finding one s self amidst the grind of restaurant life the cross generational immigrant experience and a daughter s attempts to connect with parents who have always been just out of reach When she was three years old Rachel Phan met her replacement Instead of a new sibling her mother and father s time and attention were suddenly devoted entirely to their new family restaurant For her parents whose own families fled China during Japanese occupation and then survived bombs and starvation during the war in Vietnam it was a dream come true For Phan it was something quite different Overnight she became a restaurant kid living on the periphery of her own family and trying her best to stay out of the way As Phan grew up the restaurant was the most stalwart and suffocating member of her family For decades it s been both their crowning achievement and the origin of so much of their pain and suffering screaming matches complete with smashed dishes bodies worn down by long hours and repetitive strain and tenuous relationships where the family loved one another deeply without ever really knowing each other In Restaurant Kid Phan seeks to examine the way her life has been shaped by the rigid boxes placed around her She had to be a good daughter never asking questions always being grateful She had to be a real Canadian watching hockey and speaking English so flawlessly that her tongue has since forgotten how to contort around

Cantonese tones As the only Chinese girl at school she had to alternate between being the sidekick geek or Asian fetish depending on whose gaze was on her Now three decades after their restaurant first opened Phan s parents are cautiously talking about retirement As an adult Phan s good daughter role demands something new of her and a chance to get to know her parents away from the restaurant In Restaurant Kid Phan deftly combines candour wit and insight to craft a vibrant and important narrative on the strength and foibles of family and how we come to understand ourselves Early Childhood Education Barbara Day,1988
