Blue Devils Of Nada:

The Blue Devils of Nada Albert Murray, 1996 The Blue Devils of Nada is a powerful and profound introduction to and elaboration of the blues aesthetic by one of the most perceptive observers of the American cultural scene It gives the refined essence of Albert Murray's lifetime meditation on the blues as it informs American life Here are incisive essays on writing music and art that go beyond the social science fiction of Negrohood to describe in no uncertain terms what it means to be an American Whether he is commenting on The Intent of the Artist Regional Particulars and Universal Implications Duke Ellington Vamping Till Ready Comping for Count Basie The Blues as Representative Anecdote Armstrong and Ellington Stomping the Blues in Paris The Visual Equivalent to Blues Composition Bearden Plays Bearden or Ernest Hemingway Swinging the Blues and Taking Nothing Albert Murray always cuts to the chase He is at once insightful and inspiring for he knows that the blues are not cries of Negro misery but idiomatic or rather stylized expressions of transcendence through sheer style always informed by an awareness of the vicissitudes of life

Music and History Jeffrey H. Jackson, Stanley C. Pelkey, 2005 This book begins with a simple question Why haven't historians and musicologists been talking to one another Historians frequently look to all aspects of human activity including music in order to better understand the past Musicologists inquire into the social cultural and historical contexts of musical works and musical practices to develop theories about the meanings of compositions and the significance of musical creation Both disciplines examine how people represent their experiences This collection of original essays the first of its kind argues that the conversation between scholars in the two fields can become richer and more mutually informing The volume features an eloquent personal essay by historian Lawrence W Levine whose work has inspired a whole generation of scholars working on African American music in American history The first six essays address widely different aspects of musical culture and history ranging from women and popular song during the French Revolution to nineteenth century music publishing in Philadelphia Pennsylvania Two additional essays by scholars outside of musicology and history represent a new kind of disciplinary bridging by using the methods of cultural studies to look at cross dressing in nineteenth and early twentieth century opera and blues responses to lynching in the New South The last four essays offer models for collaborative multidisciplinary research with a special emphasis on popular music Jeffrey H Jackson Memphis Tennessee is assistant professor of history at Rhodes College He is the author of Making Jazz French Music and Modern Life in Interwar Paris Stanley C Pelkey Portage Michigan is assistant professor of music at Western Michigan University He is a member of the College Music Society and his work has appeared in music related periodicals

Dangerous Counterstories in The Corporate Academy Brad J. Porfilio, Emily A. Daniels, 2013-03-01 Although the social reality is stark for progressive scholars who engage in scholarly activities or are committed to guiding their students to develop a social just praxis in the circles of higher education some scholars have found fissures amid the alienating often hostile academic world to learn grow and create transformative communities Up to this date however their stories have not been captured Therefore the purpose of this volume is to highlight alternative narratives generated by transformative scholars who have maintained their oppositional identity to the structures that oppress the vast majority of citizens By bringing together these narratives we focus on those who have joined with likeminded colleagues to teach engage in activism and conduct emancipatory forms of research learning to negotiate and survive academic and corporate realities in spite of restrictive climates Not only are these stories vital for helping students academics and the wider community understand how commercialized forces are impacting the professional lives of critical scholars in the academy they have the power to help current and future critical pedagogues define and redefine themselves in a social world which is continually promoting a narrow and intellectually stifling agenda for the role of education and turning the public against the very idea of a critical education McLaren 2006 As stated by Bruner 1986 stories give a map of possible roles and possible worlds in which action thought and self definition are possible or desirable p 2 cited in Collins Cooper 2005 These possibilities for definition and redefinition are what we seek to present explore and understand Black Resonance Emily J. Lordi, 2013-11-08 Ever since Bessie Smith s powerful voice conspired with the race records industry to make her a star in the 1920s African American writers have memorialized the sounds and theorized the politics of black women s singing In Black Resonance Emily J Lordi analyzes writings by Richard Wright Ralph Ellison James Baldwin Gayl Jones and Nikki Giovanni that engage such iconic singers as Bessie Smith Billie Holiday Mahalia Jackson and Aretha Franklin Focusing on two generations of artists from the 1920s to the 1970s Black Resonance reveals a musical literary tradition in which singers and writers faced with similar challenges and harboring similar aims developed comparable expressive techniques Drawing together such seemingly disparate works as Bessie Smith s blues and Richard Wright s neglected film of Native Son Mahalia Jackson s gospel music and Ralph Ellison s Invisible Man each chapter pairs one writer with one singer to crystallize the artistic practice they share lyricism sincerity understatement haunting and the creation of a signature voice In the process Lordi demonstrates that popular female singers are not passive muses with raw natural or ineffable talent Rather they are experimental artists who innovate black expressive possibilities right alongside their literary peers The first study of black music and literature to centralize the music of black women Black Resonance offers new ways of reading and hearing some of the twentieth century s most beloved and challenging voices Existential America George Cotkin, 2003 As Cotkin shows not only did Americans readily take to existentialism but they were already heirs to a rich tradition of thinkers from Jonathan Edwards and Herman Melville to Emily Dickinson and William James who had wrestled with the problems of existence and the contingency of the world long before Sartre and his colleagues After introducing the concept of an American existential tradition Cotkin examines how formal existentialism first arrived in America in the 1930s through discussion of Kierkegaard and the early vogue among New York intellectuals for the works of Sartre Beauvoir and Camus The Hearing Eye Graham Lock, David Murray, 2009-01-02 The widespread presence of jazz and blues in African American visual art has long been overlooked The Hearing Eye makes the case for recognizing the music's importance both as formal template and as explicit subject matter Moving on from the use of iconic musical figures and motifs in Harlem Renaissance art this groundbreaking collection explores the more allusive and elusive references to jazz and blues in a wide range of mostly contemporary visual artists There are scholarly essays on the painters Rose Piper Graham Lock Norman Lewis Sara Wood Bob Thompson Richard H King Romare Bearden Robert G O Meally Johannes V lz and Jean Michel Basquiat Robert Farris Thompson as well an account of early blues advertising art Paul Oliver and a discussion of the photographs of Roy DeCarava Richard Ings These essays are interspersed with a series of in depth interviews by Graham Lock who talks to quilter Michael Cummings and painters Sam Middleton Wadsworth Jarrell Joe Overstreet and Ellen Banks about their musical inspirations and also looks at art's reciprocal effect on music in conversation with saxophonists Marty Ehrlich and Jane Ira Bloom With numerous illustrations both in the book and on its companion website The Hearing Eye reaffirms the significance of a fascinating and dynamic aspect of African American visual art that has been too long neglected Beyond the Sound Barrier Kristin K

Henson, 2013-12-16 Beyond the Sound Barrier examines twentieth century fictional representations of popular music particularly jazz in the fiction of James Weldon Johnson F Scott Fitzgerald Langston Hughes and Toni Morrison Kristin K Henson argues that an analysis of musical tropes in the work of these four authors suggests that cultural mixing constitutes one of the central preoccupations of modernist literature Valuable for any reader interested in the intersections between American literature and the history of American popular music Henson situates the literary use of popular music as a culturally amalgamated boundary crossing form of expression that reflects and defines modern American identities

Rises Peter L. Hays, 2011 This History of the criticism of The Sun Also Rises shows not only how Hemingway's first major novel was received over the decades but also how different critical modes have dominated different decades and what besides tenure critics of different eras looked for in it As such it shows what has interested critics how they have reinterpreted the novel and how they have seen the characters playing different roles Thus the novel becomes a mirror reflecting not only Paris and Spain in 1925 but us

The Unfinished Project Lorenzo C. Simpson, 2013-10-18 As humanity becomes increasingly interconnected through globalization the question of whether community is possible within culturally diverse societies has returned as a principal concern for contemporary thought Lorenzo Simpson charges that the current discussion is stuck at an impasse between postmodernism s fragmented notions of cultural difference and humanism s homogeneous versions of community Simpson proposes an alternative one that bridges cultural differences without erasing them He argues that we must establish common aesthetic and ethical standards incorporating sensitivity to difference if we are to achieve cross cultural understanding
