Arrival And Settlement In A New Place:

Migration and Identity in Central Asia Rano Turaeva, 2015-11-19 This book is an ethnographic and sociolinguistic study of Uzbek migrants in the capital city of Uzbekistan. The ethnographic details of the book represent post-Soviet urban realities on the ground where various forms of belonging clash and kinship ties are reinforced within social safety networks. Theoretically, it challenges the existing theories of identity and identification which often considered the relations between We and Them taking the We for granted. The book offers in-depth insights into the communication strategies of migrants, the formation of collective consciousness and the relations within the We domain. Constructed around contradictions regarding Uzbek identity and how various groups relate to one another as different ethnic groups, the theoretical argument of the book is built through such methods and analytical tools as strategic rhetoric and discourse analysis, communication and identity theories, and the analysis of power and dependence. The book will be of interest to students and scholars of Central Asian Studies, Migration Studies, and Central Asian Culture and Society.

Home Across Borders Jagath Bandara Pathirage, 2024-10-08 This book studies how transnational migrants create a sense of home in their host countries. It draws on case studies of Sri Lankan migrants living in Australia to argue that home is an existential experience rather than a fixed entity. The author looks at how the sense of home arises as a fresh category which is critical in defining one's existentiality in the host society. Going beyond the conventional methodological approach of an ethnographer objectivizing other's sense of home into fixed categories, the book attempts to foreground the immigrant's articulation of home which evolves parallel to their being. It reveals how three important aspects of our lives: time, space, and memory intersect with the trajectories of migration. The author also delves into the ways in which migrants engage in building a home as a way of creating materiality in their dwelling practice. Unique and compelling, the book will be highly useful in studies of diaspora, globalisation, and transnational migration. It will be of interest to students, researchers, and scholars of anthropology, migration and transnational studies, as well as sociology and other related disciplines.

The Geography of Manitoba John Welsted, John Everitt, Christoph Stadel, 1996-03-15 Manitoba is more than one of Canada's three prairie provinces. Encompassing 649 950 square kilometres, its territory ranges from Canadian Shield to grassland parkland and subarctic tundra. Its physical geography has been shaped by ice age glaciers, while its human geography reflects the influences of its various inhabitants from the First Nations who began arriving over 9 000 years ago to its most recent immigrants. This fascinating range of geographical elements has given Manitoba a distinct identity and makes it a unique area for study Geography of Manitoba is the first comprehensive guide to all aspects of the human and physical geography of this unique province Representing the work of 47 scholars and illustrated with over 200 maps diagrams and photographs it is divided into four main sections covering the major areas of the province s geography Physical Background People and Settlements Resources and Industry and Recreation As well as studying historical developments the contributors to Geography of Manitoba analyse recent political and economic events in the province including the effect of federal and provincial elections and international trade agreements They also comment on future prospects for the province considering areas as diverse as resource management and climatic trends
