Prehistoric Man; Researches Into Andean Archaeology III William

Isbell, Helaine Silverman, 2006-11-30 Andean Archaeology III represents a continuation in our effort to highlight the nest of current archaeological scholarship conducted in the Central Andean culture area Each paper contributes in a significant way to understanding prehistoric processes in the Central Andean culture tradition adding importantly to the rich base provided by Andean Archaeology I and II As in those former volumes we do not seek a balanced presentation of the entirety of the Andean past but instead showcase what is new what is innovative and what is controversial in thinking about and investigating the great sweep of Andean cultural development We wholeheartedly agree with Pauketat 2001 xiii that it is more satisfying to compare how cultural phenomena happened than for researchers to hasten to answer why questions that tend more to reify their initial assumptions than to inform us about prehistoric people and their embodied cultural practices We support the revitalized study of sociocultural evolution especially that championed by Bruce Trigger e.g. 1998 2003 which has benefited by several decades of valuable critique On the other hand explanation of the past not based on comparisons of historical processes carefully argued from well studied archaeological records sacrifice the rigor that was such an important part of the first processual archaeology advocated by Lewis Binford 1962 1964 1972 Sabloff 1998 see also Yoffee 2005 in et alia In some recent and current Andean archaeology we find explanatory conclusions especially processual evolutionary transformations and climate change based rise or collapse accounts to have been reached too hastily constituting more of a reading of material remains in terms of theoretical expectations than a rigorous interrogation of the archaeological record

Andean Archaeology II Helaine Silverman, William H. Isbell, 2015-01-28 The origins and development of civilization are vital components to the understanding of the cultural processes that create human societies Comparing and contrasting the evolutionary sequences from different civilizations is one approach to discovering their unique development One area for comparison is in the Central Andes where several societies remained in isolation without a written language As a direct result the only resource to understand these societies is their material artifacts In this second volume the focus is on the art and landscape remains and what they uncover about societies of the Central Andes region The ancient art and landscape revealing the range and richness of the societies of the area significantly shaped the development of Andean archaeology This work includes discussions on pottery and textiles iconography and symbols ideology geoglyphs and rock art This volume will be of interest to Andean archaeologists cultural and historical anthropologists material archaeologists and Latin American historians
