Birds Of Sumatra And Kalimantan:

The Birds of Sumatra and Kalimantan Derek A. Holmes, 1990 This book the second in the series on the avifauna of Indonesia introduces the reader to the most typical and colourful birds of the large islands of Sumatra and Kalimantan whose dipterocarp forests of the lowlands and wetland forest of the coastal plains are particularly rich habitats The main descriptions covering 148 species from nearly every bird family on the two islands provide information on the plumage behaviour habitat and distribution to enable the general naturalist to identify most of the birds found readily in the different habitats of the islands Reference is also made in the text to a further 129 species to illustrate the range and variety of birds in each family It is hoped that this book will encourage a greater interest in birds in particular and wildlife in general and foster an increased awareness of the need to protect an adequate area of some of the richest habitats in the world while there is still time Photographic Guide to the Birds of Indonesia, 2013-01-08

A Photographic Guide to the Birds of Indonesia is the best most comprehensive photographic guide to the birds of Indonesia Because of its vast size and geographical location Indonesia has the world's most diverse avifauna It boasts of more than 1 600 species of which 235 rare birds are only found in Indonesia making it the world's number one travel destination for bird watching This bird field guide covers a total of 912 species including most of the non migratory and endemic species that are seen only in Indonesia and a number of threatened and endangered species A photograph and distribution map is given for each bird Many new photographs of Indonesian birds appear in this volume for the first time and have been carefully selected to show the important characteristics of each bird The concise text provides vital information and an index of common names is provided at the back of the book Wildlife

Ecotourism in Indonesia Jatna Supriatna, 2025-07-01 Wildlife tourism has long been a significant and popular sector It widespread a substantial contribution to biodiversity conservation First it generates direct income from tourists through entrance fees taxes and other sources Second it provides alternative income for communities surrounding tourism areas Third it offers a basis for environmental activists to advocate for the preservation of Indonesia's biodiversity Fourth it supports both central and regional governments in developing sustainable and continuous areas Fifth it creates economically based activities in conservation regions for the private sector involved in biodiversity conservation Thus nature tourism is often regarded as sustainable development that effectively balances environmental social and economic aspects Birds of sustainability in the developing world is the focus of this book Our purpose will not however be to produce an endless list of huge numbers of facts about the many developing countries Indonesia could be considered a proto typical example of a developing world country As an archipelago situated along the equator in Southeast Asia its location is ideal for a prototype almost all developing countries are tropical Kalimantan Sumatra and Papua in particular contain a substantial portion of the world s remaining equatorial rainforests rainforest management is among the most pressing global sustainability problems However Indonesia s forests are far from monolithic they include a large set of different biome types Indonesia s population is multi ethnic a characteristic not only of other very large developing countries like India and Nigeria but of nearly every African country and of many other formerly colonized regions Another factor favoring a prototype designation is a relatively recent escape from the category of severe under development Indonesia ranked eighth in the world in real per capita GDP growth rate between 1960 and 2018 not an atypical outcome for Southeast Asian market economies Thailand Malaysia Singapore and Myanmar ranked even higher EarthTrends of World Resources Institute Like most developing countries economic growth has mainly been sparked by exports of energy and mineral extraction products and plantation crops There is also manufacturing growth Indonesia has seven million cities and the world s sixth largest metro area by population At the same time many of the population remain engaged in agriculture many are extremely impoverished Environmental problems Indonesia encounters in its path to economic development are typical of those in other developing countries and solutions it may find can serve as guidelines for other developing countries anticipating a similar economic take off This book consists of 21 chapters on sustainability efforts in Indonesia by many stakeholders government local government private sectors NGOs and communities

Pittas of the World Johannes Erritzoe, Helga Boulet Erritzoe, 1998 Brightly coloured birds native to the tropics the pittas are unforgettable for those who have seen them flash past like a living jewel of the rainforest There are thirty pitta species most of which live in South East Asia though two are found in Africa Their habitat is under threat and many species are endangered This monograph breaks with tradition in a number of ways besides having all the normal sections for a guide it also contains a complete list of all scientific synonyms and a bibliography of more than 1 300 references It includes a list of all the little studied islands where pittas have been found and their status if known It gives the museum holdings of all pitta skins skeletons eggs and fluid specimens in the world Besides this it includes a study of a little known feature dusky stripes unique to the pitta family and which has never before been described in detail The book also describes the pittas unique moulting pattern immature birds moulting into their adult plumage are often found with bald heads and necks The beautiful illustrations are painted in gouache by Helga Boulet Erritzoe using a dry brush technique Each plate has been meticulously laid out to enhance the characteristics of each species All plates are cross referenced to the text which contains details of age and sex of bird and the museum where the depicted bird skin is kept with its registration number Whilst it will be of undoubted interest to amateur bird enthusiasts and lovers of natural history the book is also academically rigorous and therefore an invaluable and beautiful reference guide for ornithologists conservationists museums and collectors of fine bird books Primate Vocal Communication Dietmar Todt, Philipp Goedeke, David

Symmes, 2012-12-06 Communication is both a prerequisite and manifestation of social organization and in this sense several chapters of this volume are aimed to investigate the way vocal communication serves its ultimate function of maintaining social organization Although manifold parallels exist to vocal communication in birds additional mechanisms of vocalization are found in primates Treating the various psychological ecological behavioral and neurobiological aspects of vocalization this book provides an interdisciplinary approach for the understanding of biocommunication in primates including humans Conceptual as well as methodological considerations are given in a balanced way The addition of a comprehensive glossary gives an overview also to nonspecialists in this field The Directory of Museums & Living Displays Kenneth Hudson, Ann

Nicholls, 1985-06-18 Birds of South-East Asia Morten Strange, 1998 South East Asia offers an array of spectacular and unusual birds This illustrated work displays over 250 birds to be found in Singapore Malaysia Thailand Indonesia and the Philippines It offers advice on how to locate and identify them in the field facts on behaviour feeding breeding and migrating habits and information on threatened or endangered species in each country Indonesia, an Official Handbook, 2006

Indonesia Handbook, 1977 Large-scale plantations, bioenergy developments and land use change in

Indonesia Anne Casson, Yohanes I Ketut Deddy Muliastira, Krystof Obidzinski, 2014-12-29 Indonesia's forests make up one of the world's most biologically diverse ecosystems They have long been harvested by local people to meet their daily needs Since the 1970s a combination of demographic economic and policy factors has driven forest exploitation at the industrial scale and resulted in growing deforestation Key factors behind the forest loss and land use change in present day Indonesia are the expansion of oil palm plywood production and pulp and paper industries Oil palm has been one of the fastest growing sectors of the Indonesian economy increasing from less than 1 million hectares in 1991 to 8.9 million hectares in 2011 The plywood and pulp and paper industries have also expanded significantly since the log export ban in 1985 All three sectors have contributed to deforestation Several measures are being taken to reduce the loss of tropical forests in Indonesia These measures are driven by growing global concern about the impact of deforestation on biodiversity and global warming and the Indonesian government's commitment to reduce greenhouse gas emissions A major policy initiative revolves around developing renewable energy from biomass that can be sourced from oil palm sugar cassava jatropha and timber plantations This paper analyzes these measures and assesses the conditions under which they may be most effective
