

Mollusc Fisheries of Thailand

Summary

Mollusk production in Thailand has ranged between 10,000 and 100,000 mt over the past twenty years. With present production around 120,000 mt/yr, major species are pearl and river molluscs, making some 10% of total production. The other molluscs, in particular Phacoides (Mactra) sp. and Thais sp., and various Corbicula produce around 90% of total output. Molluscs and pearls provide a valuable foreign exchange for the country, the following is a list of the production of the various species in several important areas in Bangkok and Chumphon. The Thais harvest about 100,000 mt of molluscs from Bangkok alone (Fig. 1).

Species

The river molluscs include Phacoides (Mactra) sp. and Thais sp. (Fig. 1) and their respective all season production are 10,000 mt/yr (Phacoides sp.) and 10,000 mt/yr (Thais sp.). Some of the Phacoides (Mactra) sp. and Thais sp. are also used for food (Fig. 1).
