Art Through the Ages Helen Gardner,1936 Art History W. McAllister Johnson,1990-01-01 These essays discuss major questions that should arise in courses in bibliography methodology and historiography once the survey courses are left behind International Law, Museums and the Return of Cultural Objects Ana Filipa Vrdoljak,2006-07-13 While the question of the return of cultural objects is by no means a new one it has become the subject of increasingly intense debate in recent years This important book explores the removal and the return of cultural objects from occupied communities during the last two centuries and analyses the concurrent evolution of international cultural heritage law The book focuses on the significant influence exerted by British U S and Australian governments and museums on international law and museum policy in response to restitution claims It shows that these claims far from heralding the long feared dissolution of museums and their collections provide museums with a vital new role in the process of self determination and cultural identity Compelling and thought provoking throughout this book is essential reading for archaeologists international lawyers and all those involved in cultural resource management The Death of Authentic Primitive Art Shelly Errington,2023-09-01 In this lucid witty and forceful book Shelly Errington argues that Primitive Art was invented as a new type of art object at the beginning of the twentieth century but that now at the century s end it has died a double but contradictory death Authenticity and primitivism both attacked by cultural critics have died as concepts At the same time the penetration of nation states the tourist industry and transnational corporations into regions that formerly produced these artifacts has severely reduced supplies of primitive art bringing about a second death Errington argues that the construction of the primitive in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and the kinds of objects chosen to exemplify it must be understood as a product of discourses of progress from the nineteenth century European narrative of technological progress to the twentieth century narrative of modernism to the late twentieth century narrative of the triumph of the free market In Part One she charts a provocative argument ranging through the worlds of museums art theorists mail order catalogs boutiques tourism and world events tracing a loosely historical account of the transformations of meanings of primitive art in this century In Part Two she explores an eclectic collection of public sites in Mexico and Indonesia a national museum of anthropology a cultural theme park an airport and a ninth century Buddhist monument newly refurbished to show how the idea of the primitive can be used in the interests of promoting nationalism and economic development Errington s dissection of discourses about progress and primitivism in the contemporary world is both a lively introduction to anthropological studies of art institutions and a dramatic new contribution to the growing field of cultural studies Stories of Art James

Beholder: The Evolutionary Emergence of Visual Communication Iain Davidson,2025-08-07 The book is about how art arose and how it became what we call art today How did art emerge from the relationships between people and the things they produce and the ideas of producers How do people manipulate those relationships in their own society How do outsiders work out the ways in which those relationships were used to make art What is art and why are all people engaged with it in one way or another From its very beginning and everywhere art has always been embedded in its cultural context the contexts of the people who made and see it and that context has often been ritual The history of art confused social and institutional changes of view because western critics or artists sought to define the boundaries of art so tightly that ritual purposeful or utilitarian works were excluded from it In their definition art only existed if the rituals of the original producers were stripped from the works or if the objects were appropriated away from the situation in which they were produced The objects stripped from their context could then only be valued for their aesthetics Art consists of relationships between people things and ideas in quite specific ways Those relationships are discussed at length in this book The book is aimed at artists art historians and archaeologists but also at the general public interested in art It is intended both for people whose interest in art comes from knowledge of the art of all continents and for those who have no knowledge Dimensions of the

A Companion to Ancient Near Eastern Art Ann C. Gunter, 2018-11-20 Provides a broad view of the history and current state of scholarship on the art of the ancient Near East. This book covers the aesthetic traditions of Mesopotamia, Iran, Anatolia, and the Levant from Neolithic times to the end of the Achaemenid Persian Empire around 330 BCE. It describes and examines the field from a variety of critical perspectives across approaches and interpretive frameworks, key explanatory concepts, materials, and selected media and formats, and zones of interaction. This important work also addresses both traditional and emerging categories of material intellectual perspectives and research priorities. The book covers geography and chronology, context and setting, medium and scale, while acknowledging the diversity of regional and cultural traditions and the uneven survival of evidence. Part One of the book considers the methodologies and approaches that the field has drawn on and refined. Part Two addresses terms and concepts critical to understanding the subjects and formal characteristics of the Near Eastern material record, including the intellectual frameworks within which monuments have been approached and interpreted. Part Three surveys the field's most distinctive and characteristic genres with special reference to Mesopotamian art and architecture. Part Four considers involvement with artistic traditions across a broader reach, examining connections with Egypt, the Aegean, and the Mediterranean. And finally, Part Five addresses intersections with the closely allied discipline of archaeology and the institutional stewardship of cultural heritage in the modern Middle East. Told from multiple perspectives, A Companion to Ancient Near Eastern Art is an enlightening must-have book for advanced undergraduate and graduate students of ancient Near East art and Near East history, as well as those interested in history and art history.

George Bellows Revisited Nannette Maciejunes, 2017-01-06 This essay collection by scholars from both the United States and Europe carefully examines the artwork of one of the most important 20th-century American painters and printmakers, George Bellows. It builds on the Columbus Museum of Art's 2013 exhibition George Bellows and the American Experience and the National Gallery of Art's 2012 exhibition George Bellows: The Volume. The volume offers innovative research that explores his oeuvre from multiple viewpoints. The essays challenge widely held perceptions of Bellows, such as his Americanness, hyper-masculinity, patronage, response to World War I, and his relationship to fellow artist Edward Hopper. This is an essential collection for any serious study on Bellows' work.
