Federal Extension Service, 1982 Extension Review, 1983 Gabriel García Márquez and the Cinema Alessandro Rocco, 2014 This book focuses on Gabriel Garcia Marquez's relations with the world of cinema Far from being an occasional occupation Garcia Marquez's film work forms an intrinsic part of his overall aesthetic and literary poetics The book's primary aim is to present a detailed study of Garcia Marquez's wide ranging filmography which has never received a comprehensive systematic analysis Rocco argues that it should be recognised as an integral part of the author's narrative output and brought into the mainstream of studies concerning his literary activity The first part of the book reconstructs the trajectory of Garcia Marquez's career in cinema and his connections with the world of film The second part looks at all the screenplays written by Garcia Marquez on which actual films have been based These are examined chronologically but also analysed according to thematic and aesthetic concerns and placed in relation to the novels and short stories with which they are twinned in terms of the film product Book jacket Capellio: The new adventures of Pinocchio's son Debra P. Tippin, Brigitte Tippin, Ph.D., 2011-09-02 Join Capellio and his friends on an adventure to save the magic that brought his father Pinocchio to life This sequel to Pinocchio is a story about truth and friendship set in a modern earth friendly tale that is entertaining for children and parents alike Bulletin of the Bureau of Fisheries, 1911 Animal Kingdom, 1972

A Heart in Port Emily Givner, 2007 The fictional worlds that Emily Givner was intent on evoking are subtle yet lucid her characters often wrought with inherent contradictions her narrators keen eyed and pithy In the title story of the collection A Heart In Port a seemingly light hearted send up of heartbreak a Canadian woman waits in vain for the return of her European lover amid the comedic shards of those close to her The narrator's caustic eye shifts between lives touched by illness and disappointment and the backdrop of life's sharp ironies Irony is apparent as well in In Sook when a visiting music professor adored by his Korean students finds himself in conversation with the glass eye of one When the glass eye starts speaking to Professor Andresj the voice leads him to certain infidelity with the one student who is capable of the encounter This mode of the surreal also enlightens the Kafkaesque The Resemblance Between a Violin Case and a Cockroach a story which quite apart from its quiet forewarning of Emily Givner's own death is a juggling act of improbability breakdown sly rhetoric fairytale and literary allusion all sustained by the perceptions of a young girl Clarissa These stories are never quite what they present themselves as being In some Canadian Mint and Private Eye a small apparent flaw in the story s internal logic creates a puzzle and a hint and to solve that puzzle the reader is led back to the story again to read it with new eyes There is often something otherworldly afoot too organic to be merely surreal too witty to strain credulity Always peeling the layers of intense relationships Givner never lets questions of culture race and politics escape her In Polonaise the relationship between an older Polish musician and young Canadian Jewish woman is consummated under the cloud that anti Semitism is alive and well in Poland
