Thoreau and Hawthorne to Henry James and Wallace Stevens This historical perspective adds the appeal of revisiting the American nineteenth century literary and philosophical tradition and even rewriting it The Athenaeum, 1884

American Writing examines the meaning and possibilities of the present and its relationship to history and historicity in a number of literary texts specifically the writings of several figures in antebellum US literary history some but not all of whom associated with the period's romantic movement Focusing on nineteenth century writers who were impatient for social change like those advocating for the immediate emancipation of slaves as opposed to those planning for a gradual end to slavery the book recovers some of the political force of romanticism Through close readings of texts by Washington Irving John Neal Catharine Sedgwick Frederick Douglass Ralph Waldo Emerson and Herman Melville the book argues that these writers practiced forms of literary historiography that treat the past as neither a reflection of present interests nor as an irretrievably distant other but as a complex and open ended interaction between the two In place of a fixed and linear past these writers imagine history as an experience rooted in a fluid dynamic and ever changing present The political philosophical and aesthetic disposition Insko calls romantic presentism insists upon the present as the fundamental sphere of human action and experience and hence of ethics and democratic possibility

Heike Schaefer, 2020-01-16 Demonstrates that the quest for immediacy or experiences of direct connection and presence has propelled the development of American literature and media culture The Emerson Museum Lee Rust Brown, 1997 In 1832 Emerson made his famous decision to pursue wholeness in his life and in his writing The Emerson Museum shows how this undertaking transformed American literary practice by turning the legacy of European romanticism into a writing project answerable to American urgencies Whitman, Melville, Crane, and the Labors of American Poetry Peter Riley, 2019 This volume is about the type of work that poets perform and why it matters Challenging the divide between inspired poetic production and other apparently lesser and contingent forms of labor this book considers the poetry of Walt Whitman the real estate dealer Herman Melville the customs inspector and Hart Crane the copywriter Encyclopedia of American Poetry: The Nineteenth Century Eric L. Haralson, 2014-01-21 With contributions from over 100 scholars the Encyclopedia of American Poetry The Nineteenth Century provides essays on the careers works and backgrounds of more than 100 nineteenth century poets It also provides entries on specialized categories of twentieth century verse such as hymns folk ballads spirituals Civil War songs and Native American poetry Besides presenting essential factual information each entry amounts to an in depth critical essay and includes a bibliography that directs readers to other works by and about a particular poet
