Companion Encyclopedia of Anthropology Tim Ingold, 2002-09-11 Provides a comprehensive survey of contemporary thinking in biological social and cultural anthropology and establishes the interconnections between these three fields Useful cross references within the text with full biographical references and suggestions for further reading Carefully illustrated with line drawings and photographs The Companion Encyclopedia of Anthropology is a welcome addition to the reference literature Bringing together authoritative incisive and scrupulously edited contributions from some three dozen authors The book achieves an impressive breadth of coverage of specialist areas Times Higher Educational Supplement Recommended for all anthropology collections especially those in academic libraries Library Journal This is a marvellous book and I am very happy to recommend it Reference Reviews

Companion Encyclopaedia of Anthropology Tim Ingold, 2021-12-24 This comprehensive survey of contemporary thought in biological social and cultural anthropology sets the foundation for their future development and integration The principal rationale behind the Encyclopedia is to overcome the division and fragmentation within the approaches of the humanities and natural sciences to anthropology It emphasizes interconnections between perspectives and sub disciplines producing a complete perspective on what it means to be human The work consists of three parts Humanity Culture and Social Life and 40 major contributions Part One emphasizes human beings as members of a species how that species differs from others how it has evolved and how human populations have adapted to and in turn transformed their environments Part Two deals with the origin and structure of human culture and on the role of culture in action perception and cognition Part Three examines the various aspects of the relationships and processes that are carried on by persons and groups in the course of social life Useful features such as cross references within the text full biographical references suggestions for further reading and carefully illustrated line drawings make this an indispensable resource for all students of anthropology or sociology Pacific Art Anita Herle, 2002-01-01 Contributors explore the complex relations among Pacific artists patrons collectors and museums over time as well as the different meanings given to art objects by each

Social and Environmental Impacts of the James Bay Hydroelectric Project James F. Hornig, 1999 Planning and construction of the James Bay Hydroelectric project began in the early 1970s when the effect of such projects on the physical and social environment was seldom considered As the project matured however its unique and diverse environmental impacts came under intense scrutiny on both sides of the border The first mega scale hydro project to be built in the sub Arctic capable of generating as much electricity as fifteen nuclear power plants its impact includes disruption of vast areas in an extremely fragile ecosystem as well as displacement of native peoples and the introduction of dangerous levels of mercury into their food supply The debate over these complex environmental issues has been further complicated by political issues stemming from the importance of the project to the economic development of Quebec and the sale of at least ten percent of the electricity generated the United States The contributors examine core issues of the controversy both in relation to James Bay and to other large hydroelectric projects such as the Aswan dam in Egypt and the Three Gorges dam in China Providing insights from an unusual variety of disciplines the authors offer important considerations that must be taken into account as Quebec assesses additional phases of hydroelectric development of the watershed east of Hudson Bay Contributors include Raymond B Coppinger Hampshire College Bill Dale Roebuck Dartmouth Medical School Will Ryan Hampshire College Adrian Tanner Memorial University Stanley L Warner Hampshire College Kessler E Woodward University of Alaska and Oran R Young Dartmouth College James F Hornig is professor emeritus of chemistry and environmental studies Dartmouth College

Beauty in Context Wilfried van Damme,2021-11-01 This is the first study to survey the field of the anthropology of aesthetics which during the last few decades has emerged on the cross roads between anthropology and non Western art scholarship While critically examining the available literature thereby addressing such basic issues as the existence of aesthetic universals the author elaborates on a central thesis which concerns the relationship between aesthetic preference and sociocultural ideals Drawing on empirical data from several African cultures he demonstrates that varying notions of beauty are inspired by varying sociocultural ideals thus shedding light on the phenomenon of cultural relativism in aesthetic preference Emphasizing unity within diversity the systematic anthropological approach offered in this volume invites the reader to reconsider aesthetic preference from an empirical cross cultural and contextual perspective Unpacking Culture Ruth B. Phillips,Christopher B. Steiner,1999-01-30 An outstanding set of studies that work well with each other to produce truly substantial and rich insights into the making and consuming of art in the colonial and post colonial world Susan S Bean Curator Peabody Essex Museum The Petroglyphs and Pictographs of Missouri Carol Diaz-Granados,James R. Duncan,2000-03-21 This comprehensive guide to the rock art of Missouri presents major design motifs and links those images to Native American beliefs Constructing a Sociology of the Arts Vera L. Zolberg,1990-02-23 At a time when a pile of bricks is displayed in a museum when music is composed for performance underwater and the boundaries between popular and fine art are fluid conventional understandings of art are strained in describing what art is what it includes or excludes whether and how it should be evaluated and what importance should be assigned the arts in society In this book Vera Zolberg examines diverse theoretical approaches to the study of the arts Ranging over humanistic and social scientific views representing a variety of scholarly traditions American and European she then develops a sociological approach that evaluates the institutional economic and political influences on the creation of art while also affirming the importance of the question of artistic quality The author examines the arts in the social contexts in which they are created and appreciated focusing on the ways in which people become artists the institutions in which their careers develop the supports and pressures they face the publics they need to please and the political forces with which they must contend Particular subjects covered include the process by which works are created and re created at different times with changed meanings and for material culture like houses palaces and works of art are often loaded with symbolic meaning Reading the landscape or giving meaning to the natural environment is a cultural act as well and one must discover what mountains coastlines and islands mean to different groups of people In this book written on the occasion of Professor Reimar Schefold's retirement from the Department of Cultural Anthropology at Leiden University colleagues and former students from the Netherlands and abroad demonstrate the variety and wealth of the field of symbolic anthropology The regional focus of the book is Indonesia The studies presented range from small island communities in western northern and eastern Indonesia to urban settlements in Java and Sumatra All the contributions are in one way or another related to Reimar Schefold's work over the past thirty five years work that includes extensive studies on material culture rituals and the use of symbols in the expression of ethnicity among the various cultural groups of Indonesia

The Temptation Julia S. Ardery, 1998 Why beginning in the late 1960s did expressive objects made by poor people come to be regarded as twentieth century folk art increasingly sought after by the middle class and the wealthy Julia Ardery explores that question through the life story of

Uncollected Writings Richard Wollheim, 2025-01-21 Richard Wollheim's 1923-2003 was the leading voice in the philosophy of art in the Anglo American tradition during the second half of the twentieth century This volume serves two purposes First at the time of his death Wollheim was composing a short book comprising two lectures first delivered respectively at Barcelona and at Lawrence Kansas versions of which appeared in 1994 On Formalism and Its Kinds and 2001 On Formalism and Pictorial Organisation plus substantial new material The whole text is reproduced here for the first time The material offers new considerations in favour of his psychological conception of pictorial art as against the semiotic conception arguments for the inadequacy of formalism and close and compelling analyses of pictures by Ruisdael Monet and others using in novel ways his well known ideas in pictorial aesthetics to arrive at a theory of pictorial organisation Second although Wollheim was well served by various collections of his work to 1994 at that point some important articles and reviews had yet to be selected for republication in some cases available only in locations difficult to access as well as his having published further work after 1994 The present volume fills both gaps it thus provides the final pieces for a complete collection of Wollheim's works in the philosophy of art This is one of three planned volumes of Wollheim's previously uncollected work for Oxford University Press The others are Writing on Political Philosophy edited by Jonathan Wolff and Writing on Philosophy and the Mind edited by Garry Hagberg

Stitching Rites Suzanne Pollock MacAulay, 2000-08 In the San Luis Valley of southern Colorado there thrives a folk tradition with links to both the past and future Colcha embroidery is a traditional Spanish colonial style of textile bed covering or wall hanging dating from the early nineteenth century In the first book to consider this craft Suzanne MacAulay provides a detailed account of this folk art tradition that is both old and constantly renewing itself presenting a sensitive portrayal of artists and the contexts in which they live and work Stitching Rites reveals how art history and memory interweave in a rich creative web Based on archival research and on extensive interviews with artists the book reveals the personal motivations of the embroiderers and their relationships with their work with each other with their community and with outsiders Through stitchers like Josephine Lobato and the San Luis Ladies Sewing Circle MacAulay shows how colcha creation is bound up in a perpetual round of cultural commentary and self reflection MacAulay includes detailed descriptions of changes in stitching techniques themes and styles to show the impact of a wide range of outside influences on the lives of the artists and on the art form She also provides a discussion of New Mexican Carson colchas and their place in the collector market By focusing on the individual creative act she shows how colcha embroidery is used to record how a stitcher s memories of her life are intertwined with the history of her community Through this picture of a community of embroiderers MacAulay helps us to understand their stitching rites and sheds new light on the relationship between Hispanic and Anglo cultures

Art and Creativity in a New Guinea Society Ross Bowden,2022-07-26 The Kwoma the subject of this book are one of a number of peoples in the Sepik River region of northern Papua New Guinea who have created some of the most distinctive visual art in the Pacific Through case studies of their painting sculpture architecture and ritual this book examines in detail how people in this society understand their art as a cultural phenomenon This includes how they understand its origins in the spirit world how they judge quality in art and how they understand artistic creativity The book contrasts Kwoma beliefs with the radically different approach to art found in the modern West The modern Western concept of art first emerged not in the eighteenth century in the Enlightenment or even later as anthropologists and art historians often assume but several centuries earlier in the Renaissance The book gives an account of radical changes that took place culturally in Europe between the twelfth and sixteenth centuries in the way human intellectual creativity was understood and how this gave rise to a new concept of art one that remains unchanged in the modern West today
