German, 2005 Are we to believe that Late Minoan Crete was over run with dancers and bull leapers As Senta German shows dancing and bull leaping were the most prevalent themes of Late Bronze Age glyptic art although aside from their demonstration of a social and perhaps symbolic activity they also had a much deeper function in Late Minoan society Aegean Bronze Age Art Carl Knappett, 2020 How do we interpret ancient art created before written texts Scholars usually put ancient art into conversation with ancient texts in order to interpret its meaning But for earlier periods without texts such as in the Bronze Age Aegean this method is redundant Using cutting edge theory from art history archaeology and anthropology Carl Knappett offers a new approach to this problem by identifying distinct actions such as modelling combining and imprinting whereby meaning is scaffolded through the materials themselves By showing how these actions work in the context of specific bodies of material Knappett brings to life the fascinating art of Minoan Crete and surrounding areas in novel ways With a special focus on how creativity manifests itself in these processes he makes an argument for not just how creativity emerges through specific material engagements but also why creativity might be especially valued at particular moments Picturing the Bronze Age Johan Ling, Peter Skoglund, Ulf Bertilsson, 2015-02-28 Pictures from the Bronze Age are numerous vivid and complex There is no other prehistoric period that has produced such a wide range of images spanning from rock art to figurines to decoration on bronzes and gold Fourteen papers with a geographical coverage from Scandinavia to the Iberian Peninsula examine a wide range of topics reflecting the many forms and expressions of Bronze Age imagery encompassing important themes including religion materiality mobility interaction power and gender Contributors explore specific elements of rock art in some detail such as the representation of the human form images of manslaughter and gender identities The relationship between rock art imagery and its location on the one hand and metalwork and networks of trade and exchange of both materials and ideas on the other are considered Modern and ancient perceptions of rock art are discussed in particular the changing perceptions that have developed during almost 150 years of documented research Picturing the Bronze Age is based on an international workshop with the same title held in Tanum Sweden in October 2012 The Great Bronze Age of China Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), Robert W. Bagley, Jenny F. So, Maxwell K. Hearn, 1980 Describes the Chinese Bronze Age including the development of the Chinese state writing religion and architecture The Decorative Art of Crete in the Bronze Age Edith Hall Dohan, 1907 The Great Bronze Age of China Robert W.. Hearn, 1950 Bronze Age Rock Art in Iberia and Scandinavia Johan Ling, Marta Díaz-Guardamino, Christian Horn, John Koch, Zofia Anna Stos-Gale, 2024-08-31 Discusses new evidence of interactions between Scandinavia and Iberia during the

Bronze Age and cross references warrior iconography in both societies Recent research has uncovered new evidence of long distance interactions between Scandinavia and Iberia during the Late Bronze Age Advances in various lines of inquiry such as 3D recording of rock art iconography metals and amber sourcing linguistics and to some extent more indirect indications from human remains as reflected by strontium and aDNA results have made this possible The main goal of this book is to cross reference Iberian Late Bronze Age warrior iconography with Scandinavian warrior iconography However we will also account for links based on archeometallurgical evidence linguistics and other lines of inquiry such as Baltic Amber and metal artifacts The results have been produced within the framework of the RAW project an international undertaking funded by the Swedish Research Council The RAW project is motivated by the discovery of isotopic and chemical evidence for Nordic Bronze Age artifacts made of copper that originated in the Iberian Peninsula These findings led to re opening two long known but poorly explained phenomena 1 numerous shared motifs and close formal parallels in the rock art of Scandinavia and Iberian warrior stelae and 2 a large body of inherited words shared by the Celtic and Germanic languages but not the other Indo European branches An integrated explanation for the three phenomena Iberian metal in Scandinavia parallels in Bronze Age rock carvings and Celto Germanic vocabulary could now be formulated as a testable hypothesis an episode in the Bronze Age when materials and ideas were exchanged over long distances between Scandinavia and the Atlantic West including the Iberian Peninsula

The Accomplished Art George Eogan,1994 Around 1500 gold objects from the British and Irish Bronze Age survive in collections today Based on studies of these objects this volume presents an evaluation and interpretation of the material in social terms and is complemented by distribution maps and illustrations of typical examples of each class or sub class in their own right gold objects of the Bronze Age are also vital documents aiding our understanding not only of the work of craftsmen and technicians but also of the broader aspects of society such as social stratification trade commerce and ritual After examining the natural and historical setting of British and Irish gold this book looks at gold working at four main periods during the Bronze Age Beaker societies and the earliest insular gold objects gold working in an age of industrial expansion and wealth cultural transformation of the 13th 12th centuries BC final late Bronze Age gold apogee and end cultural processes that lie behind creative expression Treasures from the Bronze Age of China Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),1980 Describes and interprets the spectacular works of art presented in the exhibition lent to 5 American museums by China Not only describes some of the most important recent archaeological discoveries in China but provides information about 1500 year Chinese Art and Society in Cyprus from the Bronze Age into the Iron Age Joanna S. Smith,2014-07-28 Dramatic social and political change marks the period from the end of the Late Bronze Age into the Iron Age ca 1300 700 BCE across the Mediterranean Inland palatial centers of bureaucratic power weakened or collapsed ca 1200 BCE while entrepreneurial exchange by sea survived and even expanded becoming the Mediterranean wide network of Phoenician trade At the heart of that system was Kition one of the largest harbor cities of ancient Cyprus Earlier research has suggested that Phoenician rule was established at Kition after the abandonment of part of its Bronze Age settlement A reexamination of Kition s architecture stratigraphy inscriptions sculpture and ceramics demonstrates that it was not abandoned This study emphasizes the placement and scale of images and how they reveal the development of economic and social control at Kition from its establishment in the thirteenth century BCE until the development of a centralized form of government by the Phoenicians backed by the Assyrian king in 707 BCE Picturing the Bronze Age Johan Ling,Peter Skoglund,Ulf Bertilsson,2015-02-28 Pictures from the Bronze Age are numerous vivid and complex There is no other prehistoric period that has produced such a wide range of images spanning from rock art to figurines to decoration on bronzes and gold Fourteen papers with a geographical coverage from Scandinavia to the Iberian Peninsula examine a wide range of topics reflecting the many forms and expressions of Bronze Age imagery encompassing important themes including religion materiality mobility interaction power and gender Contributors explore specific elements of rock art in some detail such as the representation of the human form images of manslaughter and gender identities The relationship between rock art imagery and its location on the one hand and metalwork and networks of trade and exchange of both materials and ideas on the other are considered Modern and ancient perceptions of rock art are discussed in particular the changing perceptions that have developed during almost 150 years of documented research Picturing the Bronze Age is based on an international workshop with the same title held in Tanum Sweden in October 2012 The Civilization of Greece in the Bronze Age (1928) H.R. Hall,2018-12-14 First published in 1928 this volume contains six sequential lectures delivered by H R Hall in 1923 detailing the archaeological remains of Bronze Age Greece Hall was keeper of Egyptian and Assyrian antiquities in the British Museum and author of The Ancient History of the Near East Each of the author s lectures was strictly chronological with the main feature of each period being described in order The profuse illustrations recreated here were fundamental to his view with each Age defined through its art pottery and stone carvings These printed lectures follow their spoken counterparts closely and are brought to life with 320 illustrations inserted in places which reflect the original performances

Organizing Bronze Age Societies Timothy Earle,Kristian Kristiansen,2010-08-30 The Bronze Age was a formative period in European history when the organisation of landscapes settlements and economy reached a new level of complexity This book presents the first in depth comparative study of household economy and settlement in three micro regions the Mediterranean Sicily Central Europe Hungary and Northern Europe South Scandinavia The results are based on ten years of fieldwork in a similar method of documentation and scientific analyses were used in each of the regional studies making controlled comparisons possible The new evidence demonstrates how differences in settlement organisation and household economies were counterbalanced by similarities in the organised use of the landscape in an economy dominated by the herding of large flocks of sheep and cattle This book s innovative theoretical and methodological approaches will be of relevance to all researchers of landscape and settlement history
