Stigma and Culture J. Lorand Matory,2015-12-02 In Stigma and Culture J Lorand Matory provocatively shows how ethnic identification in the United States and around the globe is a competitive and hierarchical process in which populations especially of historically stigmatized races seek status and income by dishonoring other stigmatized populations And there is no better place to see this than among the African American elite in academia where he explores the emergent ethnic identities of African and Caribbean immigrants and transmigrants Gullah Geechees Louisiana Creoles and even Native Americans of partly African ancestry Matory describes the competitive process that hierarchically structures their self definition as ethnic groups and the similar process by which middle class African Americans seek distinction from their impoverished compatriots Drawing on research at universities such as Howard Harvard and Duke and among their alumni networks he details how university life while facilitating individual upward mobility touting human equality and regaling cultural diversity also perpetuates the cultural standards that historically justified the dominance of some groups over others Combining his ethnographic findings with classic theoretical insights from Frantz Fanon Fredrik Barth Erving Goffman Pierre Bourdieu and others alongside stories from his own life in academia Matory sketches the university as an institution that particularly through the anthropological vocabulary of culture encourages the stigmatized to stratify their own The Cambridge Companion to African American Theatre Harvey Young,2013 With contributions from the leading scholars in the field this Companion provides a comprehensive and accessible overview of African American theatre from the early nineteenth century to the present day Along the way it chronicles the evolution of African American theatre and its engagement with the wider community Love, Intimacy, and the African American Couple Katherine M.
