Art for Art's Sake and Art for Life's Sake

Role and purpose of art in literature

Literary periods in both principles:

Literary periods that follow the principle of Art for Art's Sake are:

"Romanticism" (late 18th to mid 19th century): A movement that emphasized the individual, the subjective, the irrational, the imaginative, the personal, the emotional, and the visionary aspects of art. It rejected the rationalism, classicism, and realism of the previous periods, and celebrated the power of nature, imagination, and creativity. Some of the famous writers of this period were William Wordsworth, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, John Keats, Percy Bysshe Shelley, Lord Byron, and Victor Hugo.

"Aestheticism" (late 19th century): A movement that advocated for the autonomy and independence of art from moral and social constraints, and celebrated the sensual and decadent aspects of life. It was influenced by the French slogan of "l'art pour l'art" (art for art's sake), and the works of Edgar Allan Poe, Charles Baudelaire, and Walter Pater. Some of the famous writers of this period were Oscar Wilde, Algernon Charles Swinburne, James McNeill Whistler, and Aubrey Beardsley.

"Modernism" (late 19th to mid 20th century): A movement that experimented with new and innovative forms and styles of art, such as symbolism, impressionism, expressionism, surrealism, and cubism. It challenged the traditional conventions and expectations of art, and explored the themes of alienation, fragmentation, and disillusionment in the modern world. Some of the famous writers of this period were T.S. Eliot, James Joyce, Virginia Woolf, Marcel Proust, Franz Kafka, and Ernest Hemingway.

Literary periods that follow the principle of Art for Life's Sake are:

"Realism" (mid 19th to early 20th century): A movement that aimed to depict the reality and complexity of human life, especially the social and economic conditions of the lower and middle classes. It used art as a means of social criticism and reform, exposing the injustices and inequalities of their times. It was influenced by the scientific, political, and industrial developments of the 19th century, and the works of Germaine de Staël, Honoré de Balzac, and Charles Dickens. Some of the famous writers of this period were Gustave Flaubert, George Eliot, Émile Zola, Leo Tolstoy, and Mark Twain.

"Naturalism" (late 19th to early 20th century): A movement that extended the principles of realism to a more deterministic and pessimistic view of human nature and society. It portrayed the characters as products of their heredity, environment, and social forces, and often depicted them as victims of fate, circumstance, and instinct. It was influenced by the theories of Charles Darwin, Auguste Comte, and Hippolyte Taine, and the works of Émile Zola, Gustave Flaubert, and Guy de Maupassant. Some of the famous writers of this period were Stephen Crane, Theodore Dreiser, Frank Norris, and Jack London.

"Social realism" (early to mid 20th century): A movement that focused on the realistic and critical representation of the social issues and problems of the working class and the oppressed groups in society. It used art as a tool of social protest and change, and often expressed a leftist or Marxist ideology. It was influenced by the events of the Great Depression, the World Wars, and the Cold War, and the works of Charles Dickens, Émile Zola, and Upton Sinclair. Some of the famous writers of this period were John Steinbeck, George Orwell, Richard Wright, and John Dos Passos.

Art and Life in Aestheticism Kelly Comfort, 2008-01-23 Art for art's sake addresses the relationship between art and life Although it has long been argued that aestheticism aims to dehumanize art this volume seeks to consider the counterclaim that such dehumanization can also lead to rehumanization and to a deepened relationship between the aesthetic sphere and the world at large

The Politics of Cultural Capital Julia Lovell, 2006-03-31 In the 1980s China s politicians writers and academics began to raise an increasingly urgent question why had a Chinese writer never won a Nobel Prize for literature Promoted to the level of official policy issue and national complex Nobel anxiety generated articles conferences and official delegations to Sweden Exiled writer Gao Xingjian s win in 2000 failed to satisfactorily end the matter and the controversy surrounding the Nobel committee s choice has continued to simmer Julia Lovell s comprehensive study of China s obsession spans the twentieth century and taps directly into the key themes of modern Chinese culture national identity international status and the relationship between intellectuals and politics The intellectual preoccupation with the Nobel literature prize expresses tensions inherent in China's move toward a global culture after the collapse of the Confucian world view at the start of the twentieth century and particularly since China's re entry into the world economy in the post Mao era Attitudes toward the prize reveal the same contradictory mix of admiration resentment and anxiety that intellectuals and writers have long felt toward Western values as they struggled to shape a modern Chinese identity In short the Nobel complex reveals the pressure points in an intellectual community not entirely sure of itself Making use of extensive original research including interviews with leading contemporary Chinese authors and critics The Politics of Cultural Capital is a comprehensive up to date treatment of an issue that cuts to the heart of modern and contemporary Chinese thought and culture It will be essential reading for scholars of modern Chinese literature and culture globalization post colonialism and comparative and world literature The "I" and the "Eye" Pragyan Rath, 2011-05-25 The paradigmatic moment of the opposition between the verbal and the visual arts may be seen in Lessing's treatise on the Laocoön sculptural group written in 1766 a moment that is identified within a historical framework of modern aesthetics that begins In Defence of Modernity Efraim Podoksik, 2013-05-14 Although Oakeshott's philosophy has received considerable attention the vision which underlies it has been almost completely ignored This vision which is rooted in the intellectual debates of his epoch cements his ideas into a coherent whole and provides a compelling defence of modernity The main feature of Oakeshott's vision of modernity is seen here as radical plurality resulting from fragmentation of experience and society On the level of experience modernity denies the existence of the hierarchical medieval scheme and argues that there exist independent ways of understanding our world such as science and history which cannot be reduced to each other On the level of society modernity finds expression in liberal doctrine according to which society is an aggregate of individuals each pursuing his or her own choices For Oakeshott to be modern means not only to recognise this condition of radical plurality but also to learn to appreciate and enjoy it Oakeshott did not think that it was possible to find a comprehensive philosophical justification for modernity therefore the only way to preserve modern civilisation seemed to be an appeal to sentiment As a consequence he was a passionate defender of liberal education as the best way to underwrite the conversation of mankind Modernism's History Bernard Smith, 1998-01-01 The history of twentieth century visual arts can no longer be written as a succession of avant garde movements contends eminent art historian Bernard Smith in this stimulating book He argues that a return to the concept of period style is inevitable and that modernism the dominant style of art that emerged at the end of the nineteenth century and continued through the 1960s deserves recognition as a period style Smith renames this period Formalesque since it is no longer modern and since it emphasizes the formal values of art more than any previous period does In a wide ranging reformulation of art history in the twentieth century the author defines the nature and development of Formalesque an avant garde style that arose between 1890 and the First World War was institutionalized between the world wars and flourished anew between 1945 and 1960

Identifying the Formalesque period says Smith makes it possible also to identify dialectical adversaries such true oppositional avant garde styles of the twentieth century as Dada Surrealism and the Neue Sachlichkeit These constitute the formative elements of the modernism now called postmodernism that became increasingly dominant after 1960 The author locates twentieth century artistic movements and developments in a broad cultural context and concludes with a thought provoking examination of the relation between the Formalesque and European and American cultural imperialism Inexorable Modernity Hiroshi Nara,2007-01-01 Beginning in the late Edo period the Japanese faced a rapidly and irreversibly changing world in which industrialization westernization and internationalization were exerting pressure upon an entrenched traditional culture The Japanese themselves felt threatened by Western powers with their sense of superiority and military might Yet the Japanese were more prepared to meet this challenge than was thought at the time and they used a variety of strategies to address the tension between modernity and tradition Inexorable Modernity illuminates our understanding of how Japan has dealt with modernity and of what mechanisms universal and local we can attribute to the mode of negotiation between tradition and modernity in three major forms of art theatre the visual arts and literature Dr Hiroshi Nara brings together a thoughtful collection of essays that demonstrate that traditional and modern approaches to life draw from one another and tradition whether real or created was sought out in order to find a way to live with the burden of modernity Inexorable Modernity is a valuable and enlightening read for those interested in Asian studies and history Book jacket

Textual Practice Jean Howard,Alan Sinfield,Lindsay Smith,2005-06-27 In this volume Textual Practice brings together some of its most pressing concerns by exploring the interaction of texts with language politics gender and history Textual Practice has a theoretical approach that crosses over into a range of other apparently disparate disciplines philosophy history law medicine science architechtrure gender and media studies Key Features Features the most exciting new voices and the most influential new scholars in the field Multidisciplinary Includes two articles on Ireland _ _ _ The Japanese Ideology Tosaka Jun,2024-09-17 A major Marxist thinker and critic in 1930s Japan Tosaka Jun was among the world s most incisive yet underrecognized theorists of capitalism fascism and ideology during the years before World War II The Japanese Ideology is his masterpiece first published in 1935 as Japan and the world plummeted into an age of reaction Tosaka offers a ruthless philosophical critique of contemporary ideology that exposes liberalism s deep complicity with fascism The Japanese Ideology provides a materialist analysis of the reactionary ideology then overtaking Japan with profound significance for anywhere fascism has taken root Modeled after Marx and Engels s The German Ideology it critiques idealism as the common ground for liberalism and fascism against which only historical materialism can suffice Tosaka demonstrates how liberal and fascist ideas at once justified and concealed Japan s colonization of East Asia and he investigates the many traces of fascism in Japanese thought and society The Japanese Ideology makes an important intervention in Marxist theory by criticizing reliance on the East West binary and the notion of the Asiatic mode of production Robert Stolz s translation introduces

Anglophone readers to a classic of twentieth century Marxist thought by an unsung peer of Gramsci and Benjamin with striking relevance today
