Biz War And The Out Of Power Elite The Progressive Left Attack On The Corporation:

Biz-War and the Out-of-Power Elite Jarol B. Manheim, 2004-04-26 This book tells the fascinating story of the reemergence of the American political left over the last quarter century in the form of the new Progressive Movement Born out of Liberalism's crushing defeats at the hands of conservative strategists of the Reagan Bush era this new movement has cleverly reverse engineered the conservative's institutional networking strategy to plan and finance its resurgence Progressive strategists have constructed an elaborate network of foundations advocacy groups and other institutions to advance their agenda But where the conservatives relied on affirmative corporate support to help power their movement the Progressive Left has used an anti corporate strategy whose purpose is three fold 1 To reclaim the moral high ground of politics by challenging corporate power and influence 2 To gain effective control over other people's money e.g pension funds mutual funds and use it to press for changes in corporate social policies 3 To leverage this influence over corporate decision making to change the direction of American politics and public policy Biz War extends the argument of Manheim's 2001 book The Death of A Thousand Cuts by showing how anti corporate campaigns have evolved from economically oriented labor actions to ideological and programmatic political struggles It details how the strategies and tactics crafted by organized labor are being employed with increasing effect by the political left The book will be of interest to students of contemporary American politics strategic communication political movements and business management Likewise it will help corporate executives and financial analysts understand more fully the proxy wars and other attacks against their companies

The Case for Business in Developing Economies Ann Bernstein, 2012-10-03 Business is increasingly being called upon to demonstrate what more it does for society In a climate in which companies are frequently painted as social outlaws who need fundamentally to change their ways this determined if ill founded attack has been met for the most part by appeasement in corporate circles This acquiescence has given rise to the burgeoning corporate social responsibility industry Why is business going along with this The current conversation about business and society is dominated by the perspectives and interests of those who live in rich western countries Many activists analysts and others do not grasp the realities of poverty and the hard choices of development outside the industrialised world As a result the debate about business responsibility and corporate involvement in development is distorted with few voices from developing countries being heard and the positive contribution of just doing business almost completely unacknowledged In this book Ann Bernstein argues that a new approach and a new discourse are required to cut through an increasingly flawed conversation with potentially dangerous consequences for the poor and for developing countries in particular Informed by many years of living working and championing the role of business in growth and development in a middle income developing country Bernstein urges business not to let the attacks stand unchallenged It must find the confidence and strategic vision to stop apologising develop its own public agenda and start propagating the phenomenal benefits of competitive capitalism for the less developed countries of the world

Author Roy Innis, national chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, shows how their wrongheaded policies price energy out of reach and violate the civil rights of all Americans but hurt the poor and minorities worst. Innis demands an end to this energy racism and calls for the opening of all federal lands which belong to the disadvantaged as much as to well-funded environmental leaders to more energy production in a sustained campaign to increase supply and lower prices. Innis reveals the flaws in global warming hysteria and makes the stunning fact clear in his Energy Reality chart that so-called alternative energy from wind and solar power actually provided less than one half of one percent of America's energy needs in 2006.
