Art of Central Africa Hans-Joachim Koloss,1990 The Scramble for Art in Central Africa Enid Schildkrout,Curtis A. Keim,1998-03-28 Western attitudes to Africa have been influenced to an extraordinary degree by the arts and artefacts that were brought back by the early collectors exhibited in museums and celebrated by scholars and artists in the metropolitan centres The contributors to this volume trace the life history of artefacts that were brought to Europe and America from Congo towards the end of the nineteenth century and became the subjects of museum displays They also present fascinating case studies of the pioneering collectors including such major figures as Frobenius and Torday They discuss the complex and sensitive issues involved in the business of collecting and show how the collections and exhibitions influenced academic debates about the categories of art and artefact and the notion of authenticity and challenged conventional aesthetic values as modern Western artists began to draw on African models Art of Central Africa ,1990

visions of leadership and prestige that fostered the development of the majestic elaborate figure styles long prized in the West. These sculptures nevertheless retain the mysterious potency of more humble objects trusted for centuries to protect, heal, and harm. Art and Power in the Central African Savanna examines an artistic culture in which the sacred and the secular are indivisible and aesthetic and moral value inseparable. Arts of Central Africa Leslie Lund, 1994 Royal Museum of Central Africa (Belgium) Royal Museum of Central Africa (Belgium), Luluwa. Central African Art Between Heaven and Earth Constantine Petridis, 2018. Living in the region between the Lubudi and Kasai rivers in south central Democratic Republic of the Congo, the Luluwa people are known for their elaborately carved male and female figure sculptures, masks, and decorative arts. Constantine Petridis draws on first-hand accounts of numerous explorers, missionaries, colonial servants, anthropologists, and art historians who visited the region between the 1880s and the 1970s to comprehensively situate the Luluwa's ornate art in its original environment of production and use. Through a close study of published and unpublished sources as well as museum objects and archival photographs, this book sheds new light on the historical context of one of central Africa's most spectacular artistic legacies, whose creation presumably dates back to the second half of the 19th century.
