Black Children and Underachievement in Schools Dr. Frances Benskin, 2014-06-20 In the United Kingdom the reason why so many Black children fail in the educational system is a cause of much debate Previous research have pointed to a number of causes such as their home environments poor family background deficiency in language teacher expectation and black workers position in the job market The current work by Frances Benskin on the other hand seeks to investigate whether or not racism plays a part in the underachievement of Black children in schools Specifically the study seeks to address whether Black children have the same opportunity to good learning experiences and resources as their white counterparts and does the school portray a good ambience in accommodating all children or do they feel isolated by a system that does not cater for their needs Through this book Frances hopes that readers can get a better understanding of the effects of racism and how it can affect people s lives if it is not dealt with effectively in Britain or elsewhere The research shows that racism stereotyping cultural differences assumed dialect or language differences played a part in undetermining the capability of black children Children ,1971

Ethics and Children's Literature Claudia Mills, 2016-05-13 Exploring the ethical questions posed by in and about children s literature this collection examines the way texts intended for children raise questions of value depict the moral development of their characters and call into attention shared moral presuppositions The essays in Part I look at various past attempts at conveying moral messages to children and interrogate their underlying assumptions What visions of childhood were conveyed by explicit attempts to cultivate specific virtues in children What unstated cultural assumptions were expressed by growing resistance to didacticism How should we prepare children to respond to racism in their books and in their society Part II takes up the ethical orientations of various classic and contemporary texts including prosaic ethics in the Hundred Acre Wood moral discernment in Narnia ethical recognition in the distant worlds traversed by L. Engle and virtuous transgression in recent Anglo American children's literature and in the emerging children's literature of 1960s Taiwan Part III's essays engage in ethical criticism of arguably problematic messages about our relationship to nonhuman animals about war and about prejudice The final section considers how we respond to children's literature with ethically focused essays exploring a range of ways in which child readers and adult authorities react to children's literature Even as children's literature has evolved in opposition to its origins in didactic Sunday school tracts and moralizing fables authors parents librarians and scholars remain sensitive to the values conveyed to children through the texts they choose to share with them
