Garber,2000-05-15 Getting from here to there may be simple for one individual But as any parent scout leader or CEO knows herding a whole troop in one direction is a lot more complicated Who leads the group Who decides where the group will travel and using what information How do they accomplish these tasks On the Move addresses these questions examining the social cognitive and ecological processes that underlie patterns and strategies of group travel Chapters discuss how factors such as group size resource distribution and availability the costs of travel predation social cohesion and cognitive skills affect how individuals as well as social groups exploit their environment Most chapters focus on field studies of a wide range of human and nonhuman primate groups from squirrel monkeys to Turkana pastoralists but chapters covering group travel in hyenas birds dolphins and bees provide a broad taxonomic perspective and offer new insights into comparative questions such as whether primates are unique in their ability to coordinate group level activities      African Books in Print ,1978      Biodiversity in Managed Landscapes Robert C. Szaro, David W. Johnston, 1996 The conservation of biodiversity has profound implications for managing natural resources with the need for scientific information as a foundation for management decisions increasing dramatically The_ intent of this book is to look beyond the theory of biodiversity to_ the principles practices and policies needed for its conservation Its objectives are to provide the scientific basis for understanding biodiversity document case examples of theory and concepts applied at differing scales and examine policies that affect its conservation      War Against Ourselves Jacklyn Cock, 2007-10 For many people nature means wilderness and wild animals It is experienced indirectly through magazines and television programs or through visiting the highly managed environments of national parks Nature however is not external separate from the world of people we live in nature and interact with it daily In this book Jacklyn Cock describes how these intricate and complex interconnections seen and unseen are often ignored Each of the ten chapters examines an aspect of our relationship with nature The War Against Ourselves compels us to reexamine our relationship with nature to change our practices and dissolve present binary divisions such as people vs animals economic growth vs environmental protection nature vs culture It demonstrates the need for an inclusive politics which brings together peace social and environmental justice activists who believe that another world is both possible and necessary Book cover      The Mammals of the Southern African Sub-region J. D. Skinner, Christian T. Chimimba, 2005-11-15 This comprehensive volume covers all mammals that occur naturally on the African mainland south of the Cunene and Zambezi rivers and also in the subregion s coastal waters Extensively revised and updated for the new edition it now includes the latest data from from mammal research in southern Africa along with the radical taxonomic changes across all levels of mammalian classification Containing contributions from specialists on each mammalian order each species description has been reviewed by a range of independent and internationally recognised authorities Along with the latest taxonomic information the distribution maps and illustrations have been updated and redrawn several new colour plates have been added and the whole design has been enhanced to aid access to key information This is the most comprehensive and up to date survey of southern African mammals and forms an essential reference for zoologists evolutionary biologists and anyone wanting an overview of the region s wildlife      The Kruger National Park Salomon Joubert, 2007      Nomadic Desert Birds W. Richard J. Dean, 2013-06-29 My interest in the behaviour and movements of birds of arid and semi arid ecosystems began when my wife Sue Milton and I were Roy Siegfried Director at that time of the Percy approached by Prof FitzPatrick Institute of African Ornithology to set up a project to investigate granivory in the South African Karoo Sue and I spent some time finding a suitable study site setting up accommodations and an automatic weather station at Tierberg in the southern Karoo near the village of Prince Albert and planning projects Among our first projects was a transect where we noted plant phe nology measured seed densities on the soil surface counted birds observed ant activity measured soil surface temperatures and col lected whatever climate data we could at 40 sites along a 200 km oval route Along the way we became interested in the marked presence and absence of birds at certain sites abundant birds one day and very few birds at the same site a month later Subsequent counts along fixed transects through shrublands confirmed that a number of bird species were highly nomadic over short and long distances locally and regionally leading to speculation on how widespread these movements were in the arid ecosystems of the world
