Poetry, Symbol, and Allegory Simon Brittan, 2003 Dealing with poetry is frequently problematic for the university teacher and student although undergraduates are usually responsive to discussions about drama and prose poetry often silences the classroom Unless a poem provides references easily applicable to their own lives many students feel they can't relate to the piece and are stymied In particular allegorical poetry produces tensions among the desire to find the meanings of the poet's symbolism the fear of voicing a wrong interpretation and a natural objection to perceived restrictions on interpretive freedom Poetry Symbol and Allegory eases that dilemma by providing a historical overview of theories of interpretation as they apply to symbol and allegory in poetry thereby reclaiming valuable and useful methods of analyzing poems Beginning with Plato and Aristotle Simon Brittan moves from classical theory to the lesser known medieval exegetical theories of such notables as Augustine Aquinas and Origen addresses theory pertaining to Renaissance Italy and Dante English theory of the Middle Ages the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and the Romantic period and concludes by weighing the poetry of T E Hulme T S Eliot and Ezra Pound on the larger historical scale of literary theory By acknowledging interpretive theories of the past Brittan provides a proper historical frame of reference in which today's student can better understand figurative language in poetry Simon Brittan is an independent scholar who divides his time between England and Michigan He has taught at the University of East Anglia and in the Department for Continuing Education at the University of Oxford and written for Renaissance Forum the Times Literary Supplement and Gravesiana Symbolism, Synesthesia, and Semiotics, Multidisciplinary Approach Bonaventure Balla, 2012-10

Complementary Modes of Representation in Keats, Novalis, and Shelley Irena Nikolova, 2001 This book explores the crisis of Romantic representation by regarding the literary text not only as a figuration of what lies beyond it but by also considering how its figures are involved in more complex interactions among inner visions textual representations and their subsequent interpretations This approach to the problem of representation aims at redefining the indeterminacies of the Romantic text by analyzing it in terms of the Romantic process of becoming of its self revisions and self interpretations Instead of locating differential structures within the text that denote the impossibility of reconciling conception and expression this book seeks to reconstruct the text as a totality by suggesting that its different modes of representation do not contradict but complement each other The construction of the paradigm of complementarity based on German Romantic aesthetics and German and English Romantic literature is positioned as an alternative to the approaches of deconstruction
