Art, Economics, and Change Dolores Richter, 1980 Art, Economics and Change Dolores Richter, 1979 African Art in Transit Christopher B. Steiner, 1994-01-27 African Art in Transit is an absorbing account of the commodification and circulation of African art objects in the international art market Christopher Steiner's analysis of the role of the African middleman in linking those who produce and supply works of art in Africa with those who buy and collect so called primitive art in Europe and America is based on extensive field research among the art traders in Côte d'Ivoire Steiner provides a lucid interpretation which reveals not only a complex economic network with its own internal logic and rules but also an elaborate process of transcultural valuation and exchange By focusing directly on the intermediaries in the African art trade he unveils a critical new perspective on how symbolic codes and economic values are mediated in the context of shifting geographic and cultural domains He questions conventional definitions of authenticity in African art by demonstrating how the categories authentic and traditional are continually redefined African Art and Agency in the Workshop Sidney Littlefield Kasfir, Till Förster, 2013 The role of the workshop in the creation of African art is the subject of this revelatory book In the group setting of the workshop innovation and imitation collide artists share ideas and techniques and creative expression flourishes African Art and Agency in the Workshop examines the variety of workshops from those which are politically driven or tourist oriented to those based on historical patronage or allied to current artistic trends Fifteen lively essays explore the impact of the workshop on the production of artists such as Zimbabwean stone sculptors master potters from Cameroon wood carvers from Nigeria and others from across the continent Status and Identity in West Africa David C. Conrad, Barbara E. Frank, 1995-05-22 the contributors to Status and Identity in West Africa have swept away the dust that has obscured the study of the societies of western Sudan and have made it possible to pursue the salutary work of decolonizing the history and sociology of these regions American Ethnologist This discussion is among the most significant contributions that African studies can make to the contemporary global dialogue on multicultural issues Choice It is must reading for anyone who works in African literature today Research in African Literatures an indispensable guide to understanding the producers of art in the Mande world including the art of the spoken word The writing and arguments are clear and jargon free it will provide a rich harvest of detailed original research African Arts This book is the most impressive effort to look at these groups in comparative perspective The essays fit together nicely to challenge notions that came out of colonial scholarship Journal of Interdisciplinary History the volume makes a significant contribution to the social history and ongoing processes of cultural pluralism in West Africa Journal of Religion in Africa The nyamakalaw blacksmiths potters leather workers bards and other artists and specialists among the Mande speaking peoples of West Africa play powerful roles in Mande society This book presents the first full portrait of one of Africa's most powerful and least understood social groups The Mande Blacksmiths Patrick R. This series of HANDBOOKS OF LINGUISTICS AND COMMUNICATION SCIENCE is designed to illuminate a field which not only includes general linguistics and the study of linguistics as applied to specific languages but also covers those more recent areas which have developed from the increasing body of research into the manifold forms of communicative action and interaction For classic linguistics there appears to be a need for a review of the state of the art which will provide a reference base for the rapid advances in research undertaken from a variety of theoretical standpoints while in the more recent branches of communication science the handbooks will give researchers both an overview and orientation To attain these objectives the series will aim for a standard comparable to that of the leading handbooks in other disciplines and to this end will strive for comprehensiveness theoretical explicitness reliable documentation of data and findings and up to date methodology The editors both of the series and of the individual volumes and the individual contributors are committed to this aim The languages of publication are English German and French The main aim of the series is to provide an appropriate account of the state of the art in the various areas of linguistics and communication science covered by each of the various handbooks however no inflexible pre set limits will be imposed on the scope of each volume The series is open ended and can thus take account of further developments in the field This conception coupled with the necessity of allowing adequate time for each volume to be prepared with the necessary care means that there is no set time table for the publication of the whole series Each volume will be a self contained work complete in itself The order in which the handbooks are published does not imply any rank ordering but is determined by the way in which the series is organized the editor of the whole series enlist a competent editor for each individual volume Once the principal editor for a volume has been found he or she then has a completely free hand in the choice of co editors and contributors The editors plan each volume independently of the others being governed only by general formal principles The series editor only intervene where questions of delineation between individual volumes are concerned It is felt that this modus operandi is best suited to achieving the objectives of the series namely to give a competent account of the present state of knowledge and of the perception of the problems in the area covered by each volume Art and Oracle Alisa LaGamma, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 2000 Twenty eight African cultures are represented here by artifacts created to communicate with ancestors spirits and gods about such issues as health conception and determination of guilt or innocence Issued in conjunction with an April July 2000 exhibit at The Metropolitan Museum of Art NY this catalog contains extensive ethnographic descriptive and interpretive text in connection with each of 50 pictured pieces as well as a 13 page essay about divination in Sub Saharan Africa by John Pemberton III and an introductory essay by LaGamma Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Unpacking Culture Ruth B. Phillips, Christopher B. Steiner, 1999-01-30 An outstanding set of studies that work well with each other to produce truly substantial and rich insights into the making and consuming of art in the colonial and post colonial world Susan S Bean Curator Peabody Essex Museum Griot Potters of the Folona Barbara E. Frank, 2022-02-02 Griot Potters of the Folona reconstructs the past of a particular group of West African women potters using evidence found in their artistry and techniques The potters of the Folona region of southeastern Mali serve a diverse clientele and firing thousands of pots weekly during the height of the dry season Although they identify themselves as Mande the unique styles and types of objects the Folona women make and more importantly the way they form and fire them are fundamentally different from Mande potters to the north and west Through a brilliant comparative analysis of pottery production methods across the region especially how the pots are formed and the way the techniques are taught by mothers to daughters Barbara Frank concludes that the mothers of the potters of the Folona very likely came from the south and east marrying Mande griots West African leatherworkers who are better known as storytellers or musicians as they made their way south in search of clientele as early as the 14th or 15th century CE While the women may have nominally given up their mothers identities through marriage over the generations the potters preserved their maternal heritage through their technological style passing this knowledge on to their daughters and thus transforming the very nature of what it means to be a Mande griot This is a story of resilience and the continuity of cultural heritage in the hands of women Beauty in Context Wilfried van Damme, 2021-11-01 This is the first study to survey the field of the anthropology of aesthetics which during the last few decades has emerged on the cross roads between anthropology and non Western art scholarship While critically examining the available literature thereby addressing such basic issues as the existence of aesthetic universals the author elaborates on a central thesis which concerns the relationship between aesthetic preference and sociocultural ideals Drawing on empirical data from several African cultures he demonstrates that varying notions of beauty are inspired by varying sociocultural ideals thus shedding light on the phenomenon of cultural relativism in aesthetic preference Emphasizing unity within diversity the systematic anthropological approach offered in this volume invites the reader to reconsider aesthetic preference from an empirical cross cultural and contextual perspective The Messages of Tourist Art Bennetta Jules-Rosette, 2013-04-17

Tourist art may be a billion dollar business Nevertheless such art is despised What is worse the bad culture is seen as driving out the good Commercialization is assumed to destroy traditional arts and crafts replacing them with junk The process is seen as demeaning to artists in the traditional societies who are seduced into a type of whoredom unfeeling production of false beauty for money The arts remain problematic for the social sciences Sociology textbooks treat the arts as subordinate reflections of social forces norms or groups Anthropology textbooks conventionally isolate the arts in a separate chapter failing to integrate them with analyses of kinship economics politics language or biology Textbooks reflect the guiding theories which emphasize such factors as modes of production patterns of thought or biological and normative constraints but their authors have not adequately formulated the aesthetic dimension One may compare the theoretical status of the arts to that of religion After the contributions by Emile Durkheim and Max Weber the sociology of religion is well established but where is a Durkheim or Weber for the sociology of art What is true of the social sciences in general holds for understanding of modernization in the Third World These processes and those places are analyzed economically politically and socially but the aesthetic dimension is treated in isolation if at all and is poorly grasped in relation to the other forces Aesthetic
