Future applications and the effects of policies are also considered The Changing Wildlife of Great Britain and Ireland David L. Hawksworth, 2003-06-26 Periodic comprehensive overviews of the status of the diverse organisms that make up wildlife are essential to determining trends threats and future prospects Just over 25 years ago leading authorities on different kinds of wildlife came together to prepare an assessment of their status of a wide range of Insect Conservation: Past, Present and Prospects Tim R. New, 2012-03-14 organisms in Great Britain and Ireland i The history of interest and practice in insect conservation is summarised and traced through contributions from many of the leaders in the discipline to provide the first broad global account of how insects have become incorporated into considerations of conservation The essays collectively cover the genesis and development of insect conservation emphasising its strong foundation within the northern temperate regions and the contrasts with much of the rest of the world Major present day scenarios are discussed together with possible developments and priorities in insect conservation for the future

Monitoring Ecological Change Ian F. Spellerberg, 2005-08-18 The state of ecosystems biological communities and species are continuously changing as a result of both natural processes and the activities of humans In order to detect and understand these changes effective ecological monitoring programmes are required This book offers an introduction to the topic and provides both a rationale for monitoring and a practical guide to the techniques available Written in a nontechnical style the book covers the relevance and growth of ecological monitoring the organizations and programmes involved the science of ecological monitoring and an assessment of methods in practice including many examples from monitoring programmes around the world Building on the success of the first edition this edition has been fully revised and updated with two additional chapters covering the relevance of monitoring to the reporting of the state of the environment and the growth of community based ecological monitoring Monitoring Butterflies for Ecology and Conservation E. Pollard, T.J. Yates, 1993-05-31 Previously published in hardback and now made available in paperback this ground breaking book is a must for all interested in butterflies whether as conservation biologist amateur or professional entomologist or as a student studying the phenomenon of butterfly populations as part of a number of biology ecology or conservation courses Recently many British butterflies have suffered severe declines whole others have flourished and expanded in range This is the first book to describe the results from a British scheme to monitor butterflies during this period of change The Monitoring Scheme initiated in 1976 by the senior author is based on frequent counts at some 90 sites throughout Britain The combined efforts of both amateurs and professionals have thus produced a dataset with no equivalent elsewhere in the world The book therefore provides a unique perspective on trends in numbers extinction and foundation of populations flight periods local distributions migration and other aspects of population ecology Practical problems encountered during the conservation of butterflies of individual sites are outlined The relevance of this monitoring for an understanding of the effects of the weather Global Biodiversity World Conservation Monitoring Centre, 2012-12-06 Global climatic warming is described Biodiversity is the most comprehensive compendium of conservation information ever published It provides the first systematic report on the status distribution management and utilisation of the planet s biological wealth Conservation of Butterflies A.S. Pullin, 2012-12-06 This book was conceived to mark the Silver Jubilee of the British Butterfly Conservation Society Interest in the conservation of butterflies has increased so rapidly that it is difficult to relate to the situation 25 years ago Butterflies were on the decline in Britain Europe and elsewhere but we lacked data on the extent of the decline and the underlying reasons leaving us unable to implement effective conservation measures An early recognition of the plight of British butterflies and moths led to the foundation of the society by a small group of conservationists in 1968 Today the society has over 10000 members owns a number of reserves and sponsors research conservation and monitoring activities at the local and national level As part of the Silver Jubilee celebrations an international symposium was held at Keele University in September 1993 entitled Ecology and Conservation of Butterflies This symposium clearly showed how much important work has been done in recent years and also gave me the impression that the subject had reached a watershed This was not because the decline of butterflies has stopped or even slowed down far from it the threat to our butterflies continues to increase from habitat destruction and intensification of land use The watershed is in our understanding of the relationship between butterflies and their habitat Atlas of the Bryophytes of Britain and Ireland A. J. E. Smith, C. D. Preston, M. O. Hill, 2023-11-27 The 10 km square dot distribution maps based on 30 years recording by members of the British Bryological Society were produced at the Biological Records Centre ITE Monks Wood Each species map is accompanied by notes on its habitat reproductive biology and overseas distribution and additional maps are included to illustrate various factors affecting distribution Each volume contains an introductory chapter and Human Dispersal and Species Movement Nicole Boivin, Rémy concludes with a bibliography and index to species Crassard, Michael Petraglia, 2017-05-27 A unique interdisciplinary and up to date treatment exploring human migration and its role in creating novel ecosystems over the long term Bryophyte Ecology and Climate Change Zoltán Tuba, Nancy G. Slack, Lloyd R. Stark, 2011-01-06 Bryophytes especially mosses represent a largely untapped resource for monitoring and indicating effects of climate change on the living environment They are tied very closely to the external environment and have been likened to canaries in the coal mine Bryophyte Ecology and Climate Change is the first book to bring together a diverse array of research in bryophyte ecology including physiology desiccation tolerance photosynthesis temperature and UV responses under the umbrella of climate change It covers a great variety of ecosystems in which bryophytes are important including aquatic desert tropical boreal alpine Antarctic and Sphagnum dominated wetlands and considers the effects of climate change on the distribution of common and rare species as well as the computer modeling of future changes This book should be of particular value to individuals libraries and research institutions interested in global climate change

Integrated Approach to Environmental Data Management Systems Nilgun B. Harmanciogammalu, M.N. Alpaslan, S.D. Ozkul, V.P. Singh, 2012-12-06 An integrated approach to environmental data management is necessitated by the complexity of the environmental problems that need to be addresses coupled with the interdisciplinary approach that needs to be adopted to solve them Agenda 21 of the Rio Environmental Conference mandated international programmes and organizations to take steps to develop common data and information management plans and steps have been taken in this direction The key word that defines the framework of the present book is integration The book establishes the basics of integrated approaches and covers environmental data management systems within that framework covering all aspects of data management from objectives and constraints design of data collection networks statistical and physical sampling remote sensing and GIS databases reliability of data data analysis and the transformation of data into information Methods of Environmental Impact Assessment Peter Morris, Riki Therivel, 1995 Written by practising specialists who teach a highly regarded MSc course in environmental assessment and management and by experts from a major environmental consultancy Methods of environmental impact assessment is invaluable for people who organize review and make decisions about EIA environmental planners and managers students taking first degrees in planning ecology geography environmental studies and related subjects with an EIA content and postgraduate students taking courses in EIA or environmental management

Wetlands Management in North Bihar R. B. Mandal,2010 Predaceous Diving Beetles (Coleoptera: Dytiscidae) of the Nearctic Region, with Emphasis on the Fauna of Canada and Alaska D. J. Larson,Yves Alarie,Robert Edward Roughley,National Research Council Canada,2000 This book first reviews the biology of Dytiscidae or water beetles including life history and ecology It then defines and keys adults selected references description including illustrations of taxonomically important characteristics comments on classification or variation notes on ecology and description of the species range accompanied by a map of collection records Checklists of the dytiscid fauna of Canada Alaska are also presented with the distribution of the species recorded by province territory and Canadian ecozone Includes systematic index Forests and Insects Allan D. Watt,Nigel E. Stork,Mark D. Hunter,1997-09-30 This book covers the full breadth of forest entomology It combines the work of forest entomologists working on the impact and management of forest pests with those involved in diversity assessment and conservation of insects in forests Forests and Insects demonstrates that both these disciplines demand an understanding of population and community biology The book covers such topics as colonization of trees by insects population dynamics of forest insects insect natural enemies the effects of climate change and pollution on forest pests spatial variation in the abundance of insects the mineralization of carbon by termites the impact of herbivorous insects and the conservation of forest insect diversity including the effects of forest fragmentation and deforestation This Royal Entomological Society Symposium volume will be of great interest to all agricultural and forest entomologists population and community biologists pest management specialists and anyone concerned with the conservation of forest biodiversity

Beyond the Romans Irene Selsvold, Lewis Webb, 2020-04-09 This latest volume in the TRAC Themes in Theoretical Roman Archaeology series takes up posthuman theoretical perspectives to interpret Roman material culture These perspectives provide novel and compelling ways of grappling with theoretical problems in Roman archaeology producing new knowledge and questions about the complex relationships and interactions between humans and non humans in Roman culture and society Posthumanism constitutes a multitude of theoretical positions characterised by common critiques of anthropocentrism and human exceptionalism In part they react to the dominance of the linguistic turn in humanistic sciences These positions do not exclude the human but instead stress the mutual relationship between matter and discourse Moreover they consider the agency of non humans e g animals material culture landscapes climate and ideas their entanglement with humans and the situated nature of research Posthumanism has had substantial impacts in several fields including critical studies archaeology feminist studies even politics but have not yet emerged in any fulsome way in Classical Studies and Classical Archaeology This is the first volume on these themes in Roman Archaeology aimed at providing valuable perspectives into Roman myth art and material culture displacing and complicating notions of human exceptionalism and individualist subjectivity Contributions consider non human agencies particularly animal material environmental and divine agencies critiques of binary oppositions and gender roles and the Anthropocene Ultimately the papers stress that humans and non humans are entangled and imbricated in larger systems we are all post human Report of the Institute of Terrestrial Ecology ,1994 British Journal of Entomology and Natural History ,2003 Romans and Barbarians Beyond the Frontiers Sergio Gonzalez Sanchez, Alexandra Gugliemi, 2017-03-31 This first thematic volume of the new series TRAC Themes in Roman Archaeology brings renowned international experts to discuss different aspects of interactions between Romans and barbarians in the northwestern regions of Europe Northern Europe has become an interesting arena of academic debate around the topics of Roman imperialism and Roman barbarian interactions as these areas comprised Roman provincial territories the northern frontier system of the Roman Empire limes the vorlimes or buffer zone and the distant barbaricum This area is today host to several modern European nations with very different historical and academic discourses on their Roman past a factor in the recent tendency towards the fragmentation of approaches and the application of postcolonial theories that have favored the advent of a varied range of theoretical alternatives Case studies presented here span across disciplines and territories from American anthropological studies on transcultural discourse and provincial organization in Gaul to historical approaches to the propagandistic use of the limes in the early 20th century German empire from Danish research on warrior identities and Roman Scandinavian relations to innovative ideas on culture contact in Roman Ireland and from new views on Romano Germanic relations in Central European Barbaricum to a British comparative exercise on frontier cultures The volume is framed by a brilliant theoretical introduction by Prof Richard Hingley and a comprehensive concluding discussion by Prof David Mattingly
