Birmingham A Study In Geography History And Planning:

Birmingham Gordon E. Cherry, 1994-09-13 This study explores Birmingham's origins and early history its rise to industrial pre eminence its achievement in civic government enlightened planning housing transport urban form and land use Consideration is given to changing industrial bases Street-Level Architecture Conrad Kickert, Hans Karssenberg, 2022-08-04 This book provides the tools to maintain and rebuild the interaction between architecture and public space Despite the best intentions of designers and planners interactive frontages have dwindled over the past century in Europe and North America This book demonstrates why even our best intentions for interactive frontages are currently unable to turn a swelling tide of economic and technological evolution land consolidation introversion stratification and contagious decline It uses these lessons to offer concrete locational programming design and management strategies to maximize street level interaction and trust between street level architecture its inhabitants and the city This book demonstrates that designers developers planners and managers ultimately have to create the right preconditions for inhabitants and passersby to bring frontages to life These preconditions connect architecture to its urban social economical and technological context Only the right frontage in the right context with the right design the right inhabitation and the right attitude to the city will become part of the ecosystem of trust and interaction that supports public life This book empowers the many participants in this ecosystem to build inhabit and enjoy truly urbane architecture Planning for Tall Buildings Michael J. Short, 2012 In a time of recession the challenge of building and planning for tall buildings has become even more complex the economics of development legislative and planning frameworks and the local politics of development must be navigated by those wishing to design and construct new tall buildings which fit within the fabric of their host cities This book is a timely contribution to the debate about new tall buildings and their role and effect on our cities It is divided into two main parts In part one the relationship between tall buildings and planning is outlined followed by an exploration of the impacts that construction of tall buildings can have It focuses in particular on the conservation debates that proposals for new tall buildings raise The first part ends with an analysis of the way in which planning strategies have evolved to deal with the unique consequences of tall buildings on their urban locations The second part of the book focuses on seven examples of medium sized cities dealing with planning and conservation issues and implications that arise from tall buildings These have been chosen to reflect a wide range of methods to either encourage or to control tall buildings that cities are deploying The case studies come from across the western world covering England Manchester Liverpool Newcastle and Birmingham Norway Oslo Ireland Dublin and Canada Vancouver and represent a broad spectrum of approaches to dealing with this issue In drawing together the experiences of these varied cities the book contributes to the ongoing debate about the role of the tall building in our cities their potential impacts and experiences of those who use and inhabit them The conclusions outline how cities should approach the strategic planning of tall buildings as well as how they should deal with the consequences of individual buildings particularly on the built heritage

The Practice of Modernism John R. Gold, 2007-06-13 Making extensive use of information gained from hours of in depth interviews with architects this new book examines the complex relationship between vision and subsequent practice in the saga of post war urban reconstruction

The Blitz and its Legacy Peter J. Larkham, 2016-12-05 Triggered in part by contemporary experiences in the Balkans the Middle East and elsewhere there has been a rise in interest in the blitz and the subsequent reconstruction of cities especially as many of the buildings and areas rebuilt after the Second World War are now facing demolition and reconstruction in their turn Drawing together leading scholars and new researchers from across the fields of planning history architecture and geography this volume presents an historical and cultural commentary on the immediate and longer term impacts of wartime destruction The book s contents in 14 chapters cover the spread of themes from experiencing the war to reconstruction and its experiences and although many chapters draw upon the UK experience there is deliberate inclusion of some material from mainland Europe and Japan to emphasise that the experiences processes and products are not London specific A comparative book tracing destruction to reconstruction is a relative rarity and yet of the utmost importance in possessing wider relevance to post disaster reconstructions The Blitz and Its Legacy is a fascinating volume which includes war experiences of destruction architecture urban design the political process of planning and reconstruction and also popular perceptions of rebuilding Its findings provide very timely lessons which highlight the value of learning from historical precedent

When We Build Again Bournville Village Trust, 2013-07-24 Like many UK cities Birmingham was heavily bombed during the Second World War and as with so many bombed British cities and many un bombed ones that jumped on to the re planning bandwagon there was a clear imperative to reconstruct But Birmingham was atypical in how it went about this The city had begun planning in the mid 1930s principally to replace vast quantities of slum housing and there had been suggestions about ring roads even from the time of the First World War So plans were available virtually ready to go and were approved by a private Act of Parliament in 1946 Yet within Birmingham there were individuals and organisations with a great interest and influence in planning matters This followed a significant and long standing local tradition from the Chamberlain family to Nettlefold s pioneering work on planning and housing at the start of the twentieth century Prominent amongst these was the Cadbury family and the Bournville Village Trust and one of its immediate responses to bomb damage was the book When We Build Again This was immediately influential in several respects as contemporary reviews and ongoing citations demonstrate It highlighted some less palatable truths about conditions in the city and more widely with ideas about what might be done To modern eyes some of these are radical for example the wholesale redevelopment of the Jewellery Quarter an area which was recently proposed for World Heritage status The origins of the derided post war comprehensive clearance approach lie in these papers Further it used innovative and striking graphics to communicate statistical information to lay readers including the use of striking photography of places and particularly people Also included in this volume is a facsimile of a second Bournville Trust publication from 1955 Birmingham Fifty Years On This less famous but equally important publication grew from a frustration at the slow pace of post war reconstruction and envisaged what the city would look like half a century later

Planning for Diversity Dory Reeves, 2004-06-01 The practical importance of diversity and equality for spatial planning and sustainable development is still not widely understood Using international examples this book shows planners and educationalists the benefits of building in a consideration of diversity and equality at each stage and level of planning Despite being one of the most diverse and gender balanced of the built environment professions complacency has been widespread in planning This book shows why a diverse profession is important and drawing on a wide range of good practice shows how those involved in planning can develop their sensitivity to and expertise in diversity and equality

Twentieth-Century Suburbs C.M.H Carr, J.W.R Whitehand, 2014-04-08 Garden suburbs were the almost universal form of urban growth in the English speaking world for most of the twentieth century Their introduction was probably the most fundamental process of transformation in the physical form of the Western city since the Middle Ages This book describes the ways in which these suburbs were created particularly by private enterprise in England in the 1920s and 1930s the physical forms they took and how they have changed over time in response to social economic and cultural change Twentieth Century Suburbs is concerned with the history geography architecture and planning of the ordinary suburban areas in which most British people live It discusses the origins of suburbs the ways in which they have been represented the scale and causes of their growth their form and architectural style the landowners builders and architects responsible for their creation the changes they have undergone both physically and socially and their impact on urban form and the implications for urban landscape management

Stories from Home Margaret Ponsonby, 2016-04-01 Most homes in the past were not elite wealthy interiors complete with high fashion furnishings designed by well known architects and designers as many domestic histories often seem to have assumed As this book makes clear there were in fact an enormous variety of house interiors in England during the period 1750 1850 reflecting the location status and gender of particular householders as well as their changing attitudes tastes and aspirations By focusing on non metropolitan homes which represented the majority of households in England this study highlights the need for historians to look beyond prevailing attitudes that often reduce interiors to generic descriptions based on high fashions of the decorative arts Instead it shows how numerous social and cultural influences affected the manner in which homes were furnished and decorated Issues such as the availability of goods gender regional taste income the second hand market changing notions of privacy and household hierarchies and print culture could all have a significant impact on domestic furnishing The study ends with a discussion of how domestic interiors of historic properties have been presented and displayed in modern times highlighting how competing notions of the past can cloud as well as illuminate the issue Combining cultural history and qualitative analysis of evidence this book presents a new way of looking at ordinary and provincial homes that enriches our understanding of English domestic life of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Tourism as a Resource-based Industry Anna Lydia Svalastog, Dieter K. Müller, Ian Jenkins, 2022-08-16 Tourism as a Resource based Industry presents the conceptual framework of the Norwegian economic geographer Sondre Svalastog and functions as a practical tool for analyzing and identifying resources when working towards a more sustainable tourism industry Tourism resources and their sustainability are analysed through the lens of a multidisciplinary approach which includes social economic cultural and natural dimensions Contextual awareness is achieved by combining research based knowledge with local know how and information on local conditions The book facilitates a way forward that examines both productivity and sustainability The usefulness and value of Svalastog's conceptual work is demonstrated by a selection of new case studies by experts in the field from different countries including Sweden Norway Slovenia and the UK Tourism researchers and students will find this book helpful for understanding the development of tourism and how it can contribute to the UN Agenda 2030 which reflects the urgency for change to secure cultural and natural resources health and social resilience and the stability of a socially constructed economy Thus tourism research needs to include a constant review and if required renewal of processes that manage how society culture and natural resources are used to achieve a balanced sustainable tourism process Town and Country Planning in the UK Barry Cullingworth, Vincent Nadin, 2006-10-16 This revised fourteenth edition reinforces this title's reputation as the bible of British planning It provides a thorough explanation of planning processes including the institutions involved tools systems policies and changes to land use Town and Country Planning in the UK J. B. Cullingworth, Vincent Nadin, 2002 Town and Country Planning in the UK has become the bible of British planning It provides an explanation of the nature of planning the institutions and organisations involved the plans and other tools used by planners planning policies and more The Cambridge Urban History of Britain Peter Clark, David Michael Palliser, Martin J. Daunton, 2000 The process of urbanisation and suburbanisation in Britain from the Victorian period to the twentieth century County Borough Elections in England and Wales, 1919-1938: A Comparative Analysis Sam Davies, Bob Morley, 2016-12-05 These volumes provide an essential comprehensive work of reference for the annual municipal elections that took place each November in the 83 County Boroughs of England and Wales between 1919 and 1938 They also provide an extensive and detailed analysis of municipal politics in the same period both in terms of the individual boroughs and of aggregate patterns of political behaviour Being annual these local election results give the clearest and most authoritative record of how political opinion changed between general elections especially useful for research into the longer gaps such as 1924-29 and 1935-45 or crisis periods such as 1929-31 They also illuminate the impact of fringe parties such as the Communist Party and the British Union of Fascists and also such questions as the role of women in politics the significance of religious and ethnic differentiation and the connection between occupational and class divisions and party allegiance Analysis at the ward level is particularly useful for socio-spatial studies A major work of reference County Borough Elections in England and Wales 1919-1938 is indispensable for university libraries and local and national record offices Each volume has approximately 700 pages

Conservation and the City
Peter Larkham, 2002-03-11 It is a widely held belief that cities must change or they will wither and die One of the key problems of urbanization is how to cope with these changes while retaining the structures constructed and maintained by previous generations Conservation and the City is a study of conservation and change throughout the built environment city centres suburbs and even tiny villages and how the activities of conservation interact with the planning system Using detailed case studies from Britain and the Westernized world the author examines some of the key social economic and psychological ideas which support conservation as well as studying the urban landscape and the agents of change Conservation and the City seeks to understand urban conservation and in doing so presents possible solutions for managing change in the built environment of the future

To-Morrow E. Howard, Sir Peter Hall, Dennis Hardy, Colin Ward, 2006-09-07 To celebrate the centenary of the first garden city at Letchworth the Town and Country Planning Association has performed a service to planners everywhere by initiating the republication in facsimile form of the very scarce original first edition of To Morrow Accompanied by a running scholarly commentary on the text and by a newly written editorial introduction and postscript jointly written by three leading commentators on Howard's life and work To Morrow will immediately become a compulsory purchase for every serious student and practitioner of planning and for teachers and students of modern social economic and political history

Rural Change and Planning Gordon Cherry, A.W. Rogers, 2003-12-16 This book provides a critical overview of rural change over the eighty years since the outbreak of the Great War making clear the historical origins of present day policy It also provides a structural integration for the many diverse themes which must be interwoven in order to understand current conditions in the countryside

County Borough Elections in England and Wales, 1919-1938 Sam Davies, 1999 Focuses on local elections in 10 county boroughs Chapters on each borough include summary tables of statistical data relating to the population and employment structure of the borough maps showing ward boundaries summary tables of the municipal election record full lists of the results of the election

Public Health and Municipal Policy Making Marjaana Niemi, 2016-04-15 Public health policies had a profound impact on urban life in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries yet relatively few people took an active interest in the formulation of these policies In this book Marjaana Niemi examines the impact of different political aims and pressures on scientific health policies through the analysis of public health programmes in two case studies one in Birmingham and the other in Gothenburg By examining early twentieth century campaigns concerned with infant welfare and the prevention of tuberculosis the book provides illuminating insights into the relationship between public health and the regulation of urban life Not only does the book analyse the processes whereby different political aims became embedded in these apolitical health campaigns but it also highlights the important part that the campaigns played in urban politics and governance The political aims which public health campaigns advanced are explored by comparing health policies in Britain and Sweden where officials were part of one public health community

enjoying close links attending the same conferences and contributing to the same journals The problems they dealt with were often similar and in both countries health authorities claimed scientific grounds for their programmes Yet the policies they pursued were often strikingly different Through examination of two different national approaches the book does justice to the full complexity of the policy making process and illuminates the wide range of factors that affected municipal policies

Selling Places Stephen Ward, 2005-10-09 This highly illustrated book describes how places have been sold or promoted to make themselves attractive locations as holiday resorts business centres or residential areas Explains the history of current practice using world wide examples
