Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners Rita Pellen,William Miller,2013-12-19 Make separate library services for distance learners a thing of the past Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners takes a comprehensive look at efforts by librarians and information specialists to provide distance learners with effective services that match those already available on campus With the development of the World Wide Web and the evolution of Web based services reference librarians are adding a human element to the virtual library blurring the difference between distance learners and traditional users This unique book examines how they deal with a wide range of related topics including standards and guidelines copyright issues streaming media and chat and digital references and presents a historical overview of how reference and instructional services have been delivered to distance usersbefore and after the creation of the Internet Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners reveals that librarians do not make a sharp distinction between reference and instruction within the context of distance learning and that there is no clear boundary between true distance learners and more traditional students who might use services designed for nontraditional users Online capabilities have allowed reference librarians to approximate services advocated by published guidelines and standards including the ACRL Distance Learning Section s Guidelines for Distance Learning Library Services to provide a framework for librarians to plan services for off campus students Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners provides practical information on how librarians can keep IT simple when designing methods to access reference support why library Web sites are vital sources of communication between the distance learning student and the reference based instructional component how to set up a university chat service including software selection staff training and assessment how to provide students services beyond traditional provision of resources including advising enrollment and payment of fees how to create an online assistance site that incorporates online versions of traditional print handouts FAQs subject guides course specific guides learning modules and instructional videos in one central location how to work with faculty to create online support for students in Blackboard courses the pros and cons of using open source software how to create an online library assistance site how to create online information literacy course to teach independent research skills to remote students how to avoid copyright infringement and how to educate library personnel about copyright law how to use Camtasia Studio a screen capture program to create audio and video for online presentations Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners is an invaluable resource for librarians working in academic school special and public settings and for library science faculty and students Library & Information Science Abstracts ,2002

Improving Internet Reference Services to Distance Learners Rita Pellen,William Miller,2014-06-03 In their efforts to provide distance learners with the most effective services possible librarians and information specialists are working more and more with faculty in academic departments IT departments and other librarians at cooperating institutions Improving Internet Reference Services to Distance Learners chronicles how those efforts have seen librarians become actively involved in online course management and delivery systems particularly Blackboard Desire2Learn and WebCT or by embedding themselves into the online course structure to better learn where students need assistance This invaluable resource also examines how librarians use Internet resources to support professional and continuing education and to establish university wide information and referral services to provide quality service to distance learners Improving Internet Reference Services to Distance Learners encourages librarians to think more broadly about working with outside individuals when designing and providing reference and other services to nontraditional users The book examines why it s best to consider user needs funding staff management and collaboration development when planning Internet reference services how to develop and implement a required credit bearing online information literacy course and how to apply effective marketing techniques from the business world to increase awareness of reference support services available to distance learners It also offers a look at the Walden University Library at Indiana University Bloomington which houses no print collection only online databases and includes case studies that document the design and development of Internet reference services for the University of Illinois Fire Service Institute and the efforts to provide support for doctor of pharmacy students at the University of Wisconsin Madison in their final year of study Improving Internet Reference Services to Distance Learners provides practical information on monitoring online discussion threads devoted to library research Web based interactive tutorials integrating library services in support of coursework integrating library services into online courses offering promoting and providing instruction to public users as well as local and distance students developing a web site that centralizes information about library services and resources the potential of the academic library to be the central provider of information and referral services for an entire university Improving Internet Reference Services to Distance Learners is an invaluable resource for librarians working in academic school special and public settings and for library science faculty and students Academic Library Outreach Nancy D. Courtney, 2008-12-30 Traditionally academic library outreach has meant reaching out to the campus community providing services to faculty and students Many universities and colleges however now have a new or renewed emphasis on outreach beyond the campus seeking to ensure their institutions relevance to the community at large How can and do academic libraries participate in this type of outreach What types of collaborations or partnerships are academic libraries forming with schools public libraries or community groups How do academic librarians partner with faculty or campus departments on their community projects What role does service learning play Nancy Courtney has assembled a sampling of approaches from the innovative to the tried and true each written in the voice of its strongest champion Historical Dictionary of Terrorism Sean K. Anderson, Stephen Sloan, 2009-08-03 The United States Department of Defense defines terrorism as the calculated use of unlawful violence or threat of unlawful violence to inculcate fear intended to coerce or to intimidate governments or societies in the pursuit of goals that are generally political religious or ideological While terrorism has been around for centuries it was the al Qaeda attacks of September 11 2001 that brought home to the world and most particularly the United States just how dangerous terrorism can be The third edition of the Historical Dictionary of Terrorism presents the full spectrum of forms of political violence through a chronology an introductory essay a bibliography and hundreds of cross referenced dictionary entries on major terrorist groups and their leaders significant terrorist events cyber terrorism counterterrorism and social science concepts regarding the motivations and group dynamics of terrorist groups Authors Sean K Anderson and Stephen Sloan move beyond the gut reaction we have to this volatile and divisive topic by providing a reliable and objective reference on terrorism
