The Built Environment Peter Brimblecombe,2003-04-08 Air pollution damages materials but it has changed dramatically in the past century with a reduction in the concentration of corrosive primary pollutants in urban atmospheres At the same time architectural styles and types of materials have changed as we have moved to more organically rich photochemically active atmospheres Contemporary air pollutants have the potential to degrade organic coatings and polymers which are of great importance to modern structures while increasing amounts of fine diesel soot spoil the simple lines and smooth areas characteristic of many modern buildings This book examines a range of materials discussing the ways in which they are likely to be damaged by air pollutants It should be of interest to scientists and policymakers dealing with the effects of urban air

,2000-07      Crustal Permeability Tom Gleeson,Steve Ingebritsen,2016-10-18 Permeability is the primary control on fluid flow in the Earth s crust and is key to a surprisingly wide range of geological processes because it controls the advection of heat and solutes and the generation of anomalous pore pressures The practical importance of permeability and the potential for large dynamic changes in permeability is highlighted by ongoing issues associated with hydraulic fracturing for hydrocarbon production fracking enhanced geothermal systems and geologic carbon sequestration Although there are thousands of research papers on crustal permeability this is the first book length treatment This book bridges the historical dichotomy between the hydrogeologic perspective of permeability as a static material property and the perspective of other Earth scientists who have long recognized permeability as a dynamic parameter that changes in response to tectonism fluid production and geochemical reactions      United States Civil Aircraft Register Aeronautical Center (U.S.),1969-07
