The Angkorian World Mitch Hendrickson, Miriam T. Stark, Damian Evans, 2023-04-28 The Angkorian

World explores the history of Southeast Asia's largest ancient state from the first to mid second millennium CE. Chapters by leading scholars combine evidence from archaeology, texts and the natural sciences to introduce the Angkorian state, describe its structure and explain its persistence over more than six centuries. Comprehensive and accessible, this book will be an indispensable resource for anyone studying premodern Asia. The volume's first of six sections provides historical and environmental contexts and discusses data sources and the nature of knowledge production. The next three sections examine the anthropogenic landscapes of Angkor: agrarian, urban and hydraulic; the state institutions that shaped the Angkorian state; and the economic foundations on which Angkor operated. Part V explores Angkorian ideologies and realities from religion and nation to identity. The volume's last part reviews political and aesthetic Angkorian legacies in an effort to explain why the idea of Angkor remains central to its Cambodian descendants. Maps, graphics and photographs guide readers through the content of each chapter. Chapters in this volume synthesise more than a century of work at Angkor and in the regions it influenced. The Angkorian World will satisfy students, researchers, academics and the knowledgeable layperson who seeks to understand how this great Angkorian Empire arose and functioned in the premodern world. The Imperial Network in Ancient China Maxim Korolkov, 2021-11-18. This book examines the emergence of imperial state in East Asia during the period ca 400 BCE–200 CE as a network-based process, showing how the geography of early interregional contacts south of the Yangzi River informed the directions of Sinitic state expansion. Drawing from an extensive collection of sources including transmitted textual records, archaeological evidence, excavated legal manuscripts and archival documents from Liye, this book demonstrates the breadth of human and material resources available to the empire builders of an early imperial network throughout southern East Asia, from institutions and infrastructures to the relationships that facilitated circulation. This network is shown to have been essential to the consolidation of Sinitic imperial rule in the sub-tropical zone south of the Yangzi, against formidable environmental, epidemiological and logistical odds. This is also the first study to explore how the interplay between an imperial network and alternative frameworks of long-distance interaction in ancient East Asia shaped the political-economic trajectory of the Sinitic world and its involvement in Eurasian globalization. Contributing to debates around imperial state formation, the applicability of world system models and the comparative study of empires, The Imperial Network in Ancient China will be of significant interest to students and scholars of East Asian studies, archaeology and history.

Glenn M. Schwartz, John J. Nichols, 2010-08-15 From the Euphrates Valley to the southern Peruvian Andes early complex societies have risen and fallen but in some cases they have also been reborn Prior archaeological investigation of these societies has focused primarily on emergence and collapse This is the first book length work to examine the question of how and why early complex urban societies have reappeared after periods of decentralization and collapse Ranging widely across the Near East the Aegean East Asia Mesoamerica and the Andes these cross cultural studies expand our understanding of social evolution by examining how societies were transformed during the period of radical change now termed collapse They seek to discover how societal complexity reemerged how second generation states formed and how these re emergent states resembled or differed from the complex societies that preceded them The contributors draw on material culture as well as textual and ethnohistoric data to consider such factors as preexistent institutions structures and ideologies that are influential in regeneration economic and political resilience the role of social mobility marginal groups and peripheries and ethnic change In addition to presenting a number of theoretical viewpoints the contributors also propose reasons why regeneration sometimes does not occur after collapse A concluding contribution by Norman Yoffee provides a critical exegesis of collapse and highlights important patterns found in the case histories related to peripheral regions and secondary elites and to the ideology of statecraft After Collapse blazes new research trails in both archaeology and the study of social change demonstrating that the archaeological record often offers more clues to the dark ages that precede regeneration than do text based studies It opens up a new window on the past by shifting the focus away from the rise and fall of ancient civilizations to their often more telling fall and rise CONTRIBUTORS Bennet Bronson Arlen F Chase Diane Z Chase Christina A Conlee Lisa Cooper Timothy S Hare Alan L Kolata Marilyn A Masson Gordon F McEwan Ellen Morris Ian Morris Carlos Peraza Lope Kenny Sims Miriam T Stark Jill A Weber Norman Yoffee      國際人類學與考古學學會 2010 年 8 月 15 日出版, 2010-08-15
