A Bowl Of Remembering:

The Remembering Self Ulric Neisser, Robyn Fivush, 1994-10-28 This book brings a surprisingly wide range of intellectual disciplines to bear on the self narrative and the self The same ecological cognitive approach that successfully organized Ulric Neisser's earlier volume on The Perceived Self now relates ideas from the experimental developmental and clinical study of memory to insights from post modernism and literature Although auto biographical remembering is an essential way of giving meaning to our lives the memories we construct are never fully consistent and often simply wrong In the first chapter Neisser considers the so called false memory syndrome in this context other contributors discuss the effects of amnesia the development of remembering in childhood the social construction of memory and its alleged self servingness and the contrast between literary and psychological models of the self Jerome Bruner Peggy Miller Alan Baddeley Kenneth Gergen and Daniel Albright are among the contributors to this unusual synthesis

Remembering My Life in the Hills of Kentucky Bertha Lee, 2014-06-12 Bert is a young girl growing up in the hills of Kentucky in the 1930s With a coalminer father and a midwife mother life was never boring or easy but with the love of her family anything is possible When the family falls victim to injuries illness and a family death that all falls apart She goes from having a poor happy family to a well off miserable family almost overnight She starts to feel more like a slave than a daughter never really fitting in to her new life All she wants is a place to belong but does she have to run away from home to find it

Remembering the Samsui Women Kelvin E. Y. Low, 2014-03-15 Remembering the Samsui Women tells the story of women from the Samsui area of Guangdong China who migrated to Singapore during a period of economic and natural calamity leaving their families behind In their new country many found work in the construction industry while others worked in households or factories where they were called hong tou jin translated literally as red head scarf after the headgear that protected them from the sun Contributing to current debates in the fields of social memory and migration studies this is the first book to examine how the Samsui women remember their own migratory experiences and how they in turn are remembered as pioneering figures in both Singapore and China

Hollywood Remembered Paul Zollo, 2011-04-16 In Hollywood Remembered a wide array of Tinseltown veterans share their stories of life in the city of dreams from the days of silent pictures to the present The 35 voices many of whom have come to know Hollywood inside out range from film producers and movie stars to restaurateurs and preservationists Actress Evelyn Keyes recalls how fresh from Georgia she met Cecil B DeMille and was soon acting in Gone With the Wind Blacklisted writer Walter Bernstein tells how he transformed his McCarthy era experiences into drama with The Front Steve Allen speaks out on how Hollywood has changed since he first came there in the 1920s and Jonathan Winters relates how he left a mental institution to come work with Stanley Kramer in It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World

Remembered Gary T. King,2006 In 1956 a group of young men sons of the Great Depression were now student athletes in every sense of the phrase Their young coach was on the verge of an unprecedented winning streak and Bud Wilkinson s 56 Sooners formed the touchstone of the University of Oklahoma s football dynasty This team was the heart and soul of OU s record 47 straight victories An Autumn Remembered traces the details of the remarkable 56 season and follows the team into the present through revealing interviews with the principal players In this stirring account Gary T King brings to life a journey filled with memories triumph and glory an autumn truly to be remembered and an experience not to be missed

Human Memory and Amnesia (PLE: Memory) Laird S. Cermak,2014-05-09 Originally published in 1982 this book brings together two areas of research previously studied in parallel with little interaction particularly in the US normal memory processing and the amnesic syndrome When trying to document the relationship between the two it became apparent that there was much crossover and duplication of effort in a number of areas whether long term memory and short term memory truly represent independent storage systems or are simply points on a continuum trying to determine the primary locus of variables influencing the rate at which information is lost during retention whether episodic memory and semantic memory represent two different storage systems or are simply artifacts produced by different kinds of query to a single memory system and finally whether visual and verbal memory are independent It was written following a meeting in 1979 by a small group of investigators brought together to explore this commonality and to share data and theory thus beginning the promise of a bright future of interdisciplinary interaction in memory research The Missing Link in

Cognition Herbert S. Terrace,Janet Metcalfe,2005-01-20 Are humans unique in having self reflective consciousness Or can precursors to this central form of human consciousness be found in non human species The Missing Link in Cognition brings together a diverse group of researchers who have been investigating this question from a variety of perspectives including the extent to which non human primates and indeed young children have consciousness a sense of self thought process metacognitions and representations Some of the participants Kitcher Higgins Nelson and Tulving argue that these types of cognitive abilities are uniquely human whereas others Call Hampton Kinsbourne Menzel Metcalfe Schwartz Smith and Terrace are convinced that at least the precursors to self reflective consciousness exist in non human primates Their debate focuses primarily on the underpinnings of consciousness. Some of the participants believe that consciousness depends on representational thought and on the mental manipulation of such representations. Is representational thought enough to ensure consciousness or does one need more? If one needs more, exactly what is needed? Is reflection upon the representations that is metacognition the link? Does a realization of the contingencies that is knowing that, in Gilbert Ryle's terminology, ensure that a person or an animal is conscious? Is true episodic memory needed for consciousness and if so do any animals have it? Is it possible to have episodic memory or indeed any self-reflective processing without language? Other participants believe that consciousness is inextricably intertwined with a sense of self or self-awareness. From where does this sense of self or self-awareness arise? Some of the participants believe that it develops only through the use of language and the narrative form. If it does develop in this way, what about claims of a sense of self or self-awareness in non-human animals? Others believe that the autobiographical record implied by episodic memory is fundamental. To what extent must non-human animals have the linguistic, metacognitive and/or representational abilities to develop a sense of self or self-awareness? These and other related concerns are crucial in this volume's lively debate over the nature of the missing cognitive link and whether gorillas, chimps or other species might be more like humans than many have supposed.
