Blind Reflections Kristie A. Foell, 1994 In the first full length analysis of gender in Die Blendung Auto da Fe Kristie Foell argues that Nobel prize winner Elias Canetti's novel depends on deep seated misogynies for its narrative impact Foell asks not only how the novel represents women but also how it presents the male protagonist's evolving view of women how the novel comments on his views and how Canetti has addressed issues of gender and representation in his other writings Foell probes the extent of the novel's dependence on early twentieth century Viennese gender theory particularly that of Otto Weininger known for such acerbic statements as Woman is man's fault Karl Kraus and Sigmund Freud also figure in the novel's psychology of misogyny prostitution and murder lust The study concludes by investigating the relative weight of paranoia homosexuality misogyny and Canetti's crowd theory in Peter Kien's final self immolation

Ephemeral Aphorisms Sophia Rilke, Sophie Rilke, 1998 The fact that many of Phia Rilke's texts are based on her own personal experiences and are not mere linguistic and intellectual wordplays invests them with depth and significance and makes them the fascinating expression of a free spirit of the fin de siècle in Prague and Vienna This bilingual edition of Phia Rilke's personal reflections on her life and time adds insightful observations on the rich cultural scene to which she belonged for eight decades

Elfriede Jelinek Jorun B. Johns, Katherine Arens, 1994 The essays collected here demonstrate the range and significance of this major literary voice addressing Jelinek as a master of modernist prose of postmodern critiques of literary genres of stage and screen and of feminist and antifascist criticism Jelinek's oeuvre encompasses reworkings of older literary genres reminiscent of Joyce Carol Oates refashioned as contemporary criticism of domestic violence pornography oppression of women or the continuance of the fascist legacy in the everyday world of contemporary Austria and Germany Her experiments on the stage and screen are as eerily evocative as the works of Robert Wilson yet deliver trenchant political and social critiques as their shared modernist and postmodern agendas would require

The Wild Woman and Other Plays Felix Mitterer, 1995 This second volume of Felix Mitterer's plays in English translation offers further evidence of this dramatist's powerful artistry A mythological Wild Woman changes the lives of five wood cutters exposing their loneliness and desperation Home reiterates the dictum that you can't go home again especially where prejudice brutality and hatred reside An historical drama based on actual court records Children of the Devil depicts institutional superstition and cruelty as perpetuated upon the most vulnerable members of society its children One Everyman is a modern version of the traditional medieval morality play complete with a Devil from Wall Street while the Biblical analogy Abraham concerns the scourge of AIDS but even more the love between a father and his son The Austrian playwright Felix Mitterer born in 1948 in the Tyrol is one of today's leading European dramatists His two four part television series Piefke Saga and Verkaufte Heimat were seen by millions of viewers in the German speaking countries Austria,

1938-1988 William Edward Wright, 1995 Austria's government her writers and most disappointingly her universities were without effect in bracing Austria's people against the Anschluss and indeed may have hastened it Once the Anschluss was a fait accompli most Austrians accommodated as German citizens but some resisted either in civil disobedience or in active opposition especially late in the war Vienna, the Past in the Present Inge Lehne, Lonnie Johnson, 1995 The best access to Vienna is through its history This chronologically organised survey of Vienna from its origins to the present does not presuppose any detailed knowledge of Central European history The book covers cultural political and social influences

Plague in Siena Erich Wolfgang Skwara, 1994 Plague in Siena presents a new and altogether different version of the centuries old chain of literature about the mythical Don Juan In this novel the diabolical or desperate seducer is seen as an aging gentleman living in our own time He has grown tired of adventure and has lost his faith in Europe's mission of both soul and mind The novel presents the reader with a loose sequence of scenes showing Don Juan engaged in encounters of his mind Having escaped the great plague of Siena of 1348 he is shown together with the painter Vincent van Gogh with the poet Oscar Wilde with Frederic Chopin but also with nameless yet beautiful youths all attempts to justify his life and Europe's history Ice on the Bridge Erich Wolfgang Skwara, 1997 At the final banquet Winter is seized by the fear that his wife could suddenly appear among the guests He gets drunk and in driving home kills a pedestrian and is arrested While in jail awaiting bail from Vienna he relives the past that has led up to this point in his life A young murderer placed in the cell with him becomes a catalyst for Winter's life Felix Mitterer Nicholas J. Meyerhofer, Karl Eugene Webb, 1995 During the last decade the contemporary author Felix Mitterer has grown steadily in both critical and popular acclaim emerging as one of the most popular playwrights in German speaking Europe today His dramas are performed regularly on all of the major stages in Germany and Austria and his television plays and series attract large audiences In recent years Mitterer s works have also begun to attract serious interest abroad they have been translated into twelve different languages This critical introduction the companion piece to the recently published plays in English Siberia and Other Plays 1994 and The Wild Woman and Other Plays 1995 introduces this important writer to an English speaking audience Because the topics dealt with in his plays have universal human validity and appeal there is every reason to believe that Felix Mitterer will find the same resonance in the English speaking world that he has received at home
