Making Public Policy Decisions Damon Alexander, Jenny Lewis, 2014-12-05 To understand public policy decisions it is imperative to understand the capacities of the individual actors who are making them how they think and feel about their role and what drives and motivates them However the current literature takes little account of this preferring instead to frame the decisions as the outcomes of a rational search for value maximising alternatives or the result of systematic and well ordered institutional and organisational processes Yet understanding how personal and emotional factors interact with broader institutional and organisational influences to shape the deliberations and behaviour of politicians and bureaucrats is paramount if we are to construct a more useful nuanced and dynamic picture of government decision making This book draws on a variety of approaches to examine individuals working in contemporary government from freshly trained policy officers to former cabinet ministers and prime ministers It provides important new insights into how those in government navigate their way through complex issues and decisions based on developed expertise that fuses formal rational techniques with other learned behaviours memories emotions and practiced forms of judgment at an individual level This innovative collection from leading academics across Australia Europe the United Kingdom and North America will be of great interest to researchers educators advanced students and practitioners working in the fields of political science public management and administration and public policy

Nutrition in Public Health Sari Edelstein, 2006
Community Nutrition Designing and Implementing Public Policy of Contemporary Polish Society Dorota Szaban, Inetta Nowosad, Piotr Pochyły, 2021-11-15 The process of creating and implementing sectoral policy has been described from two perspectives On the one hand the attention of the contributors focuses mainly on the social actors of these policy individuals and institutions on whose activity the process of implementing specific policy provisions depends On the other hand the complexity of sectoral policy forces the need to refer to many areas of social life around which specific solutions are created The effectiveness of public policy including sectoral policy also requires indicating the context related to the socio political conditions in Poland To understand why different public policies emerge in different regions it is important to understand the details that shape them In this volume it is crucial to indicate the determinants of the process of creating and implementing policy relating to selected aspects of socio economic life de facto sectoral policy in Polish society
