The yellow Crime - Beleaguered in Peking. The Boxer's War Robert Coltman, 2016-08-10 Authentic details furnished by representatives of those legations whose work has been specially mentioned have made possible a greater detail in those cases I regret that others who had promised me accounts of their work have failed to furnish the promised material The siege at Peking or North Cathedral coincident with that of the legations and civilians is not described for the reason that we were absolutely cut off from them for over sixty days and knew nothing of their movements Much detail that might be interesting to many I have been obliged to omit as it would make the book too cumbersome To my sixteen year old son the youngest soldier to shoulder a rifle during the siege I am indebted for much of the diary and great help in copying A considerable portion of the book was written with bullets whistling about us as we sat in the students library building of the English legation There are several men whose work entitles them to decorations from all the countries represented in the siege and their names will be indelibly written in our memories even if the powers and ministers concerned overlook them I refer to F A Gamewell August Chamot Colonel Shiba and Herbert G Squiers
