State Board of Agriculture,1886 Red Desert Annie Proulx,2012-07-25 A photographic and multidisciplinary study of one of America s last undeveloped and most endangered landscapes edited by a Pulitzer Prize winning author A vast expanse of rock formations sand dunes and sagebrush in central and southwest Wyoming the little known Red Desert is one of the last undeveloped landscapes in the United States as well as one of the most endangered It is a last refuge for many species of wildlife Sitting atop one of North America s largest untapped reservoirs of natural gas the Red Desert is a magnet for energy producers who are damaging its complex and fragile ecosystem in a headlong race to open a new domestic source of energy and reap the profits To capture and preserve what makes the Red Desert both valuable and scientifically and historically interesting writer Annie Proulx and photographer Martin Stupich enlisted a team of scientists and scholars to join them in exploring the Red Desert through many disciplines geology hydrology paleontology ornithology zoology entomology botany climatology anthropology archaeology sociology and history Their essays reveal many fascinating often previously unknown facts about the Red Desert everything from the rich pocket habitats that support an amazing diversity of life to engrossing stories of the transcontinental migrations that began in prehistory and continue today on I 80 which bisects the Red Desert Complemented by Martin Stupich s photo essay which portrays both the beauty and the devastation that characterize the region today Red Desert bears eloquent witness to a unique landscape in its final years as a wild place The Changing Global Environment S.F. Singer,2012-12-06 We know a great deal about historical climate and its variations from various geo logical studies There are two points worth remarking on One is that the climate changes frequently and radically but that the degree of variation and even sense of variation depends on the time scale which we are considering Secondly that this is a most unusual geological period for the Planet Earth we are living in a period of mountain building and glaciations whereas during most of the last 250 million years there was little ice and little topography A good view of climate change of the last hundred years can be gained by looking at the paper of Kellogg We are now in a period of extensive glaciations The previous interval occurred 300 to 250 million years ago when even the Sahara was glaciated Of course it was at that time near the position of the South Pole we know that 300 million years ago the continents had not broken apart and formed one land mass Apparently between 250 and 20 million years ago there was little ice on the Earth even at Antarctica Continental basins were flooded by shallow seas This was the period when plant life and marine life proliferated and when most of our fossil fuels were laid down Thriving on Our Changing Planet National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Space Studies Board,Committee on the Decadal Survey for Earth Science and Applications from Space,2019-01-20 We live on a dynamic Earth shaped by both natural processes and the impacts of humans on their environment It is in our collective interest to observe and understand our planet and to predict future behavior to the extent possible in order to effectively manage resources successfully respond to threats from natural and human induced environmental change and capitalize on the opportunities social economic security and more that such knowledge can bring By continuously monitoring and exploring Earth developing a deep understanding of its evolving behavior and characterizing the processes that shape and reshape the environment in which we live we not only advance knowledge and basic discovery about our planet but we further develop the foundation upon which benefits to society are built Thriving on Our Changing Planet presents prioritized science applications and observations along with related strategic and programmatic guidance to support the U S civil space Earth observation program over the coming decade Bulletin Michigan State University.
