Monsters Vs. Patriarchy Patricia Saldarriaga, Emy Manini, 2025 Monsters vs Patriarchy examines female monstrosity as it appears in horror films from around the world and considers specific political scientific and historical contexts to better understand how we construct and reconstruct monstrosity using an intersectional approach to examine the imposition of gender and racial hierarchies that support national power structures and horrorize female and other subjects

The Global Dimension of Economic Evolution Kurt Dopfer, 2012-12-06 This volume on evolutionary approaches to economic development and growth is a member of a family of special volumes that Springer has published on Evolutionary Economics recently The present volume has excellent predecessors There is a special volume on Evolution in Markets and Institutions edited by Ulrich Witt and another on Evolutionary and Neoclassical Perspectives on Market Structure and Economic Growth edited by Yannis Katsoulacos And there are more in the pipeline The volumes already published reflect the broad ranging interests of evolutionary economists and within the scope delineated they are devoted to major research areas of the discipline The editorial intention behind the venture of special volumes has been to bundle together some of the research areas in order to sharpen the problem focus and to generate research synergies within major research fields We may somewhat obviously define a research field by its research topics For the present purpose however we may wish to conceive the research conducted by evolutionary economists as belonging to either a research area that is inspired in its problem perspective by neoclassical economics or to one that is not The very success of the critique of the neoclassical paradigm relied on a preoccupation with its research scope and questions Evolutionary economics has scored marvelously in challenging major neoclassical stands and neoclassical economics may never be quite the same in the future Can You Keep a Secret? Millisa C. Cinema Norma Manatu, 2014-01-10 The representation of African American women is an important issue in the overall study of how women are portrayed in film and has received serious attention in recent years Traditionally women of color particularly African American women have been at the margins of studies of women's on screen depictions or excluded altogether This work focuses exclusively on the sexual objectification of African American women in film from the 1980s to the early 2000s Critics of the negative sexual imagery have long speculated that control by African American filmmakers would change how African American women are depicted This work examines sixteen films made by males both white and black to see how the imagery might change with the race of the filmmaker Four dimensions are given special attention the diversity of the women's roles and relationships with men the sexual attitudes of the African American female characters their attitudes towards men and their nonverbal and verbal sexual behaviors This work also examines the role culture has played in perpetuating the images how film influences viewers perception of African American women and their sexuality and how the imagery polarizes women by functioning as a regulator of their sexual behaviors based on cultural definitions of the feminine
