Black Feminist Anthropology Irma

McClaurin, 2001 In the discipline's early days anthropologists by definition were assumed to be white and male. Women and black scholars were relegated to the field's periphery. From this marginal place white feminist anthropologists have successfully carved out an acknowledged intellectual space identified as feminist anthropology. Unfortunately the works of black and non-western feminist anthropologists are rarely cited and they have yet to be respected as significant shapers of the direction and transformation of feminist anthropology. In this volume Irma McClaurin has collected for the first time essays that explore the role and contributions of black feminist anthropologists. She has asked her contributors to disclose how their experiences as black women have influenced their anthropological practice in Africa, the Caribbean and the United States and how anthropology has influenced their development as black feminists. Every chapter is a unique journey that enables the reader to see how scholars are made. The writers present material from their own fieldwork to demonstrate how these experiences were shaped by their identities. Finally each essay suggests how the author's field experiences have influenced the theoretical and methodological choices she has made throughout her career. Not since Diane Wolf's Feminist Dilemmas in the Field or Hortense Powdermaker's Stranger and Friend have we had such a breadth of women anthropologists discussing the critical and personal issues that emerge when doing ethnographic research. Encyclopedia of Women's History in America Kathryn Cullen-DuPont, 2014-05-14 A collection of biographical information about outstanding women in American history. Crafting in the World Clare Burke, Suzanne M. Spencer-Wood, 2018-11-09 This volume expands understandings of crafting practices which in the past was the major relational interaction between the social agency of materials, technology and people in co-creating an emergent ever-changing world. The chapters discuss different ways that crafting in the present is useful in understanding crafting experiences and methods in the past including experiments to reproduce ancient excavated objects, historical accounts of crafting methods and experiences, craft revivals and teaching historical crafts at museums and schools. Crafting in the World is unique in the diversity of its theoretical and multidisciplinary approaches to researching crafting not just as a set of techniques for producing functional objects but as social practices and technical choices embodying cultural ideas, knowledge and multiple interwoven social networks. Crafting expresses and constitutes mental schemas, identities, ideologies and cultures. The multiple meanings and significances of crafting are explored from a great variety of disciplinary perspectives including anthropology, archaeology, sociology, education, psychology, women's studies and ethnic studies. This book provides a deep temporal range and a global geographical scope with case studies ranging from Europe, Africa and Asia to the Americas and a global internet website for selling home-crafted items. Books and Pamphlets, Including Serials and Contributions to Periodicals Library of Congress.
