Daughters of Italy Anne T. Romano Ph.D.,2010-08-12 There is no available information at this time Italian Folk Joseph Sciorra,2011 Sunday dinners basement kitchens and backyard gardens are everyday cultural entities long associated with Italian Americans yet the general perception of them remains superficial and stereotypical at best For many people these scenarios trigger ingrained assumptions about individuals beliefs politics aesthetics values and behaviors that leave little room for nuance and elaboration This collection of essays explores local knowledge and aesthetic practices often marked as folklore as sources for creativity and meaning in Italian American lives As the contributors demonstrate folklore provides contemporary scholars with occasions for observing and interpreting behaviors and objects as part of lived experiences Its study provides new ways of understanding how individuals and groups reproduce and contest identities and ideologies through expressive means Italian Folk offers an opportunity to reexamine and rethink what we know about Italian Americans The contributors to this unique book discuss historic and contemporary cultural expressions and religious practices from various parts of the United States and Canada to examine how they operate at local national and transnational levels The essays attest to people s ability and willingness to create and reproduce certain cultural modes that connect them to social entities such as the family the neighborhood and the amorphous and fleeting communities that emerge in large scale festivals and now on the Internet Italian Americans abandon reproduce and or revive various cultural elements in relationship to ever shifting political economic and social conditions The results are dynamic hybrid cultural forms such as valtarò accordion music Sicilian oral poetry a Columbus Day parade and witchcraft stregheria By taking a closer look and an ethnographic approach to expressive behavior we see that Italian American identity is far from being a linear path of assimilation from Italian immigrant to American of Italian descent but is instead fraught with conflict negotiation and creative solutions Together these essays illustrate how folklore is evoked in the continual process of identity revaluation and reformation

The Future has an Ancient Heart Lucia Chiavola Birnbaum, 2012-08 Feminist cultural historian Lucia Chiavola Birnbaum caps her previous work with The Future has an Ancient Heart a scholarly study of the transformative legacy of African origins and values of caring sharing healing and vision carried by African migrants throughout the world Birnbaum focuses on the long endurance of these values from the first human communities in south and central Africa ones that Africans manifested in the region of the African mediterranean landmass that later separated Africa from Europe and Asia when the ice melted and waters rose These migrants reached every continent and later became spiritual as well as geographical migrations back to Africa from ancient times to the transformative present Using the same methods as her teaching Birnbaum employs a mutual learning process in her work to help us think about our own ancestral story adding to the wisdom we need to surmount contemporary crises and give us the energy to help bring a more equal and just world into being Her methodologies are grounded on empirical techniques of science and the social sciences and yet leave openings for the liminal knowledge that resides underneath and beyond boundaries of established religions secular ideologies and conventional science A true work of transformation The Future has an Ancient Heart opens the door to new possibilities within our world

Cultural Heritage and Prisoners of War Gillian Carr, Harold Mytum, 2012 This book focuses on the numerous examples of creativity produced by POWs and civilian internees during their captivity including paintings cartoons

craftwork needlework acting musical compositions magazine and newspaper articles wood carving and recycled Red Cross tins turned into plates mugs and makeshift stoves all which have previously received little attention The authors of this volume show the wide potential of such items to inform us about the daily life and struggle for survival behind barbed wire Previously dismissed as items which could only serve to illustrate POW memoirs and diaries this book argues for a central role of all items of creativity in helping us to understand the true experience of life in captivity The international authors draw upon a rich seam of material from their own case studies of POW and civilian internment camps across the world to offer a range of interpretations of this diverse and extraordinary material

A Semiotic of Ethnicity Anthony Julian Tamburri, 1998-09-11 Using semiotics as a theoretical foundation this book reexamines the notion of the hyphenate writer It argues for an analogous set of categories no longer chronologically or generationally based but cognitively based so that the traditionally considered first stage or first generation hyphenate writer now figures as an expressive writer who is not necessarily part of the immigrant or first American born generations He or she may actually belong to a later generation and write about his or her ethnicity with those characteristics more readily associated with the first stage hyphenate writer

To be Suddenly White Steven J. Belluscio, 2006 To Be Suddenly White explores the troubled relationship between literary passing and literary realism the dominant aesthetic motivation behind the late nineteenth and early twentieth century ethnic texts considered in this study Steven J Belluscio uses the passing narrative to provide insight into how the representation of ethnic and racial subjectivity served in part to counter dominant narratives of difference To Be Suddenly White offers new readings of traditional passing narratives from the African American literary tradition such as James Weldon Johnson's The Autobiography of an Ex Coloured Man Nella Larsen's Passing and George Schuyler's Black No More It is also the first full length work to consider a number of Jewish American and Italian American prose texts such as Mary Antin's The Promised Land Anzia Yeziarska's Bread Givers and Guido d Agostino's Olives on the Apple Tree as racial passing narratives in their own right Belluscio also demonstrates the contradictions that result from the passing narrative's exploration of racial subjectivity racial difference and race itself When they are seen in comparison ideological differences begin to emerge between African American passing narratives and white ethnic Jewish American and Italian American passing narratives According to Belluscio the former are more likely to engage in a direct critique of ideas of race while the latter have a tendency to become more simplistic acculturation narratives in which a character moves from a position of ethnic difference to one of full American identity The desire to be suddenly white serves as a continual point of reference for Belluscio enabling him to analyze how writers even when overtly aware of the problematic nature of race especially African American writers are also aware of the conditions it creates the transformations it provokes and the consequences of both By examining the content and context of these works Belluscio elucidates their engagement with discourses of racial and ethnic differences assimilation passing and identity an approach that has profound implications for the understanding of American literary
