Renahan Burroughs special identity was less that of a scientific naturalist than that of a literary naturalist with a duty to record his own unique perceptions of the natural world The result was a body of work whose resonance with the tone of its cultural moment explains both its popularity at that time and its relative obscurity since Burroughs was the seventh of Chauncy and Amy Kelly Burroughs ten children He was born on the family farm in the Catskill Mountains near Roxbury in Delaware County New York As a child he spent many hours on the slopes of Old Clump Mountain looking off to the east and the higher peaks of the Catskills especially Slide Mountain which he would later write about As he labored on the family farm he was captivated by the return of the birds each spring and other wildlife around the family farm including frogs and bumblebees In his later years he credited his life as a farm boy for his subsequent love of nature and feeling of kinship with all rural things During his teen years Burroughs showed a keen interest in learning Among Burroughs s classmates was future financier Jay Gould Burroughs father believed the basic education provided by the local school was enough and refused to support the young Burroughs when he asked for money to pay for the books or the higher education he wanted At the age of 17 Burroughs left home to earn the money he needed for college by teaching at a school in Olive New York From 1854 to 1856 Burroughs alternated periods of teaching with periods of study at higher education institutions including Cooperstown Seminary he left the Seminary and completed his studies in 1856 He continued to teach until 1863 In 1857 Burroughs left a teaching position in the small village of Buffalo Grove in Illinois to seek employment closer to home drawn back by the girl I left behind me On September 12 1857 Burroughs married Ursula North 1836 1917 Burroughs later became an atheist with an inclination towards pantheism The Atlantic Monthly ,1882
