The Sten Gun Leroy Thompson, 2012-09-20. The Sten submachine gun, officially the Carbine Machine Sten, was developed to fulfill the pressing British need for large quantities of cheaply produced weapons after Dunkirk when German invasion was a very real possibility. Over four million were built during World War II and the Sten was widely used by airborne troops, tankers, and others who needed a compact weapon with substantial firepower. It proved especially popular with Resistance fighters as it was easy to conceal, deadly at close range, and could fire captured German ammunition with a design so simple that Resistance fighters were able to produce them in bicycle shops. Featuring vivid first hand accounts, specially commissioned full colour artwork, and close up photographs, this is the fascinating story of the mass produced submachine gun that provided Allied soldiers and Resistance fighters with devastating close range firepower.

An in depth history of the small arms made by the Sterling Company of Dagenham, Essex, England, from 1940 until the company closed in 1989. The Lanchester and the Patchett Machine Carbines were both developed at Sterling Engineering Co Ltd during World War II. With the appearance of the earliest Patchett prototypes, the military began testing them in ever more rigorous trials wherein the Patchett kept proving its merits. This led to limited UK adoption of the MkII Patchett as the L2A1 in 1953 and the first Sterling the MkII as the L2A2 in 1955. Then came Sterling's Crown Jewel, the superb Mk4, adopted as the general issue UK Gun Sub Machine L2A3 in September 1955. Manufactured briefly but intensively by ROF Fazakerley in 1955, 1959, and by Sterling for over 30 years, nearly 4,000,000 were made. Unlike wraparound bolt designs like the UZI, the Sterling was capable of being truly silenced with standard 9mm ball ammunition as opposed to being merely suppressed The excellent silenced Sterling Patchett Mk5 adopted as the UK L34A1 in 1967 is the only Sterling remaining in British Service All prototypes military Marks commercial and licensed production models of the Sterling are described including the Canadian C1 SMG and the Indian 1A Carbine Contains notes on manufacturing methods and procedures as used at Sterling ROF Fazakerley Canadian Arsenals Limited and the Indian Small Arms Factory Kanpur Cawnpore plus extensive notes on inter model interchangeability serial number ranges quantities produced client country purchases of the various Sterling Marks and accessories Praise for A History of the Small Arms made by the Sterling Armament Company If you have an interest in small arms then this is a book that belongs in your library or book shelf The book does a great job of providing the reader with the story of the weapons that evolved into the Sterling sub machine gun and the changes in design that took place over that history The result was a weapon that served in many fields of conflict and performed admirably Armorama The
