The Poverty of Postmodernism John O'Neill, 2002-11-01 The Poverty of Postmodernism rejects the current celebration of knowledge and value relativism This is on the grounds that it renders critical reason and commonsense incapable of resisting the superficial ideologies of minoritarianism that leave the hard core of global capitalism unanalyzed In this book John O'Neill examines the postmodern turn in the social sciences From a phenomenological standpoint Husserl Merleau Ponty Schutz Winch he challenges Lyotard's postmodernist reading of Wittgenstein and Habermas in order to defend commonsense reason and values that are constitutive of the everyday life world In addition he argues from the standpoint of Vico and Marx on the civil history of embodied mind that the post-rationalist celebration of the arts of superficiality undermines the recognition of the cultural debt each generation owes to past and post generations In a positive way O'Neill develops an account of the historical vocation of reason and of the charitable accountability of science to commonsense that is necessary to sustain the basic institutions of civic democracy      Proletarianization and Family History David Levine, 1984      The Secrets of Hegemony Tai-Yoo Kim, Daeryoon Kim, 2017-03-29 This book revisits the historically different paths to economic development that Spain the Netherlands Great Britain and the United States followed at different time periods since the early modern period Addressing the questions of how economic growth came about in these four countries and why sustained economic growth was achieved only by the two latter economic powers Great Britain and the United States it clearly highlights the long term economic impact of the individual economic systems each country had developed This discussion draws on two important variables in economic systems whether its primary activity is agriculture commerce or manufacturing and whether its productive system expands or simply reproduces From this interpretive framework the book suggests that the existing literature has not yet paid sufficient attention to the enduring impact on a nation s long term economic performance of their differing economic systems simple agricultural reproduction system Spain expansive commercial reinvestment system the Netherlands and expansive industrial reproduction system Great Britain and the United States The book also demonstrates why sustained economic growth was viable only within an expansive industrial reproduction system and what conditions Great Britain and the United States had to fulfill to create such an economic system in their specific historical contexts It concludes by reflecting on the policy implications of the findings on current discussions concerning economic development within the global economy      The Experience of Labour in Eighteenth-Century Industry John Rule, 2024-09-18 Originally published in 1981 this book unlike conventional textbooks concerning the Industrial Revolution stresses the continuity of the labour experience in the 18th Century Examining the organisation and structure of mining and manufacture in England the author identifies the main kinds of workers artisans miners journeymen and home based outworkers The book goes on to illustrate how the pattern of recrimination and counter recrimination was a condition of the employer worker relationship in traditional industries and argues that the values of these workers were the main determinants of the attitudes expectations responses and actions that took place in English manufacturing Covering such important but frequently neglected areas of 18th Century industry as health apprenticeship and industrial crime this study concludes by questioning whether a distinctive industrial culture existed during the period and how far a class consciousness can be regarded as having emerged      Islamic and European Expansion Michael Adas, 1993-07-20 This volume of essays makes available the essential background information and methods for effective teaching and writing on cross cultural history The contributors some of the most distinguished writers of global and comparative history chart the advances in understanding in their fields of concentration revealing both specific findings and broad patterns that have emerged The cover image The Arrival of the Dutch at Patane from Theodore de Bry India Orientals Part VIII Frankfurt W Richteri 1607 depicts the two key phases of global history that are covered by the essays Muslim inhabitants of the town of Patane on the Malayan peninsula warily confront a Dutch landing party whose bearing suggests that it is engaged in yet another episode in the saga of European overseas exploration and discovery The presence of the Muslims in Malaya reflects an earlier process of expansion that saw Islamic civilization spread from Spain and Morocco in the west to the Philippines in the east in the millennium between the 7th and 17th centuries The Dutch came by sea to an area on the coastal and island fringes of Asia the one zone where their warships gave them a decisive edge in this era The citizens of Patane had good reason to distrust the European intruders since the Portuguese who had preceded the Dutch had used force whenever possible to control the formerly peaceful trade in the region and often to persecute Muslim Peoples Author note Michael Adas is Abraham Voorhees Professor of History at Rutgers University New Brunswick He is currently editor of the American Historical Association s series on Global and Comparative History and co editor of the Cambridge University Press series on Studies in Comparative World History He has published numerous articles and books including most recently with Peter Stearns and Stuart Schwartz World Civilization The Global Experience 1992 and Turbulent Passage A Global History of the Twentieth Century 1993
