

other forms, i.e. self administered or personal interview, will prove to be expensive as well as tedious. Hence the most effective choice for this question will be "telephonic – surveys".

c) A survey of 58 wholesale grocery companies, scattered over the eastern United States, on their personnel management policies for warehouse personnel.

Solution:

The most suited method for this survey would be a "telephonic – survey". The use of a telephonic survey will allow the researcher to gain in – depth information on the management policies, which would otherwise not be possible. The use of personal interviews would not be feasible as the costs involved would be high considering the respondents are scattered over the Eastern U.S. Also self administered surveys will not be effective as the responses will be very limited without possibility of probing to get accurate information (Silverman, 2005). Hence the most effective method for this would be "telephonic – surveys".

d) A survey of financial officers of the Fortune 500 corporations to learn their predictions for the economic outlook in their industries in the next year.

Solution:

Gaining information from financial officers of the Fortune 500 companies requires time and flexibility. Considering their busy schedules and the need for anonymity, the most effective method for this survey would be a 'self – administered' survey (Sekaran, 2000). This will allow the officers to fill out the surveys when they are free and have time to spare without disturbing
