Hegel and the Present of Art's Past Character Alberto L. Siani, 2023-08-11 This book reclaims Hegel's notion of the end of art or more precisely of art's past character not just as a piece of the history of philosophy but as a living critical and interpretive methodology. It addresses the presence of the past character of art in both Hegel and contemporary philosophy and aesthetics. The book's innovative contribution lies in unifying the Hegelian thesis with discussions of contemporary art and philosophy. The author not only offers a Hegelian exegesis but also applies the idea of the past character of art to themes that are related to both Hegel's philosophy such as the French Revolution and the modern state, Kantian aesthetics and religion, and the sacred space disclosed for art, and going beyond Hegel such as Celan's poetry, Gramsci's criticism of Croce, human rights, and even the grunge rock band Pearl Jam. Conversely, such non-Hegelian explorations will help enlighten what may look like a specific thread of Hegel's aesthetics but can be used to shed light on some core motives of his philosophy. The author's interpretation of art's past character reclaims the full value, attractiveness, and philosophical soundness of Hegel's thesis while rejecting its interpretation in terms of a complete dissolution of the aesthetic element into the philosophical one. Hegel and the Present of Art's Past Character will be of interest to scholars and advanced students working on Hegel's philosophy of art and aesthetics, history of philosophy, political philosophy, and art theory.

Black Artists in Their Own Words Lisa Farrington, 2025 The first book to center Black artists' voices on Black aesthetics, revealing a century of evolving relationships to race, identity, and art. What is Black art? No one has thought harder about that question than Black artists, yet their perspectives have been largely ignored. Instead, their stories have been told by intellectuals like W. E. B. Du Bois and Alain Locke, who defined a school of Black art in the early twentieth century. For the first time, Black Artists in Their Own Words offers an insightful corrective. Esteemed art historian Lisa Farrington gathers writing spanning a century across the United States, the Caribbean, and the African continent, including from renowned artists Henry Tanner, Nancy Elizabeth Prophet, Romare Bearden, Wifredo Lam, Renee Cox, and many more that reveals both evolutions and equivocations. Many artists, especially during the civil rights era, have embraced Black aesthetics as a source of empowerment. Others prefer to be artists first and Black second, while some have rejected racial identification entirely. Here, Black artists reclaim their work from reductive critical narratives, sharing the motivations underlying their struggles to create in a white-dominated art world.

Between Point Zero and the Iron Curtain, 2024-10-28 This volume, edited by Eva Forgács, with contributions from art historians from across Europe and the Americas, analyzes the artistic initiatives of the short time span between the end of World War II and the onset of the Cold War. In this moment, a new internationalism was anticipated by retrieving pre-war modernism as well as creating the new era's new artistic lingua franca. The chapters include, in depth, case studies that analyze the complex, often interconnected projects throughout the world, South America, and Eastern and Western Europe, that were soon ended by the Cold War.

Seventeenth Century Dutch Art offers a new perspective on the art of the Dutch Golden Age by exploring the interaction between the gift's symbolic economy of reciprocity and obligation and the artistic culture of early modern Holland. Gifts of art were pervasive in seventeenth century Europe and many Dutch artists like their counterparts elsewhere embraced gift giving to cultivate relations with patrons, art lovers, and other members of their social networks. Rembrandt also created distinctive works to function within a context of gift exchange and both Rembrandt and Vermeer engaged the ethics of the gift to identify their creative labor as motivated by what contemporaries called a love of art, not materialistic gain. In the merchant republic's vibrant market for art, networks of gift relations and the anti-economic rhetoric of the gift mingled with the growing dimension of commerce, revealing a unique chapter in the interconnected history of gift giving and art making.

The book was written to assist other individuals who have decided to make art a career. It contains helpful acrylic painting tips as well as information on galleries, art competitions, exhibiting one's work, and more. This book does not contain photographs but instead valuable information for emerging artists. Art-Union, 1861 Art History and Its Institutions Elizabeth Mansfield, 2002 What is art history? The answer depends on who asks the question. Museum staff, academics, art critics, collectors, dealers, and artists themselves all stake competing claims to the aims, methods, and history of art history. Dependent on and sustained by different and often competing institutions, art history remains a multi-faceted field of study. Art History and Its Institutions focuses on the professional and institutional formation of art history, showing how the discourses that shaped its creation continue to define the field today. Grouped into three sections, articles examine the sites where art history is taught and studied, the role of institutions in conferring legitimacy, the relationship between modernism and art history, and the systems that define and control it. From museums and universities to law courts and photography studios, the contributors explore a range of different institutions, revealing the complexity of their interaction and their impact on the discipline of art history. BOOK JACKET

State of Mind Constance Lewallen, Karen Moss, Julia Bryan-Wilson, Anne Rorimer, 2011-10-31 There is not a trace of the provincial nor the apologetic in the tone of the State of Mind texts. Rather, there is a justified claim for the sophisticated originality of this Californian art. Sophisticated because the authors have convincingly argued that the artists, for the most part, had many conscious connections and familiarity with art from the rest of the country and Europe, yet were driven by a desire to be independent and different Moira Roth editor and contributor The Amazing Decade Women and Performance Art in America 1970 1980 State of Mind New California Art circa 1970 is an essential overview of the rich and complex moment when California assumed its role as a leading center for the making and exhibition of the kind of adventurous and progressive art that immediately fascinated the world and over the years has come to define a generation and a region An unmatched source of hard to find primary images combined with thought provoking critical essays this book can easily function as a standard text on this subject David Ross former director of SFMOMA and the Whitney Museum of American Art and currently Chairman of the MFA program in Art Practice at The School of Visual Arts
