Veatch,2009 Robert Veatch is one of the most distinguished American bioethicists having in many ways helped to create that field His new book is on a theme he has developed for thirty years his view that a fundamental and radical change is sweeping through the American health care system but has so far received relatively little attention This change is so fundamental and far reaching that Veatch claims we are in the early stages of a new medicine that will replace what we think of as modern medical practice The change is in how we think about medical decision making Whereas modern medicine s core idea was that medical decisions should be based on the cold hard facts of science the province of the doctor the new medicine reflects the notion that medical decisions impose value judgments Since physicians can claim no expertise on making those value judgments the pendulum has swung greatly toward the patient in evaluating alternatives and making decisions about their treatment While the doctor s expertise is consulted the patient is in control In short doctor no longer knows best Veatch shows how this is only true for value loaded interventions abortion euthanasia genetics but coming to be true for almost every routine procedure in medicine everything from setting broken arms to choosing drugs for cholesterol or osteoporosis Veatch uses a range of fascinating contemporary and historical examples to reveal how values underly almost all medical procedures and illustrate his case that this change is inevitable and a positive trend for patients The Best 109 Internships, 9th Edition Mark Oldman,Princeton Review (Firm),2003 Includes more than 20 000 internship opportunities Cover
