MacKay, 2012-03 The Birds of Northern Melanesia Ernst Mayr, Jared M. Diamond, 2001 Speciation is the process by which co existing daughter species evolve from one ancestral species e g humans chimpanzees and gorillas arising from a common ancestor around 5 000 000 years ago However many questions about speciation remain controversial The Birds of Northern Melanesia provides by far the most comprehensive study yet available of a rich fauna composed of the 195 breeding land and fresh water bird species of the Bismarck and Solomon Archipelagoes east of New Guinea This avifauna offers decisive advantages for understanding speciation and includes famous examples of geographic variation discussed in textbooks of evolutionary biology The book results from 30 years of collaboration between the evolutionary biologist Ernst Mayr and the ecologist Jared Diamond It shows how Northern Melanesian bird distributions provide snapshots of all stages in speciation from the earliest widely distributed species without geographic variation to the last closely related reproductively isolated species occurring sympatrically and segregating ecologically The presentation emphasizes the wide diversity of speciation outcomes steering a middle course between one model fits all simplification and ungeneralizable species accounts Questions illuminated include why some species are much more prone to speciate than others why some water barriers are much more effective at promoting speciation than others and whether hypothesized taxon cycles faunal dominance and legacies of Pleistocene land bridges are real These years of study have resulted in a huge database complete with distributions of all 195 species on 76 islands together with their taxonomy colonization routes ecological attributes abundance and overwater dispersal Color plates depict 88 species and allospecies many of which have never been seen before For students of speciation Northern Melanesian birds now constitute a model system against which other biotas can be compared For population biologists interested in other problems besides speciation this rich database can now be mined for insights Taxonomy of the birds of the world fotolulu, 2018-10-30 How do you come up with the idea to list all the birds in the world including the subspecies and to give all birds English names There is a reason for it my favorite saying whose author is unknown Everyone said that s not possible then there was one who did not know that and just did it I am an animal photographer and probably a little bit crazy I ve built a complete animal database for mammals and birds over the last decade This facilitates my work in determining and archiving images and assigning keywords especially among the many subspecies With this book I would like to give all birding friends and ornithologists a complete overview in English For this I have given unique English names to all subspecies The naming should not meet any scientific requirements The names are based on translations from the Latin name geographical distribution areas and the names of the discoverers The entries consist of the scientific name the English name the distribution areas and the author I wish you a lot of fun with this book but especially while watching the fascinating birdlife fotolulu Birds of New Guinea Bruce McP.
