Forgetting the Alamo, Or, Blood Memory Emma Pérez, 2010-01-01 In this literary novel set in nineteenth century Texas a Tejana lesbian cowgirl embarks on an adventure after the fall of the Alamo Micaela Campos witnesses the violence against Mexicans African Americans and indigenous peoples after the infamous battles of the Alamo and of San Jacinto both in 1836 Resisting an easy opposition between good versus evil and brown versus white characters the novel also features Micaela's Mexican Anglo cousin who assists and hinders her progress Micaela's travels give us a new portrayal of the American West populated by people of mixed races who are vexed by the collision of cultures and politics Ultimately Micaela's journey and her romance with a Black American Indian woman teach her that there are no easy solutions to the injustices that birthed the Texas Republic This novel is an intervention in queer history and fiction with its love story between two women of color in mid nineteenth century Texas Perez also shows how a colonial past still haunts our nation's imagination The battles of the Alamo and San Jacinto offered freedom and liberty to Texans but what is often erased from the story is that common people who were Mexican Indian and Black did not necessarily benefit from the influx of so many Anglo immigrants to Texas The social themes and identity issues that Perez explores political climate debates over immigration and historical revision of the American West are current today Perez's sparse clean writing style is a blend of Cormac McCarthy Carson McCullers and Annie Proulx This makes for a quick and engrossing reading experience as the narrative has a fluid quality about it Alicia Gaspar de Alba professor and chair of Chicana and Chicano Studies University of California Los Angeles and author of Sor Juana's Second Dream Riveting Emma Perez captures well the violence and the chaos of the southwest borderlands during the time of territorial and international disputes in the 1800s Perez vividly depicts the conflicts between nations with the authority of a historian and with language belonging to a poet A fine fine read Helena Maria Viramontes author of Their Dogs Came with Them Perez's new novel Powerfully presents a revenge tale from an unusual point of view that of a displaced Chicana in 1836 Texas The writing is sharp and clever The dialogue is realistic Lambda Literary Lambda Award Finalist Filled with lush beauty harshness and horrifying brutality this is one of those books in which you just KNOW what's going to happen at the end but you're wrong The Gay Lesbian Review Sovereign Stories and Blood Memories Annette Angela Portillo, 2017-12-15 In Sovereign Stories Annette Angela Portillo examines Native American women's autobiographical discourses and multiple voiced life stories that resist generic conventional notions of first person narrative She argues that these sovereign stories and blood memories not only reveal the multilayered histories and identities shared by each author but demonstrate how their narratives are grounded in ancestral memory and land These autobiographies recall settler colonialism deterritorialization and genocide as the writers and activist scholars reclaim their voices across cultural national and digital boundaries Portillo provides close readings of memoirs life stories oral histories blogs social media sites and experimental multigenre narratives including those by Delfina Cuero Ruby Modesto Leslie Marmon Silko Pretty Shield Zitkala Sa and Sarah Winnemucca Hopkins Blood Narrative Chadwick Allen, 2002-08-06 Compares the discourses of indigeneity used by Maori and Native American peoples and proposes the concept treaty discourse to characterize the relevant form of postcolonial situation Blood Memories Barb Hendee, 2008-10-07 Eleisha a vampire is far older than she looks and makes men yearn to care for her Then she usually kills them since self preservation

Ethics and Nostalgia in the Contemporary Novel John J. Su, 2005-11-24 Images of loss and yearning played a crucial role in literary texts written in the later part of the twentieth century Despite deep cultural differences novelists from Africa the Caribbean Great Britain and the United States share a sense that the economic social and political forces associated with late modernity have evoked widespread nostalgia within the communities in which they write In this original and wide ranging study John J Su explores the relationship between nostalgia and ethics in novels across the English speaking world He challenges the tendency in literary studies to characterise memory as positive and nostalgia as necessarily negative Instead this book argues that nostalgic fantasies are crucial to the ethical visions presented by topical novels From Jean Rhys to Wole Soyinka and from V S Naipaul to Toni Morrison Su identifies nostalgia as a central concern in the twentieth century novel

Indigenous Cities Laura M. Furlan, 2017 In Indigenous Cities Laura M Furlan demonstrates that stories of the urban experience are essential to an understanding of modern Indigeneity She situates Native identity among theories of diaspora cosmopolitanism and transnationalism by examining urban narratives such as those written by Sherman Alexie Janet Campbell Hale Louise Erdrich and Susan Power along with the work of filmmakers and artists In these stories Native peoples navigate new surroundings find and reformulate community and maintain and redefine Indian identity in the postrelocation era These narratives illuminate the changing relationship between urban Indigenous peoples and their tribal nations and territories and the ways in which new cosmopolitan bonds both reshape and are interpreted by tribal identities Though the majority of American Indigenous populations do not reside on reservations these spaces regularly define discussions and literature about Native citizenship and identity Meanwhile conversations about the shift to urban settings often focus on elements of dispossession subjectivity and assimilation Furlan takes a critical look at Indigenous fiction from the last three decades to present a new way of looking at urban experiences that explains mobility and relocation as a form of resistance In these stories Indian bodies are not bound by state imposed borders or confined to Indian Country as it is traditionally conceived Furlan demonstrates that cities have always been Indian land and Indigenous peoples have always been cosmopolitan and urban Rheumatoid Arthritis E-Book Marc C. A Genealogy of Literary Multiculturalism Christopher Douglas, 2011-08-15 As an anthropology student studying with Franz Boas Zora Neale Hurston recorded African American folklore in rural central Florida studied hoodoo in New Orleans and voodoo in Haiti talked with the last ex slave to survive the Middle Passage and collected music from Jamaica Her ethnographic work would serve as the basis for her novels and other writings in which she shaped a vision of African American Southern rural folk culture articulated through an antiracist concept of culture championed by Boas culture as plural relative and long lived Meanwhile a very different antiracist model of culture learned from Robert Park s sociology allowed Richard Wright to imagine African American culture in terms of severed traditions marginal consciousness and generation gaps In A Genealogy of Literary Multiculturalism Christopher Douglas uncovers the largely unacknowledged role played by ideas from sociology and anthropology in nourishing the politics and forms of minority writers from diverse backgrounds Douglas divides the history of multicultural writing in the United States into three periods The first which spans the 1920s and 1930s features minority writers such as Hurston and D Arcy McNickle who were indebted to the work of Boas and his attempts to detach culture from race The second period from 1940 to the mid 1960s was a time of assimilation and integration as seen in the work of authors such as Richard Wright Jade Snow Wong John Okada and Ralph Ellison who were influenced by currents in sociological thought The third period focuses on the writers we associate with contemporary literary multiculturalism including Toni Morrison N Scott Momaday Frank Chin Ishmael Reed and Gloria Anzald a Douglas shows that these more recent writers advocated a literary nationalism that was based on a modified Boasian anthropology and that laid the pluralist grounds for our current conception of literary multiculturalism Ultimately Douglas s unified field theory of multicultural literature brings together divergent African American Asian American Mexican American and Native American literary traditions into one story of how we moved from thinking about groups as races to thinking about groups as cultures and then back again

The work of considering imagining and theorizing the U S South in regional national and global contexts is an intellectual project that has been going on for some time Scholars in history literature and other disciplines have developed an advanced understanding of the historical social and cultural forces that have helped to shape the U S South However most of the debates on these subjects have taken place within specific academic disciplines with few attempts to cross engage Navigating Souths broadens these exchanges by facilitating transdisciplinary conversations about southern studies scholarship The fourteen original essays in Navigating Souths articulate questions about the significances of the South as a theoretical and literal home base for social science and humanities researchers They also examine challenges faced by researchers who identify as southern studies scholars as well as by those who live and work in the regional South and show how researchers have responded to these challenges In doing so this book project seeks to reframe the field of southern studies as it is currently being practiced by social science and humanities scholars and thus reshape historical and cultural conceptualizations of the region
