Redefining Russian Literary Diaspora, 1920-2020 Maria Rubins, 2021-03-11 Over the century that has passed since the start of the massive post revolutionary exodus Russian literature has thrived in multiple locations around the globe What happens to cultural vocabularies politics of identity literary canon and language when writers transcend the metropolitan and national boundaries and begin to negotiate new experience gained in the process of migration Redefining Russian Literary Diaspora 1920-2020 sets a new agenda for the study of Russian diaspora writing countering its conventional reception as a subsidiary branch of national literature and reorienting the field from an excessive emphasis on the homeland and origins to an analysis of transnational circulations that shape extraterritorial cultural practices Integrating a variety of conceptual perspectives ranging from diaspora and postcolonial studies to the theories of translation and self translation World Literature and evolutionary literary criticism the contributors argue for a distinct nature of diasporic literary expression predicated on hybridity ambivalence and a sense of multiple belonging As the complementary case studies demonstrate diaspora narratives consistently recode historical memory contest the mainstream discourses of Russianness rewrite received cultural tropes and explore topics that have remained marginal or taboo in the homeland These diverse discussions are framed by a focused examination of diaspora as a methodological perspective and its relevance for the modern human condition

Nabokov, Perversely Eric Naiman, 2011-01-15 In an original and provocative reading of Vladimir Nabokov's work and the pleasures and perils to which its readers are subjected Eric Naiman explores the significance and consequences of Nabokov's insistence on bringing the issue of art's essential perversity to the fore Nabokov's fiction is notorious for the interpretive panic it occasions in its readers the sense that no matter how hard he or she tries the reader has not gotten Nabokov right At the same time the fictions abound with characters who might be labeled perverts and questions of sexuality lurk everywhere Naiman argues that the sexual and the interpretive are so bound together in Nabokov's stories and novels that the reader confronts the fear that there is no stable line between good reading and overreading and that reading Nabokov well is beset by the exhilaration and performance anxiety more frequently associated with questions of sexuality than of literature Nabokov's fictions pervert their readers obligingly training them to twist and turn the text in order to puzzle out its meanings

so that they become not better people but closer readers assuming all the impudence and potential for shame that sexually oriented close looking entails In Nabokov Perversely Naiman traces the connections between sex and interpretation in Lolita which he reads as a perverse work of Shakespeare scholarship Pnin Bend Sinister and Ada He examines the roots of perverse reading in The Defense and charts the enhanced attention to the connection between sex and metafiction in works translated from the Russian He also takes on books by other authors such as Reading Lolita in Tehran that misguidedly incorporate Nabokov's writing within frameworks of moral usefulness In a final extraordinary chapter Naiman reads Dostoevsky's The Double with Nabokov trained eyes making clear the power a strong writer can exert on readers

Nabokov's Fifth Arc J. E. Rivers, Charles Nicol, 2014-09-10 In his autobiography Speak Memory Vladimir Nabokov compared his life to a spiral in which twirl follows twirl and every synthesis is the thesis of the next series The first four arcs of the spiral of Nabokov's life his youth in Russia voluntary exile in Europe two decades spent in the United States and the final years of his life in Switzerland are now followed by a fifth arc his continuing life in literary history which this volume both explores and symbolizes This is the first collection of essays to examine all five arcs of Nabokov's creative life through close analyses of representative works The essays cast new light on works both famous and neglected and place these works against the backgrounds of Nabokov's career as a whole and modern literature in general Nabokov analyzes his own artistry in his Postscript to the Russian Edition of Lolita presented here in its first English translation and in his little known Notes to Ada by Vivian Darkbloom published now for the first time in America and keyed to the standard U S editions of the novel In addition to a defense of his father s work by Dmitri Nabokov and a portrait interview by Alfred Appel Jr the volume presents a vast spectrum of critical analyses covering all Nabokov s major novels and several important short stories The highly original structure of the book and the fresh and often startling revelations of the essays dramatize as never before the unity and richness of Nabokov s unique literary achievement

Charlottengrad Roman Utkin,2023-08 Charlottengrad examines the Russian migr and exile community that found itself in Berlin during the first wave of emigration after the 1917 Revolution brought the tsarist government of Russia crashing down Roman Utkin shows that the idea of a community aligned with Imperial Russia and hostile to the new Soviet government is far too simplistic By closely studying the intellectual output of some of the hundreds of thousands of Russian migr s ensconced in Berlin s Charlottenburg neighborhood Utkin reveals a picture of some of the world s first stateless peoples struggling to understand their new identity as emigrants and exiles balancing their sense of Russianness with their position in a modern bustling Western city and navigating their political and personal positionality toward a homeland that was no longer home

Authorship in Nabokov's Prefaces Jacqueline Hamrit,2015-01-12 Whereas literary criticism has mainly oscillated between the death of the author Barthes and the return of the author Couturier this work suggests another perspective on authorship through an analysis of Nabokov s prefaces It is here argued that the author being neither dead nor tyrannical alternates between authoritative apparitions and receding disappearances in the double gesture of mastery without mastery which Derrida calls exappropriation that is a simultaneous attempt to appropriate one's work control it have it under one's power and expropriate it losing control by loosening one's grip The intention of this is to approach through one's experience of reading and interpreting the experience of self effacement and impersonality pertaining to writing of Blanchot Prefaces are considered to be suitable places for the deconstruction of the classical image of Nabokov's arrogance through the unearthing of his reserve and vulnerability This work provides an account of the mere intuition which therefore does not pretend to be a conclusive and definitive interpretation of another image of Nabokov whose undeniable talent for deception seems in accordance with a need for discretion and secrecy
