Patterns in Nature James G. Sanderson, Stuart L. Pimm, 2015-11-10 What occurs where and why and why do some places harbor more species than others are basic questions for ecologists Some species simply live in different places fish live underwater birds do not Adaptations follow most fish have gills birds have lungs A fish out of water is the expression for a person and an animal in the wrong place But not all patterns are trivial Travel along any gradient up a mountain from forest into desert from a north facing slope to a south facing slope from low tide to high tide on a shoreline from Arctic tundra to tropical rain forest and the species change What explains the patterns of these distributions Some patterns might be as random as a coin toss But as with a coin toss can ecologists differentiate associations caused by a multiplicity of complex idiosyncratic factors from those structured by some unidentified but simple mechanisms Can simple mechanisms that structure communities be inferred from observations of which species associations naturally occur This book is about the identification and interpretation of nature's large scale patterns of species co occurrence and what we can deduce from them about how nature works It draws upon a critical debate between Jared Diamond and Dan Simberloff one which resonates today as the dynamics of species occurrence are shifting rapidly in a changing global environment
