A Boatload Of Madmen:

A Boatload of Madmen Dickran Tashjian, 2001 In 1932 against the troubled background of the Depression the American art community had its first glimpse of the revolutionary art of the Surrealists Combining a fascination for Freud's new symbolic language of dreams with a radical utopianism the Parisian movement galvanized an emerging American avant garde New galleries opened to exhibit the terrifying insane works of Surrealist artists and new magazines sprang up to publish a startling crop of Surrealist poetry criticism and vociferous attacks on mainstream culture and politics Four years later a major Surrealist exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art in New York catapulted Surrealism into the cultural limelight Soon the art of Man Ray was selling cologne and swimwear and Salvador Dali was designing shop windows and a pavilion at the 1939 New York World's Fair Andre Breton and his circle exiled in Manhattan during World War II were unable to assert control over this new kind of Surrealism If anything their cultural dislocation in these years gave Americans the edge in developing new Surrealist concepts and movements such as Abstract Expressionism This innovative and vividly written cultural history tells the story of Surrealism's remarkable sea change during its years in America from a fiercely leftist strongly literary avant garde movement into an apolitical almost exclusively visual style Exploring both high and low cultural perspectives Dickran Tashjian shows how the American avant garde selectively filtered and reshaped European Surrealism to meet its own agendas and how it in turn was reinterpreted depoliticized and commercially exploited by mainstream American culture and the fashion advertising industry A Boatload of Madmen Dickran Tashjian, 1995

Generational Key to History Michael A. Susko, 2025-01-17 Generational Key to History Tracing Phases From Ancient Egypt to America This work reveals how generations form the hidden rhythm of history By charting time in 15 year generational intervals an approach first used by the medieval historian Bede and later championed by the twentieth century philosopher Jose Ortega y Gasset the author uncovers distinct phases that recur across civilizations Rather than relying solely on yearly dating which can fragment historical awareness this generational lens exposes history's deeper coherence The phases found are 1 Beginnings and testing 0-15 generations 2 Establishment and unifying image beginning at 15-20 generations 3 Consolidation and opening up 30 generations 4 Crisis and creativity 40 generations 5 Universalization and inclusion 50 generations and 6 Renewal or rigidification 60 generations Through detailed case studies Egypt Israel Judah Rome the Medieval Modern era and the United States the author shows how each culture moves through these generational arcs revealing a pattern that mirrors the human life cycle The 30th generation often neglected by historians emerges as a pivotal phase of openness justice and illumination In sum A Rosetta Key for History does not merely present a new way to measure time it reveals the living architecture of history itself Across continents and centuries generations become the Rosetta key for understanding time's unfolding design Playing with Earth and Sky James Housefield, 2016-07-05 Playing with Earth and Sky reveals the significance astronomy geography and aviation had for Marcel Duchamp widely regarded as the most influential artist of the past fifty years Duchamp transformed modern art by abandoning unique art objects in favor of experiences that could be both embodied and cerebral This illuminating study offers new interpretations of Duchamp's momentous works from readymades to the early performance art of shaving a comet in his hair It demonstrates how the immersive spaces and narrative environments of popular science from museums to the modern planetarium prepared paths for Duchamp's nonretinal art By situating Duchamp's career within the transatlantic cultural contexts of Dadaism and Surrealism this book enriches contemporary debates about the historical relationship between art and science This truly original study will appeal to a broad readership in art history and cultural studies

Surrealism and Architecture Thomas Mical, 2005-02-25 This is a historically informed examination of architecture's perceived absence in surrealist thought surrealist tendencies in the theories and projects of modern architecture and the place of surrealist thought in contemporary design This book represents current insights into surrealism in the thought and practice of modern architecture In these essays the role of the subconscious the techniques of defamiliarization aesthetic and social forces affecting the objects interiors cities and landscapes of the twentieth century are revealed The book contains a diversity of voices from across modern art and architecture to bring into focus what is often overlooked in the histories of the modernist avant garde This collection examines the practices of writers artists architects and urbanists with emphasis on a critique of the everyday world view offering alternative models of subjectivity artistic effect and the production of meanings in the built world

Women in Dada Naomi Sawelson-Gorse, 2001 his book is the first to make the case that women's changing role in European and American society was critical to Dada

The Exile of George Grosz Barbara McCloskey, 2015-01-31 The Exile of George Grosz examines the life and work of George Grosz after he fled Nazi Germany in 1933 and sought to re-establish his artistic career under changed circumstances in New York It situates Grosz's American production specifically within the cultural politics of German exile in the United States during World War II and the Cold War Basing her study on extensive archival research and using theories of exile migrancy and cosmopolitanism McCloskey explores how Grosz's art illuminates the changing cultural politics of exile She also foregrounds the terms on which German exile helped to define both the limits and possibilities of American visions of a one world order under U.S. leadership that emerged during this period This book presents Grosz's work in relation to that of other prominent figures of the German emigration including Thomas Mann and Bertolt Brecht as the exile community agonized over its measure of responsibility for the Nazi atrocity German culture had become and debated what Germany's postwar future should be Important too at this time were Grosz's interactions with the American art world His historical allegories self-portraits and other works are analyzed as confrontational responses to the New York art world's consolidating consensus around Surrealism and Abstract Expressionism during and after World War II This nuanced study recounts the controversial repatriation of Grosz's work and the exile culture of which it was a part to a German nation perilously divided between East and West in the Cold War in the 1920s and 1930s Surrealism, Cinema, and the Search for a New Myth Kristoffer Noheden, 2017-06-28 This book examines post war surrealist cinema in relation to surrealism's change in direction towards myth and magic following World War II. Intermedial and interdisciplinary, the book unites cinema studies with art history and the study of Western esotericism, closely engaging with a wide range of primary sources including surrealist journals, art exhibitions, and writings. Kristoffer Noheden looks to the Danish surrealist artist Wilhelm Freddie's forays into the experimental short film, the French poet Benjamin Péret's contribution to the documentary film L'Invention du monde, the Argentinean-born filmmaker Nelly Kaplan's feature films, and the Czech animator Jan Svankmajer's work in short and feature films. The book traces a continuous engagement with myth and magic throughout these films, uncovering a previously unknown strain of occult imagery in surrealist cinema. It broadens the scope of the study of not only surrealist cinema but of surrealism across the art forms. Surrealism, Cinema, and the Search for a New Myth will appeal to film scholars, art historians, and those interested in the impact of occultism on modern culture, film, and the arts.

Spiritual Moderns Erika Doss, 2023-05-03 Examines how and why religion matters in the history of modern American art. Andy Warhol is one of the best known American artists of the twentieth century. He was also an observant Catholic who carried a rosary, went to mass regularly, kept a Bible by his bedside, and depicted religious subjects throughout his career. Warhol was a spiritual modern, a modern artist who appropriated religious images, beliefs, and practices to create a distinctive style of American art. Spiritual Moderns centers on four American artists who were both modern and religious: Joseph Cornell, who showed with the Surrealists, was a member of the Church of Christ Scientist; Mark Tobey created pioneering works of Abstract Expressionism and was a follower of the Bahá'í Faith; Agnes Pelton was a Symbolist painter who embraced metaphysical movements including New Thought Theosophy and Agni Yoga; and Warhol, a leading figure in Pop art, was a lifelong Catholic. Working with biographical materials, social history, affect theory, and the tools of art history, Doss traces the linked subjects of art and religion and proposes a revised interpretation of American modernism.

Children's Stories and 'Child-Time' in the Works of Joseph Cornell and the Transatlantic Avant-Garde Analisa Leppanen-Guerra, 2017-07-05 Focusing on his evocative and profound references to children and their stories, Children's Stories and Child Time in the Works of Joseph Cornell and the Transatlantic Avant Garde studies the relationship between the artist's work on childhood and his search for a transfigured concept of time. This study also situates Cornell and his art in the broader context of the transatlantic avant garde of the 1930s and 40s. Analisa Leppanen-Guerra explores the children's stories that Cornell perceived as fundamental in order to unpack the dense network of associations in his understudied multimedia works. Moving away from the usual focus on his box constructions, the author directs her attention to Cornell's film and theater scenarios, explorations, dossiers, and book objects. One highlight of this study is a work that may well be the first artist's book of its kind and has only been exhibited twice: Untitled Journal d'Agriculture Pratique, presented as Cornell's enigmatic tribute to Lewis Carroll's Alice books.

A Dance of Assassins Allen F.

Roberts, 2013 A Dance of Assassins presents the competing histories of how Congolese Chief Lusinga and Belgian Lieutenant Storms engaged in a deadly clash while striving to establish hegemony along the southwestern shores of Lake Tanganyika in the 1880s. While Lusinga participated in the east African slave trade, Storms' secret mandate was to meet Henry Stanley's eastward march and trace a white line across the Dark Continent to legitimize King Leopold's audacious claim to the Congo. Confrontation was inevitable and Lusinga lost his head. His skull became the subject of a sinister evolutionary treatise while his ancestral figure is now considered a treasure of the Royal Museum for Central Africa. Allen F. Roberts reveals the theatricality of early colonial encounter and how it continues to influence Congolese and Belgian understandings of history today.
