A Bibliography Of Ohio Archeology:

A Bibliography of Ohio Archeology James L. Murphy, 1977 American Antiquities Terry A. Barnhart, 2015-11-01 Writing the history of American archaeology especially concerning eighteenth and nineteenth century arguments is not always as straightforward as it might seem Archaeology's trajectory from an avocation to a semi profession to a specialized profession rather than being a linear progression was an untidy organic process that emerged from the intellectual tradition of antiquarianism It then closely allied itself with the natural sciences throughout the nineteenth century especially with geology and the debate about the origins and identity of the indigenous mound building cultures of the eastern United States In his reexamination of the eclectic interests and equally varied settings of nascent American archaeology Terry A Barnhart exposes several fundamental deeply embedded historiographical problems within the secondary literature relating to the nineteenth century debate about Mound Builders and American Indians Some issues are perceptual others contextual and still others are basic errors of fact Adding to the problem are semantic and contextual considerations arising from the problematic use of the term race as a synonym for tribe nation and race proper a concept and construct that does not in all instances translate into current understanding and usage American Antiquities uses this early discourse on the mounds to reframe perennial anthropological problems relating to human origins and antiquity in North America Ohio Archaeological and Historical Quarterly, 1978 Pennsylvania Archaeologist, 1993 Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science Allen Kent, Harold Lancour, Jay E. Daily, 1977-02-01 Ohio Archaeologist, 2007 The Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Quarterly, 1944 Art and Architecture; a Bibliography of Bibliographies Theodore Besterman, 1971 Bibliographies and Literature of Agriculture, 1978 A PERSISTENT PLACE: A LANDSCAPE APPROACH TO THE PREHISTORIC ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE GREENLEE TRACT IN SOUTHERN OHIO Matthew Purtil, 2012-06-23 Long term archaeological investigations at the Greenlee Tract by Gray the documentation of a rare open aired Early Woodland 700 100 B C ceremonial structure and some of the best evidence for Middle Archaic 6500 4000 B C occupation found anywhere in the state Rarely has such an array of topics been addressed in a single monograph project

Czech American Bibliography Miloslav Rechcigl, 2011-10-20 This is a comprehensive bibliography of publications relating to Czechs in America from the earliest time since the discovery of the New World to date covering their settlement community life and their contributions to their host country Although emphasis is on English titles including books as well as articles the relevant titles in Czech language have also been included particularly in those areas where there is a paucity of English titles English translations of the Czech titles were normally placed in parentheses To assure maximum utility the bibliography has been organized and classified into specific sectors by subject Under most major headings general surveys are listed first followed by more specific categories which have in turn been subdivided into subcategories Individual entries in all sections are arranged chronologically Under most subject areas separate biographical sections were added comprising individuals of note in the respective fields Apart from providing information on just about every aspect of human endeavor it is hoped that it will induce serious students and scholars to do more work in areas that have not been adequately researched

Mark Lynott,2015-02-05 Nearly 2000 years ago people living in the river valleys of southern Ohio built earthen monuments on a scale that is unmatched in the archaeological record for small scale societies The period from c 200 BC to c AD 500 Early to Middle Woodland witnessed the construction of mounds earthen walls ditches borrow pits and other earthen and stone features covering dozen of hectares at many sites and hundreds of hectares at some The development of the vast Hopewell Culture geometric earthwork complexes such as those at Mound City Chillicothe Hopewell and the Newark earthworks was accompanied by the establishment of wide ranging cultural contacts reflected in the movement of exotic and strikingly beautiful artefacts such as elaborate tobacco pipes obsidian and chert arrowheads copper axes and regalia animal figurines and delicately carved sheets of mica These phenomena coupled with complex burial rituals indicate the emergence of a political economy based on a powerful ideology of individual power and prestige and the creation of a vast cultural landscape within which the monument complexes were central to a ritual cycle encompassing a substantial geographical area The labour needed to build these vast cultural landscapes exceeds population estimates for the region and suggests that people from near and possibly far travelled to the Scioto and other river valleys to help with construction of these monumental earthen complexes Here Mark Lynott draws on more than a decade of research and extensive new datasets to re examine the spectacular and massive scale Ohio Hopewell landscapes and to explore the society that created them
