This book examines the audiences and languages of Dominican sermons in late medieval Italy. It is a thorough analysis of how Latinate theological culture interacted with popular religious devotion. In particular, it assesses the role of vernacular theology. Eliana Corbari defines vernacular theology as a form of theology that is based neither on a Latin scholastic model nor a monastic one. It is a third dimension of theology which was accessible to the laity and in particular women through their attendance at sermons and the reading of vernacular devotional works in this case medieval Italian treatises and sermons. Through painstaking manuscript work Corbari makes an excellent contribution to sermon studies, gender studies, medieval theology and codicology. She demonstrates that Dominican friars preached to an active contingent of laywomen, usually members of confraternities who not only attended these sermons but re-read them and also disseminated them through book production to the wider Florentine community. Calendar University College, London, 1895 The Cumulative Book Index, 1995 A world list of books in the English language 1995-96 Accredited Institutions of Postsecondary Education Alison Anaya, 1996 The completely updated and revised 1995-96 Accredited Institutions of Postsecondary Education is the only official guide to the institutions of higher learning that are accredited by national and regional accrediting agencies recognised by the Commission on Recognition of Postsecondary Accreditation (CORPA) Creating the "Divine" Artist Patricia A.
